Borrowing of Bond Funds Suggested.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Unable to sell tax anticipation warrants to the bankers or the public and hard pressed for cash with which to meet city pay rolls, City Controller S. M. Szymczak has conferred with Corporation Counsel Sexton and public improvements are suspended. The city also has had a letter similar to yesterday's from Assistant Corporation Counsel Lyle A. Kimbark, who is Commissioner of Public Works pro tem, who also heads the city economy commission. Hornsby hinted whether Sprague defeat or withdraw prepared to accompany the plans suggested by the city council.

Can't Sell Bond Money.

The evident purpose of stopping all public improvements is to save the bond money, on tax anticipation warrants, to meet the mounting pay rolls.

Since 1 there was an aggregate of $135,000,000 in the various bond funds of the city, but as work has proceeded during the month, part of this sum has been paid out. The exact balances in the city treasury, credited to each fund, are shown in the following list:

	Amount.

At that time there was an aggregate of $135,443 in the city treasury, of which $74,969,286 was cash and $61,469,177 was in tax certificates and bonds. At that time the amount in the treasury has materially increased because of the distribution of taxes by the county treasurer to the various governments.

Much of the taxes received has been used to pay off tax warrants in the hands of the public, but despite this there has been an accumulation of cash in the treasury in excess of $20,000,000 there on June 1. Much of this sum, however, is incumbered by obligations, so that little of it is actually available for investment in tax anticipation warrants.

Permitted by Statute.

Statutes permit the city to invest its own funds. It is permitted by law to sell tax anticipation to its own idle funds. Often when a loan is sold and the money paid into the treasury some of that cash may be expended on the improvement for which the bonds were issued a short time later. In such a case the cash has been invested in tax anticipation warrants.

Ever since the city has had the power to invest in its surplus and idle funds has any one suggested that public improvements be halted in order that the cash could be conserved for the current operation of the city.

County, state, and local officials for months back were urging appropriations and expenditures for public improvements in order to relieve industrial depression.

Can't Sell Tax Warrants.

The city, judging from the controller's statement of the city law department, has been unable to find a buyer for its tax warrants for the tax year 1931. Aside from the municipal income from licenses and miscellaneous sources, which is running 19 per cent behind last year—the city's only source for current expenses is obtainable from the sale of warrants anticipating taxes.

Only about 91 per cent of the 1929 taxes have been collected to date, and the city has been

however, the suspension were not to apply to the unconditional portion of German reparations, the reich would be compelled to pay 185 millions, of which France would receive about 100 millions, despite the suspension of other payments.

In any event, the sacrifice France would make under complete suspension of all payments for a year would be only a fraction of that of the United States, which will amount to 246 millions.

There was some thought that it might be necessary to call a special session of congress to meet a short time in advance of Dec. 7, the regular date for convening, in order that the necessary legislation might surely be passed before the next debt payments became due Dec. 15.

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] declared his belief, however, that no such special session would be necessary. The essential legislation would go through congress without any great opposition, he believed, and at the most its passage, he figured, would occupy a month or a month and a half.

Hoover Not Worried.

In the light of Senator Smoot's statement it appears that the administration is not worried about getting congressional approval prior to Dec. 15. The executive proposal, it seems, is to be sufficient authority for postponement of the war debts payments.

According to the White House, Mr. Hoover began consideration of the project on June 5, when word was received of the run on the Creditanstalt of Austria, the collapse of which was later averted by a British loan. On the same day a run had started on the Reichsbank of Germany.

On that date, which was the day before the German and British statesmen met at the Chequers conference, Mr. Hoover, it was stated, called into conference Secretary Stimson, Secretary Mellon of the treasury, and the undersecretary, of the treasury, Ogden Mills. He suggested the course that has now been adopted. At that conference he asked Secretary Mellon, who was about to sail for Europe, to investigate the situation abroad. The President also called upon the various departments of the government for fullest information regarding the situation in European countries.

He Works in Secret.

Ever since June 5 the President has held daily conferences with officials of the government and members of congress and others regarding the proposed moratorium. These conferences continued while he was on his recent western trip.

The President did not finally determine upon his course of action until he had received reports from Secretary Mellon on his conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Minister Henderson and Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. After two telephone conversations between Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills on Saturday, Mr. Hoover decided that the need of relief measures was of such urgency that the launching of his project should no longer be delayed.

Unofficial suggestions emanating from Paris that the French government was likely to propose a world conference on the debt question in lieu of acceptance of the President's one year moratorium were not hospitably received at the state department. Mr. Stimson said that to hold such a conference would be to delay and perhaps render ineffective the President's proposal so far as the financial situation at home and abroad is concerned.

British Envoy Concurs.

Sir Donald Lindsay, the British ambassador, advised Secretary Stimson today of the sympathetic attitude of his government toward the President's proposal. He had a conference with the undersecretary of state, Mr. Castle, who also conferred with the minister from Austria.

Minister Prochnik of Austria said, after his call upon Undersecretary Castle at the state department, that he had expressed the approval of his government of President Hoover's proposal.

BRITISH HONOR ANDREW MELLON; GIVE HIM DEGREE

Canada Approves Plan for Year's Moratorium

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 22.—"The government is heartily in accord with any plan that may be put forward by the President of the United States that will do anything toward relieving worldwide conditions," said Premier Bennett in the commons today, answering a query by James Woodsworth, Laborite. President Hoover's proposal would cost Canada $4,000,000 in German reparation payments.

ECONOMIST SEES NEED OF CHANGE IN HOOVER PLAN

Keynes Calls Proposal a World Stabilizer.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

President Hoover's proposal for a year's moratorium on war debts is a "fine piece of policy," but it requires two modifications, in the opinion of John Maynard Keynes, English economist. He says the moratorium will exert a "stabilizing influence" in the recovery from the world economic slump, and give a breathing space for adjustments, and is a "first step" of greatest practical value.

JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES.

The two modifications Mr. Keynes deems essential relate to the point of view of France, which would be involved in a loss of $100,000,000 for its budget, and, second, they refer to whether Germany would pay a "double dose" in 1932-'33 or whether the whole scheme of payments is to be extended a year.

Gives Talk at University.

Mr. Keynes, who is probably best known in America for his book in 1919, "The Economic Consequences of the Peace," made these comments last night at the University of Chicago, as a preface to a lecture at the first session of the Norman Wait Harris Memorial Foundation.

"The proposal of President Hoover," he said, "will undoubtedly exercise an immediately favorable influence on the situation, provided it is accepted by the other interested parties; and it will provide a breathing space for a more thorough discussion of the whole problem as it has now disclosed itself. But there are two rather obvious comments which have to be made.

The Sacrifice Asked of France.

"The proposal involves substantial sacrifice on the part of the United States, but it also calls for a substantial sacrifice on the part of France. In round figures, France receives under the present scheme $200,000,000, and pays out $100,000,000. Suspension, therefore, involves her for the time being in a loss of no less than $100,000,000.

"Doubtless she will begin by resisting such a sacrifice, even though the public opinion of the world may ultimately induce her to accept it. And in making this resistance she will be entitled to some measure of sympathy.

"She may be expected to retort that the Young plan provided for any concessions which might be made by the United States, to be passed on to Germany, and if the plan does not provide for concessions made just in the form in which the President has offered them it could easily be adapted to this offer.

Sees Diplomatic Problem Ahead.

"Thus France will doubtless be prepared to accept the plan to the extent of handing on to Germany the equivalent of the concessions made by the United States, but it does not follow that she will be prepared herself to make so large a sacrifice as that for which the President's plan calls.

"President Hoover, therefore, will soon be faced with the question of whether he is prepared to modify his plan to meet the French point of view. If France makes some counter-proposal nearer to the Young plan than this is, and involving some continued payments by Germany to France, he will be faced, I think, with a diplomatic problem of some considerable difficulty. For if he makes any material concessions his plan will easily be spoilt and become quite inadequate to the situation.

At End of Year—What?

"The second question relates to what is to happen after the expiration of a year. President Hoover has not made it clear whether the postponement he has in mind is for a period of one year, so that Germany and every one else would have to pay a double dose in 1932-'33, or whether the whole scheme of payments is to be pushed forward one year, with the result of not increasing the payments in any future year but only of extending by one year the total duration of payment.

"In the first case the problem as to what is to happen at the end of the year arises in acute form. It will obviously do little or no good if Germany has to look forward to double payments a year hence, which would obviously prove impossible for her to make.

A First Step of Value.

"Perhaps we may assume, therefore, that President Hoover either means already, or shortly will mean, the second interpretation of his plan which I offer above. But even then it is unlikely that a year will be sufficient to solve the problems of Europe; that is, unless there is a considerable rise in the level of commodity prices.

"The President deceives himself if he supposes that matters can stop at the point to which he has advanced them. But this is so obvious that he may be assumed to be well aware of it himself. He has taken a first step of the greatest practical value to the immediate situation."

He Discusses the Depression.

Mr. Keynes is fellow and bursar of King's college, Cambridge; editor of the Economic Journal, and at the Paris peace conference he was principal representative of the British treasury. He said it seems "an extraordinary imbecility" that the burst of productive energy during 1925-'29 should prove a curtain raiser for a world-wide depression.

"I find the explanation of the current business losses," he said, "of the reduction of output and of the unemployment which necessarily ensues on this, not in the high level of investment which was proceeding up to the spring of 1929, but in the subsequent cessation of this investment.

"I see no hope of a recovery except in a revival of the high level of investment."

"World Can End Slump."

He asserted the world is in the middle of the "greatest economic catastrophe" of modern history, but that it can come out of the slump "if only we choose, or rather, if those choose who are in authority in the world."

"There is, I think," he said, "a possibility—I will not put it higher than that—that when this crisis is looked back upon by the economic historians, it will be seen to be one of the major turning points. For it is a possibility that the duration of the slump may be much more prolonged than most people are expecting and that much will be changed, both in our ideas and our methods, before we emerge.

"The leading characteristic of the period [1925-'29] was an extraordinary willingness to borrow money for the purposes of real new investment at very high rates of interest—rates of interest which were extravagantly high on prewar standards."

The English economist cited the "prodigious and incredible" investment activity in the United States.

"In the four years 1925 to 1928," he said, "the total of new construction in the United States amounted to 33 billion dollars. This was, if you can credit it, at an average rate of 800 million dollars a month for 48 months consecutively. It was more than double the amount of construction in the four years 1919 to 1922.

"Meanwhile a sort of semi-investment, installment buying, was going on at the same speed. More important still, the United States was a free purchaser of all kinds of foreign bonds, good, bad, and indifferent—a free lender for investment purposes to the rest of the world.

"While some of the investment was doubtless ill-judged and unfruitful, there can be little doubt that the world was enormously enriched by the construction of 1925 to 1929—its wealth increased in these five years by as much as in any other ten or twenty years of history."

Analyzes Investment Decline.

Decline of investment, Mr. Keynes argued, and the slump were due to a complex of causes, which he enumerated:

"Too high a rate of interest. Borrowers could not earn on new investments the interest rates they were paying.

"Even if some new investments could earn these high rates, in the course of time all the best propositions had get taken up, and the cream was off the business. In other words, the increased supply of capital goods meant the rate of interest was due for a fall if further expansion was to be possible.

"But just at this moment, far from falling, the rate of interest was rising. Efforts of the Federal Reserve banks to check the boom on Wall street were making borrowing exceedingly dear. A further consequence of the dear money in the United States was to exercise a drag on the gold of the rest of the world and to cause a credit contraction everywhere."

How Nations Fare Under Debt Plan

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—Under the terms of the proposal made by President Hoover for a one-year moratorium on all intergovernment debts, Germany would be relieved of payments of about $406,440,660 and all of the other major nations involved would make sacrifices about as follows:

United States, $246,000,000; France, $36,750,610; Great Britain, $19,963,700; Italy, $9,132,695.

These figures were based upon calculations made today by treasury officials, who are now working out a detailed table.

The relief given to Germany on reparations and debts, subject to revisions when official tabulations are completed, would be about as follows:

REPARATIONS.

Nation owed.	Amount.
Great Britain	86,328,400
Italy	45,448,560
Others	54,190,500
Total	$385,574,340

WAR DEBTS.

United States	$ 15,745,020

SPECIAL PAYMENT.

Belgium	5,121,300
Grand total	$406,440,660

In addition Germany pays $20,725,400 service charges on the external loan of 1924, but this is not included in payments to be suspended. The United States would suspend payments about as follows:

Debtor—	Amount.
Great Britain	$159,530,000
France	50,000,000
Italy	14,706,125
Others	21,974,000
Total	$246,000,125

The war debt of Germany to the United States is calculated at $15,745,020 and the treasury is making a study to determine what part of this is to be sacrificed. About $6,000,000 annually represents payment on the cost of the American army of occupation on the Rhine.

The effect on France would be about as follows:

Debtor—	Amount.
Germany	$199,706,880
Others	1,834,140
Total	$201,541,020
Creditor—	Amount.
United States	$ 50,000,000
Great Britain	64,790,400
Total	$114,790,400
Net loss	86,750,620

The effect on Italy would be about as follows:

Debtor.	Amount.
Germany	$ 45,448,560
Great Britain	1,214,550
Total	$ 46,663,350
Creditor—	Amount.
United States	$ 14,706,125
Great Britain	22,819,560
Total	$ 37,525,685
Net loss	9,138,695

LEWIS HOPES DEBT HOLIDAY WILL REVISE VERSAILLES TREATY

Returning to Chicago from Washington yesterday, Senator James Hamilton Lewis expressed the hope that President Hoover's proposal for a year's moratorium on war debts would be only the first step toward a revision of the treaty of Versailles.

"The treaty was written in passion and sealed in hate," he said. "It is time now that the nations be brought together in the coolness of the day, looking to realignment in friendships and in distribution of either the prizes of victory or the conquests which were put upon the defeated."

Senator Lewis predicted that work on the new Chicago postoffice would begin by July 4.

Statesmen at Capital Generally Favor Debt Deferment, but with Reservations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—Senators and representatives here in Washington expressed themselves today in favor of suspending war debt and reparation payments — but with various qualifications and comments.

WILLIAM H. KING. [Acme Photo.]

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] declared that he had believed all along and still believes that the war debts to the United States will never be paid in full. He denied, however, that the year's suspension would be the first step toward repudiation.

Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] termed President Hoover's proposal a reversion to Wilsonian doctrine, and said he feared that one year's clemency toward Germany might lead her to refuse to pay anything in the future.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] was firm in insisting that suspending payments for a year was not to be interpreted as in any way linking Europe's war debts to the United States and Germany's reparations debts to the allied nations.

Representative John M. Evans [Dem., Mont.] said he would probably favor the suspension but not until the administration had done something to help out the unemployed in this country.

"Not Altruism"—Smoot.

Senator Smoot said that he looked on the President's proposal not as a piece of international altruism but as a piece of business common sense.

"You cannot let any nation go under without harming the whole world," he said, "and Germany was in danger of going under. That would have meant a new burden on the already burdened shoulders of the world. When people talk about doing something for this country, let them remember that it is as much self-interest as the desire to help others which impels the United States to take this step.

"It is the only thing possible to do. It is what banks do to their debtors every day."

Senator Smoot denied that President Hoover's proposal in effect recognized an affinity between debt payments and reparations. Nor did he fear, he said, that suspension would be a first step toward cancellation.

"I have always thought," he admitted, "that the war debts would never be paid in full. The United States was generous, was absolutely fair, and settled on the ability of the debtor nations' capacity to pay. But I look for the debtor nations to default sooner or later. There will be nothing we can do about it, though, as penalty, the credit of the defaulting nation would be shattered.

Effect Immediate on Finances.

"The President's step will probably have an immediate effect upon the financial world, as evidenced by the stock market rise today."

Senator Smoot remarked that the deferment would mean in all about three hundred and fifty million dollars added to the deficit of the United States treasury next year.

He was insistent that no special session would be necessary. He declared the matter could be handled by a simple resolution or bill.

"The tariff is more justified than when it was written," he asserted. "I am receiving more demands for tariff increases than at any previous time in many years. Prosperity and the tariff will be the issues in 1932, and the Republicans will welcome this," he said, also conceding national prohibition would be in the picture.

"Back to Wilson Theory."

President Hoover has repudiated Republican doctrine and turned back to the Wilsonian theory of international interdependence, Senator King declared.

"He is recognizing at last what Democracy has known all along," said the senator, "that the nations of the world, the United States included, cannot remain isolated. Had we joined the league of nations long ago we might have been able to prevent such a crisis as that existing today. Certainly we would be wielding far more influence in world affairs."

"I shall certainly support the plan for suspension," he said, "though what I am afraid of now is that as a result of the postponement of payments for a year Germany may be encouraged to rise up and refuse to pay anything more. With Great Britain, France, Italy, and the United States carrying great war burdens as the result of a war Germany started, I certainly am not willing to forgive Germany her entire war debts."

Senator Fletcher said suspension must not be allowed to become an entering wedge for cancellation. For European nations to repudiate their debts to this country, he said, would be "dishonest and immoral."

While a secondary factor, to postpone payments will place this country in a favorable trading position in arguing for disarmament at the coming Geneva conference, said Senator Fletcher.

"In view of the financial situation abroad the President's proposal is timely, considerate, thoughtful, and generous," Senator Fletcher continued. "Last week the Bank of International Settlements and the Bank of England were called on to save central Europe from financial disaster and responded. This sort of thing affects adversely and seriously neighboring nations. Borders, mountains or seas are no barriers. It aims at the foundations of finance. It is like a contagion which must be checked. It has a shocking capacity for growth."

Other Opinions.

Representative Evans said:

"An afterthought is better than no thought at all. The administration passed a tariff bill that dislocated the commerce of the world, put millions of people out of work and made it impossible for Germany to pass her bills and we are now asked to postpone the evil day.

"To remit Germany's payment is equivalent to taking two or three hundred millions out of the United States treasury, but when we ask for a few million to feed hungry Americans it is characterized as a dole. I shall probably vote for this suspension, but not until some steps are taken to care for our own unemployed."

Other comments follow:

Senator William Harris [Dem., Ga.]—The President is trying to do a good thing. It will help the cotton and wheat markets and every other industry.

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.]—We ought to be willing to modify the terms and postpone payment of interest during the present economic depression.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.]—The plan seems to meet the economic needs of the world in the best possible manner. To be sure, it will cost France 100 million dollars to agree to it and it will cost us more than twice that much, but under all the circumstances it was the wisest thing to do.

ACT THURSDAY ON PROBLEM OF HOUSING BOYS

Some decision on the problem confronting Juvenile court officials in the closing of the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys and its partner institution, the Oaks, may be reached in a conference to be held here Thursday between Judge Mary E. Bartelme and Radney Brandon, state superintendent of public welfare. Means of handling the 177 inmates, many of whom are "borderline cases," must be found before July 1, when the schools will be closed by vote of the county board because of lack of funds.

Hope has not been abandoned that the state may decide to take over these wards, either leasing the two institutions from the county or placing the boys in boarding homes under a probationary system of supervision.

ROME, June 22.—Fifteen life sentences were given today by the court of assizes at Sciacca, Sicily, at the end of the trial which has been going on for almost a year against a gang of 178 men belonging to the Mafia. The court distributed a total of more than 1,200 years imprisonment among 109 of the remaining prisoners. Fifty-four were freed.

The jury remained in session for four days before delivering its findings, having been required to answer more than 3,000 questions. The reading of the verdict caused stormy scenes in the courtroom, the prisoners rising and hurling insults at the jury.

ENVOY TO FRANCE OPENS FIGHT TO SAVE DEBT PLAN

Calls on Officials After Instructions from U. S.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 22.—Ambassador Walter E. Edge jumped into the breach today and began a fight to save President Hoover from the embarrassment of seeing his debt moratorium plan shipwrecked on the rock of French intransigeance.

PIERRE LAVAL. (A. P. Photo.)

While a measure of optimism prevailed in American quarters here, close observers of the situation are convinced more than ever that if the French are to be won over it will be at the price of engaging America to involve itself in European affairs in a way unheard of since President Woodrow Wilson's time.

Put Plans to Entangle U. S.

At present there seems to be two lines of maneuvers which might result in France's adherence—either a promise of America to assure the coming out of the financial terms of the Versailles treaty when the year's moratorium is up, or else acceptance of a pact under the Kellogg pact binding the United States to intervene in any European war, thus ensuring France to disarm.

It is believed in French quarters that Ambassador Edge was sounded out in this direction today. Whether this is true or not, it is known that Ambassador Edge, following the receipt of cables from Washington, had long conversations with representatives of the French ministries of finance and foreign affairs and conveyed the disappointment of the American people at the French attitude.

Government is "Sympathetic."

Ambassador Edge was told, it is understood, that despite the hostility of the French press, the government itself is sympathetic toward the Hoover proposal and is trying to seek some formula which would render the plan acceptable to parliament.

This is considered another way of saying that Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand are seeking American consent to amend the plan in such a way as to give France the pretext she seeks. The truth of the matter is that the only formula acceptable to the French chamber would be to have America stand security for all war debts or else become an international policeman under the aegis of the league of nations covenant, or both.

Center Matter Today.

Premier Laval and Finance Minister Flandin had a long conference today, the exact nature of which was anything but authentic. Tomorrow there will be a cabinet meeting, in which members of the government will try to agree upon ways and means of accepting the moratorium and at the same time preserving their jobs.

The French budget is already faced by a certain deficit and the chamber of deputies just recently started discussion of a grant of $40,000,000 in order to make good last year's deficit.

The key to France through the passage of the unconditional reparations remission from Germany would be immediately $100,000,000. There are two ways of making up this $100,000,000. One is by increased taxation. In France that is political dynamite. The other is by drawing from the national sinking fund, which is open from a financial standpoint but highly difficult from a political standpoint, as it would necessitate an amendment to the constitution.

BELGIUM HESITATES

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 22.—After a moment of genuine surprise at President Hoover's moratorium offer, followed by praise of American economic and political courage, Belgium settled down and did some adding and subtracting today. She discovered that the Hoover proposition would mean a sacrifice of $20,000,000 in her budget, and Belgium wonders whether the world can stand it.

The foreign office inclines to agree with Premier Hoover in principle, but wants him to make some reservations. Foreign Minister Hymans, Finance Minister Houtart and Camille Gutt, financial expert, conferred on the questions today but postponed any definite action until it receives more complete details from Washington. The cabinet today ordered its minister to send...

Optimism Booms in Germany; Stocks Climb 30 Per Cent

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 22.—Golden Monday today followed a series of black Fridays and Saturdays on the German stock exchange as a result of President Hoover's debt and reparations moratorium proposal. Stocks boomed 25 to 30 per cent, thus illustrating the hope and confidence which is returning to Germany with the first indication that temporary relief is near.

Pictures of President Hoover—generally smiling and kindly poses—are on all front pages except the radical communist and Fascist press, which are angry because they see the masses which they had successfully whipped into a frenzy of revolutionary hatred, turning from them. The masses are now anxious to cooperate with Chancellor Bruening and other leaders who, they feel, helped President Hoover realize the plight of their country.

Calls Action a "Bluff."

The Fascist Der Angriff said today: "Germany is again the victim of a new American bluff. Remember the great fourteen points." The language in the communist press is similar. But the voices of the radicals are drowned out in the chorus of gratitude to President Hoover.

The Reichsbank is cheer leader. Its vice president, Dryse, officially declared today that the reichsbank is convinced that the worst of the storm is over and that it can now face the end of the month settlements with equanimity, unless something quite unexpected develops. Anxiety is no longer felt for the German currency.

Dryse also announced that restrictions on private discounts, which were enforced on Saturday, have been cancelled because foreign countries have stopped withdrawing credits.

Envoy Reports to Cabinet.

The cabinet held an extraordinary meeting today with Dr. Friderich von Prittwitz, German ambassador to Washington, who just arrived here. He reported fully on the situation in America.

The cabinet gave detailed instructions to Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch, who returned to his post at Paris tonight. All eyes are focused on Paris, where, it is realized, the Hoover plan will meet its greatest resistance. Still, government circles hope that by July 15, the day when the next reparations payments are due, "the sound business proposals of President Hoover" will have surmounted obstacles thrown in his path by the opponents of his plan. They stress that the nation which is making real sacrifices to start business anew is America, that she must assume the biggest load.

Chancellor Bruening today appealed to France to accept the Hoover plan as an aid to peace and stability.

Italy Makes Reservation.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 22.—To President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal the Mussolini government makes one reservation and calls attention to one disadvantage that would be entailed for Italy. Otherwise, Italy finds the American proposal magnificent, marking the end of America's aloofness from European affairs.

Italy's reservation, enunciated by sources close to Il Duce, is that Germany must not use the rehabilitation opportunity extended to her through the moratorium to foster economic and political hegemonic aims over Austria, or, in other words, proceed with the customs union.

Will Lose $10,000,000.

Italy's objection from an internal economic standpoint is that she will lose money by the moratorium which would have helped cover the deficit in this year's current budget. Such a loss, estimated as something under $10,000,000, comes from the margin of difference between what Germany pays Italy and what Italy owes the United States.

These two objections are raised, but the Fascist government acclaims the Hoover proposal as the most important political event since the armistice and a gesture toward world economic solidarity.

EVANSTON'S NEW STREET LIGHTING IS GIVEN A BOOST

Judge J. G. Van Keuren, sitting in the County court, yesterday dismissed the objections of 3,000 Evanston taxpayers who had attacked the legality of the ordinance for a $1,500,000 street lighting system in the suburb.

The ruling was given after hearings lasting more than a month. Judge Van Keuren still has to hold individual "benefit hearings" for those taxpayers who dispute their assessments.

OHIO SENTENCES 1ST WOMAN TO DEATH IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Jefferson, O., June 22. — (AP) — Mrs. Julia Maude Lowther, 28 year old Ashtabula housemaid, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary Oct. 2 for the slaying of Mrs. Clara Smith, 28, wife of the man she loved. It was the first time in the history of Ohio that a woman had been sentenced to electrocution.

Mrs. Lowther broke down as she heard the sentence pronounced by Judge James C. Ogievee after he had denied a defense motion for a new trial.

The woman, of Indian descent, was convicted of first degree murder as the actual slayer of Mrs. Smith, who was shot to death as she sat with her two children in her husband's truck. Smith, twice convicted of complicity in the killing, also is under a death sentence.

BANDIT SLAYS CAFE OWNER AND KIDNAPS A MAN

A red haired bandit who later kidnaped a pedestrian and exchanged coats with him, ostensibly as a partial disguise, shot and killed Joseph Gergits, 55 years old, 302 West 47th street, in Princeton avenue, just north of 47th street, last night.

The slayer then escaped in his car pursued by a neighbor of Gergits, who witnessed the shooting. He also eluded a police squad who sent several bullets after him.

Gerits, a soft drink parlor owner, had been on an outing with his wife, Agnes, their daughter, Mrs. Mary Friedlinger, and two neighbors. He drove them home, and continued on to his garage a short distance away. Driving behind was Joseph Katzenberger, 215 West 42d place. He saw the gunman accost Gerits, and also saw him fire. As the slayer started away, Katzenberger followed, chasing him to 54th and Morgan streets where the later outdistanced him.

It was here that the slayer kidnaped a victim to exchange coats. The man is Richard Vaughn of 5351 South Morgan street. After trading garments, the red haired killer ejected Vaughn and disappeared. His encounter with the police followed.

CHARGE GERMANY MEDDLES DURING AUSTRIAN CRISIS

VIENNA, June 22.—(AP)—A minor sensation was caused today by a story printed in the Wiener Montagblatt, Christian Socialist party organ, charging that Germany had interfered with formation of an Austrian cabinet.

The newspaper, which credits the story to its Budapest correspondent, says Dr. Cluisius, chargé d'affaires at the German legation, attended a meeting of politicians seeking a solution for the cabinet crisis.

The correspondent reported the German envoy told the meeting it was the wish of the Berlin government that Dr. Johann Schober at least be given a place in the cabinet, in event he was unable to form a government, in order that he could continue to maintain the Austro-German foreign policy.

Mittag Zeitung replied to the article by charging that the Austrian clerical press had fabricated the story in order to call France's attention to what was purported to be the German influence at Vienna.

NAUTILUS TOWED TO QUEENSTOWN; CREW EXHAUSTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, June 22.—Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus was towed into the harbor here today by the tug Morsecock after the U. S. S. Wyoming had dropped its towline. When the Nautilus was taken in tow the crew was lying about on the deck, unkempt and untidy, devouring sandwiches, apparently exhausted. Sir Hubert, debonair as usual, was busy taking photographs.

Graf Gives Up Pole Flight.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 22.—The Graf Zeppelin's north pole flight has been abandoned, Dr. Hugo Eckener announced today, because Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine expedition has been so delayed by the difficulties of the boat in crossing the ocean. The Graf Zeppelin will make an Arctic flight at the end of July, starting from Lenigrad and spending five days in the polar regions with men of science aboard.

DEBT PLAN GOOD VENTURE FOR U.S., TREASURY VIEW

Will Swell Receipts if It Booms Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills asserted today that the proposed postponement of war debt and reparations payments for one year would prove a good investment for the United States treasury if this step definitely turns the business tide toward prosperity.

Discussing the Hoover proposal for bolstering the German financial situation, Mr. Mills said that the loss of the 250 odd million dollars which this country will not collect next year if the plan goes through would be more than made up in a short time if it brought about a return of better times.

"From indications thus far," Mr. Mills said, "it appears that the world at large looks upon the American proposal as a hopeful business factor. Stocks have risen in the big exchange. With better business the tax receipts of the treasury will increase."

Silent on Tax Measure.

Mr. Mills declined to predict whether it will be necessary to recommend a tax increase to the next congress to supply revenues for operating the government during the next fiscal year. He pointed out, however, that a postponement of war debts payments would cut the treasury receipts during the next year by more than 250 millions.

This years' deficit, on the basis of income tax returns today, probably will not greatly exceed 850 millions. The deficit for June 19 was 879 millions. Something like 40 million dollars in income tax receipts is expected during the rest of this week. Unless there is a decided jump in general government expenditures during the next eight days the deficit is expected to drop steadily until the end of the fiscal year.

Where the Money Goes.

Up to the close of June 19, total expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts were $4,116,605,000, as compared with an estimated expenditures for the fiscal year of $4,235,000,000.

Up to date 70 million more has been expended for the agricultural marketing fund than was expended for the same period last year. The soldiers' bonus fund has taken 225 millions up to date, twice as much as was expended last year during the same period. Income tax receipts for the next fiscal year probably will run below those for the current year. An attempt is being made to hold government expenditures down several hundred millions below the figure voted for the current fiscal year.

If busines sconditions improve treasury officials anticipate an immediate raise in the income tax and other receipts. Commerce department officials said today that they were hopeful better financial conditions abroad would be reflected in American foreign commerce.

DEMANDS JURY DIVORCE TRIAL, HE'S THE LOSER

Yesterday the jury which was impaneled before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court disregarded the charges of adultery and cruelty which he made against Mrs. Victoria Rusek, 4358 South Maplewood avenue. Their children, Anna, 18, years old, and Matthew, 16, supported the father's charges.

The jury gave Mrs. Rusek a decree on the cross bill filed by Attorneys Victor and Charles Frohlich. She charged that Stanley hit her with a beer stein and otherwise treated her cruelly.

LONDON STOCKS BOOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Boom scenes were witnessed in the London stock exchange today as prices went skyrocketing in all departments following Wall street's lead on the reaction to President Hoover's debt proposals.

Excited dealings started an hour before the usual opening time. Brokers arrived at their offices early to cope with the expected rush. Buying orders poured in and the markets blazed, recalling the old time boom periods when the tapes ticked merrily with strongly rising lists all around.

German bonds led a spectacular upward flight in the foreign sections, the 5½ per cent German loan going up eight points to 74. British government funds, railroad stocks and the leading industrials shot ahead, hastened by a scramble of bears to cover commitments.

10% Jump in Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 22.—The Paris bourse reacted to President Hoover's war debt proposal today with quotations rising as high as ten per cent in several instances. The bourse was also influenced by increased activity on Wall street and in the London exchange. There was a lull after the first buying splurge, but it was overcome by further orders and the market closed on a firm note.

Rome Follows Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 22.—Government bonds and the principal stocks took a rise today, bringing to an end a steady decline which has spread gloom on the Rome and Milan exchanges for months. Industrials and foreign stocks increased from 2½ to 15 points, while government bonds picked up fractional points.

Japanese Market Booms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 22.—Advances in all sections of the exchange today marked Tokio's reaction to the amelioration of the European debt tangle through President Hoover's debt proposal. Raw silk went from $5 to $7.50 in the Yokohama market, and shipping, utilities and textiles made steep gains.

Buying Spree in Brussels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 22.—While official circles were viewing President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal with a wary eye, the Brussels market pulled out of its slump and marked advances were recorded in speculative stocks, especially foreign and colonial issues. Twenty per cent was the highest recorded advance. Many sales orders of the last week, which have been viewed with alarm as tending to push prices down, were canceled today, and buyers were much in evidence.

London Reports Plan Under Way for 25 Per Cent Reduction in War Debts

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—All Europe is discussing President Hoover's offer of a one year moratorium on European debts to America provided the European powers agree to give a similar moratorium on reparations payments to them from Germany.

LORD ROTHERMERE. [A. P. Photo.]

Great Britain, Germany, and Italy are wholeheartedly in favor and ready to cooperate to the last ounce of their ability, but France and, to a lesser degree, Belgium, want to know more about it before they commit themselves.

Make Profit from Reparations.

This doubtless is due to the fact that France, and to a lesser degree again, Belgium, are the only nations making a profit out of the German reparations payments over what they have to transmit to the United States in payment of their borrowings. In addition, the French are not too anxious to agree to anything that may mean the rehabilitation of Germany.

The news received in diplomatic circles in London is that the French are only willing to forego the conditional payments from Germany under the Young plan, but insist that the unconditional payments of $100,000,000 annually are sacred and must be made.

British Praise Move.

In England the press joins in a chorus of praise of President Hoover with the exception of Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail and Evening News, which, while praising him, draw attention to the "plight" of the French. This attitude is not surprising since Lord Rothermere generally expresses French official views rather than British.

A strange note was struck today by a cartoon in the Liberal Star, which is editorially lyrical in praise of President Hoover. This cartoon represents Uncle Sam pulling a bedraggled German out of a "bankrupt sea" and saying: "Niz on the heroics—he owes me money."

From information reaching THE TRIBUNE today, President Hoover's offer is only the beginning of a long series of negotiations and it is not likely that payment of the war debts will ever be resumed on the present scale.

In Effect Immediately.

Mr. Hoover's offer is interpreted as going into effect immediately so that payments due at the end of this month will not be made. There have been a series of informal discussions, at which proposals have been made to scale down the total payments by 25 per cent, reducing both the interest rate and the principal.

Great Britain, Germany, and Italy are said to favor this and the United States is said to be willing it something tangible in the way of disarmament is given in return. The three powers mentioned are willing to agree to a 50 per cent disarmament within five years, but the French are not willing to drop a single soldier unless they get something in return. In these circumstances, it is sugested that the Labor government is willing to reconsider its demand for security in return for an agreement to disarm.

MacDonald Makes Statement.

Prime Minister MacDonald made a short formal statement in the house of common this afternoon, answering a question posed by Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader.

"His majesty's government and the United Kingdom cordially welcome the striking declaration made by President Hoover," the prime minister said. "The government subscribes wholeheartedly to the principle of the proposal and is prepared to coöperate in the elaboration of details with a view to giving it practical effect without delay."

It is not likely that Secretary of State Stimson will meet Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson in Berlin next month. The British statesmen are due in Berlin on July 17, and Mr. Stimson on July 21, and it is said in both British and American circles that it is impossible to move these dates together.

JUDGE SETTLES THE SULLIVAN BOYS' ARGUMENT

John L. Sullivan, formerly of 3241 Polk street, who sang too loudly in a broken down flivver at Arthington street and Lavergne avenue Sunday evening and was arrested by two policemen, locked up by a third, and booked for disorderly conduct by a fourth—all named Sullivan—was arraigned before Judge Freeman L. Fairbank yesterday. Judge Fairbank dismissed the charge of disorderly conduct, but ordered that Defendant Sullivan abandon the wrecked flivver, which he had parked in a vacant lot and used for sleeping quarters. A sixth Sullivan, Sergt. John of the automobile detail, was sent to tow the car away.

ORDER 20 ARMED SHIPS TO TOLEDO BOOZE BLOCKADE

Toledo, O., June 22.—[Special.]—Informed that smugglers were preparing to make Toledo bay the center of their operations in running liquor to the middle west from Canada, the coast guard today ordered reinforcements to establish a blockade.

United States intelligence operatives in Canada are said to have learned that smugglers shipping from dominion ports with cargoes consigned to the French islands of St. Pierre and Michelon, actually are turning across the lake into Lake Erie waters in the vicinity. From here the liquor is run into Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

To meet this drive, Commander Martin W. Rasmussen of the Buffalo coast guard district ordered 30 of his fastest craft to establish a blockade between Toledo and Lorain, O.

The rum chasers which will maintain the blockade will consist of several 75 foot cutters armed with one pound bow chasers and a large number of fast 35 foot express cruisers armed with machine guns.

Downpour Sends Bandits Back After Rubber Coats

Three bandits held up an army goods store at 3027 Lincoln avenue while yesterday's rainstorm was at its height and took $100 from the owner, William Vellow, 1322 Thorndale avenue. The robbers disappeared into the downpour, but a few seconds later they came back, donned three trench coats from Mr. Vellow's supply, and stepped out again—this time for good.

ENGLAND TO TRY NOBLEMAN FOR STOCK JUGGLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Lord Kylsant, chairman of the Royal Mail Steam Packet company, was committed to trial this morning by the lord mayor of London, charged with publishing false annual balance sheets for 1926 and 1927 and issuing a false prospectus in 1928. Both he and Harold J. Morland, the company's accountant at the time of the alleged irregularities, have been committed under the charge of signing the balance sheets. Bail was set at $25,000 for each.

The lord mayor's decision follows a hearing which attracted wide attention owing to the high positions of the defendants, both of whom denied the charges.

The prosecution produced evidence to show that Lord Kylsant published balance sheets showing a profit for the years in question, while a loss actually occurred. In 1928 the prospectus is also alleged to have misled stockholders.

Retired Jeweler Stabs Son-in-Law to Death

Olaf Husaby, 45 years old, a cabinetmaker, 2449 Berteau avenue, was stabbed to death in his home last evening by his father-in-law, Sdren Barkemo, 65 years old. Barkemo, a retired jeweler, said that Husaby returned home intoxicated and quarrelsome. The stabbing occurred, he said, when the younger man tried to beat him. Barkemo summoned a physician and the police, who found that his thrust with a penknife had penetrated Husaby's heart. The men were alone in the house.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE RING RETURNS IN MYSTERY STYLE

Mention of Lie Detector Precedes Arrival.

About the most welcome sight ever seen by Walter H. Brandenburg, member of the board of education, was that of groups of helmeted firemen springing from their trucks early last Friday morning. Mr. Brandenburg was, at the time, trapped in his flaming suite on the sixteenth floor of the apartment hotel at 3240 Sheridan road.

Mr. Brandenburg was rescued and the blaze extinguished. He was openly appreciative of the valor of the firemen. They had arrived in the proverbial nick of time. With their departure an inventory of the building's loss was taken. It was estimated at $70,000.

His Valuables Disappear.

But that wasn't all. A diamond ring, valued at $700, and a gold watch, worth $50, had disappeared. They were the property of Mr. Brandenburg. He doubted they were consumed by the flames, and so told his brother, O. H. Brandenburg, who lives in the same building. The mystery of the disappearance of the jewelry was pondered. The brother arose.

"I have an idea," he announced.

The following day O. H. Brandenburg reported the loss of the watch and ring to the Town Hall station; also to Division Marshal John Stahl.

"Don't misunderstand me," added Mr. Brandenburg, "but the ring and watch disappeared between 3:25 and 9:30 a. m. Friday, the hours of the fire. I'd like to have a list of all the firemen who were in my brother's apartment in that time."

Proposes Lie Test.

"By the way," he said, "my brother, Walter, is a good friend of Leonard Keeler of the Northwestern university crime laboratory. Mr. Keeler has perfected a lie detector. This instrument is very successful in getting confessions of guilt from suspects in crime. I'm going to make all those firemen who were in the apartment submit to the lie detector test."

Yesterday forenoon a mail man handed a special delivery package to Walter H. Brandenburg. It was neatly wrapped, but contained no identification of the sender. Mr. Brandenburg opened the package.

Inside he found his $700 diamond ring.

Arrest Two More of 68 Indicted with Al Capone

Federal marshals, led by Deputy Joseph O'Neill, yesterday arrested two more of the 68 men indicted with Al Capone on charges of conspiracy against the prohibition laws. Those arrested are George Talbot, owner of a garage at 2001 South Cicero avenue, Cicero, and his son, George Jr. Their bonds were fixed at $2,500.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drugstore in America. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

FATHER OF TWO "POISON PICNIC" VICTIMS IS HELD

Clerk Who Sold Drug Views Him.

BULLETIN.

Greenfield, Ind., June 22.—(Special)—Thomas Martin, living near Pleasantview, south of here, today was told by state authorities who investigated that his well contained twenty-five tablespoonfuls of strychnine. No arrests have yet been made in Martin's case.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Greenfield, Ind., June 22.—[Special.]—The parents of Virginia and Anna Jean Simmons, 11 and 10 years old, who died in Lebanon, Ind., of strychnine poisoning yesterday after eating picnic sandwiches prepared by their mother, spent the last twenty-four hours being questioned by police and authorities of two Indiana counties.

The father, John W. Simmons, who lives eight miles from Greenfield, is in the hands tonight—in technical custody, although no charge has been placed against him or against his wife. Two men are in a hospital at Lebanon recovering from the effects of the poisoned food.

Mrs. Carrie Simmons went through her ordeal of questioning most of the night and the early hours today after she was brought here from the hospital where her daughters died. She had served the chicken sandwiches for a family reunion.

It Contained Poison.

And in twelve of these, the officials say, a tiny gelatin capsule containing five grains of the poison was secreted. In some the capsules had dissolved and the powder disseminated in the meat, in others the deadly dose was almost intact in its thin shell.

Appearing in the doorway of the comfortable red brick farmhouse this afternoon, while her husband underwent questioning at the police station, the woman kept repeating in a dull, monotonous voice, "I don't know who could have done it; I don't know where it came from."

Surrounded by neighbors from miles around—men and women who crowded excitedly about her—Mrs. Simmons gave the only explanation offered by the family.

Latest reports tonight were that if no arrests are to be made they will come after the double funeral of the girls Wednesday. These reports are followed by the mysterious departure by Chief Ed Casey of Lebanon to Lightstown, Ind., supposedly to run to the source of the poison capsules.

"I left our car in front of a relative's home in Lebanon for an hour while we went to the reunion in Meyer's park and the can of food stood on it all that time. The fiend who killed our two little girls must have put the poison in it then."

The husband and father, in his examination by Chief of Police Casey, Sheriff Orval Small of Boone county, and County Attorney Ben Sefires, will admit no family complicity in the poisoning. His five children could not have done it with the intent of killing him or their mother without the parents knowing of it, he said, and either he nor his wife could have been a victim.

Conversely, he absolved all his immediate family, save himself and Mrs. Simmons, from suspicion. The food was prepared by his wife; he saw it stowed in the car, and the lid could not have been taken off during the fifty mile ride to Lebanon without attracting his attention, he added.

Trace Sale of Poison.

Any doubt that the poison was strychnine was swept aside by the report of Dr. Rollo Harger, Indianapolis toxicologist, who examined the remains of the picnic food collected after the two children had been taken with convulsions and died in a nearby hospital. Alice Jean within fifteen minutes and Virginia later in the afternoon.

The search then began for a purchaser of at least 60 grains of the poison. By the middle of the afternoon, Mr. Sefires and Chief Casey had located a Greenfield drug store clerk, Sam Gappen, who recalled selling just that amount about ten days ago to a man who said he wanted to use it to kill crows.

Gappen went to the Hancock county jail here, where Simmons was being questioned, and was placed in an automobile in front of the building. From that point of view he was allowed to view the farmer. He could not be positive, he said, whether Simmons was or was not his customer.

Father in Store at Time.

Simmons admitted he had visited the Greenfield store at about the time the clerk said the poison was purchased, but said he had not witnessed the purchase.

Lebanon Park authorities tonight reported noticing several blackbirds eating beets discarded by the Simmons party and then falling dead soon after. The beets will be examined by toxicologists.

The Simmons farm contains 160 acres, the officials said, which is reported to have a sizeable mortgage upon it. The family is old and well known in this section of Indiana. It is a coincidence that the cemetery in which the little girls will be buried Wednesday bears the Simmons name.

One fact the investigators pondered over was the information given them that the life insurance policies of the two boys in the family, George, 25 years old, and Dale, 23 years old, had been raised from $1,500 to $2,500 each. Mr. Simmons is 49 years old and is insured for $5,000. Mrs. Simmons is one year his junior and is protected by the same amount. The girls who died were not insured, it is understood, nor is Elizabeth, 16 years old, the surviving daughter.

Inquiries by the officials disclosed the fact that the father of Mrs. Simmons, who is Benton L. Barrett, is in an asylum for the criminal insane in California. He was placed there after being accused of murder.

Story of the Picnic.

The most coherent story of the tragic event at the Lebanon picnic as reconstructed by the 23 people who attended, places the discovery of the tainted sandwiches at shortly after the food was spread upon the green tables beneath the tall oaks in the park. The families gathered in groups to eat their community lunches and the Simmons sandwiches were dealt out to the family and to two or three others sitting close by.

George Simmons, it appears, bit into his sandwich and almost immediately detected an unpleasant taste.

"This is bitter," he said to his mother. She took a bite and then spat in upon the ground.

"There is something wrong with it," she agreed, according to the stories told the investigators.

It was only a few minutes after this that the little girls were taken violently ill. Just across the park is the Witham hospital and they were rushed to it. Mr. Simmons grew slightly ill, he said, but his dizziness soon passed.

One Other May Die.

Lester Carr, 13 years old, and Horace M. Jackson, 55 years old, both from near Greenfield, were also seized by severe pains and were carried to the hospital. Jackson is in a serious condition, the hospital reported, but Carr seems out of danger.

"Were you affected, Mrs. Simmons?" the woman was asked. "I was a little ill for a time," she replied, "and then my girls died and I could think of nothing else."

The suggestion was made today that whoever deposited the poison must have done it in a short time—perhaps a half hour—before the luncheon was served, inasmuch as the capsules melt at contact with moisture. Some were not completely dissolved.

TOURING MAYORS HOME, EACH WITH TALE TO STICK TO

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—America's roving mayors returned today from a series of Pickwickian adventures among the vineyards of France. Not all of them came back first in the hearts of their countrymen, however, for a lot of wine flowed across the tables in Paris while water was running under home town bridges.

JUDGE PADDEN.
[Tumler Photo.]

The nineteen municipal executives and six proxy mayors who represent about one-tenth of the country's population came bouncing down the bay on the Ile de France after a month in a country where, as one member of the delegation expressed it, "they serve champagne in the city halls."

Most of the mayors had their wives along and most of the wives were indignant about what they termed "the exaggerated reports of the conduct of the party." Undoubtedly the touring mayors failed to get the breaks in the stories cabled home.

Guests of French Government.

They were the guests of the French government, returning the visit of Coste and Bellonte, trans-Atlantic flyers, and they enjoyed themselves without any consciousness of representing anybody.

"It was an orderly party," said Judge Frank M. Padden, who represented Mayor A. J. Cermak of Chicago, "and I will prove it. Here we are and there was not a headache on the trip. Not a bag was lost, not a train, bus, nor boat missed and everybody brought their same wives back. There were 135 speeches in 21 days and Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, Ore., made three-fourths of them before we could limit his oratory—and it was not bad oratory at that. Yes, it was a well behaved party in a country where they serve champagne in the city halls. We had virtually 100 per cent attendance at every one of those receptions."

Mayor Baker Not Talked Out.

Mayor Baker, whose name circled the earth like the equator when he made a speech at the tomb of the unknown soldier where no speech had ever been made before, did not return with the party. The Portland executive remained behind to fill a speaking engagement with a group of touring Rotarians. Mayor Baker was described by his fellow mayors as a "tall, handsome, heavy-voiced orator who waggled his eyebrows, held his left hand over his heart, and spoke at great length. All of his speeches, they said, began:

The speeches closed on a fervent note of praise for "the roses of Portland."

"At the American club in Paris," said Judge Padden, "I told them there were more parks in Chicago than roses in Portland and that was the last we heard of the roses of Portland."

Talks for Others, Too.

An incident at Bierancourt that escaped the foreign correspondents was related by another member of the party. Microphones surrounded the delegation and Mayor Baker was in the center of the microphones. Former Premier Andre Tardieu, ambassador and Mrs. Walter Edge, Miss Ann Morgan, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and other notables were awaiting their turn on the air, but Mayor Baker spoke on and on. After a while Judge Padden called out to the mayor: "You've spoken three times today. That's enough!"

But Premier Tardieu wants me to talk," shouted Baker as he continued his speech.

It was soon after that that a round table meeting of the mayors limited Mr. Baker's speechmaking and agreed to let each mayor be king for a day.

Puts French Straight on Chicago.

"Even after the gag rule was invoked," said Judge Padden, "he would make two or three speeches every time he introduced a speaker. We didn't depose him then—we just appointed a committee to take his power away. Later we elected Mayor Richard L. Metcalfe of Omaha as permanent president.

"I spent most of my time telling the French people about Chicago's World's Fair and trying to correct their impression that Al Capone was the man running the United States.

"It Happened This Way."

Mayor John C. Porter of Los Angeles, who described himself as the only dry mayor in the party, remained with Mrs. Porter in his stateroom during most of the talkfest on the sundeck. He flatly denied dispatches stating he had walked out of the reception at Havre when a toast was proposed to the presidents of America and France because of his prohibition views. Mayor Porter characterized the stories as "misstatements." Mrs. Porter said they were "lies, l-i-e-s."

"It happened this way," said Mr. Porter, "we do not understand French and we thought the official part of the ceremony had been completed. We went out to admire the architecture of the building and we were not present when the toast was proposed. If I had been there I would have touched the glass to my lips, but I would not have swallowed a drop. Why, I myself have proposed toasts on foreign battleships in Los Angeles harbor, but I only raised my glass. It is not violating our law to drink on foreign territory. I just do not drink. I don't drink coffee, either. I did not criticize anybody for drinking on this trip. They could drink all they wanted."

DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTIONS GO AT SNAIL'S PACE

Overdue Bills for 3 Years Total $170,700,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The technicalities of procedure, coupled with the increasing thousands who have protested their taxes, have slowed down the collection of delinquent taxes to a low gear pace. The result is that the local governments must wait for their share of the past-due taxes.

There is a minimum of $170,700,000 of delinquent taxes for the last three tax years. On the 1929 taxes, payable last May 15, there is $99,800,000 of uncollected taxes, of which about $15,000,000 is on personal property. Of the 1928 taxes, due July 1, 1929, there is $50,200,000 still unpaid; and of the 1927 taxes, due in 1928, there is more than $5,000,000 overdue on real estate taxes. In addition there is real estate on which the taxes, forfeiture fees and penalties total $15,738,000.

Grand Jury Gets Complaints.

Frank O'Dowd, foreman of the regular grand jury, told State's Attorney Swanson yesterday that the jury has received complaints that "large business corporations and others" have failed to pay their personal property taxes. A conference will be held this afternoon between Mr. O'Dowd, Mr. Swanson, E. J. Davis of the Better Government association, representatives of the Chicago Real Estate board, and several civic organizations to canvass the situation and perhaps decide what procedure shall be adopted.

The system and the progress made in the collection of delinquent taxes, especially real estate, may be summarized as follows:

On May 15 the county board made a contract with Attorney Henry M. Asmon to collect the forfeited real estate taxes, and take as his compensation a percentage of the penalties collected. He has neither started suits, nor submitted any report of progress to date.

Make Plans for Sale.

The delinquent 1929 real estate taxes will be advertised on June 27 and judgment against the owners will be asked on July 13. The court will be asked on July 27 to order the sale of all real estate on which taxes have not been paid, and it is planned by the county collector to start the sale that day. About 3,000 owners whose taxes are said to be about $3,000,000 have obtained an injunction preventing their property from being offered for sale.

How many will file protests against and order of sale cannot be accurately forecast, but it is estimated that between 30,000 and 50,000 will file objections. Their property will be barred from sale until released by a court decision.

On the 1928 taxes, an estimated 32,000 filed objections against the sale for taxes. Three-fourths of those cases are still pending in court, although it is understood that practically all of the legal questions involved have been argued and passed upon. In most of the cases the court has entered final judgment. Then the attorneys have made a motion to vacate the order and the cases as a rule have been continued.

Cases Are Grouped.

Hayden Bell and Walter Johnson, assistant state's attorneys, are in charge of the county's interests in these cases.

"The cases are divided into groups according to the legal questions involved," explained Mr. Bell. "They are tried by groups; otherwise we could not get enough lawyers for the county to try the cases. We must stand for the motions to vacate, or we would have hundreds and perhaps thousands of cases going to the State Supreme court. We want them appealed by groups so that we as the county attorneys can handle them. That is the only practical way to handle the cases."

On the 1927 taxes between 1,300 and 1,500 cases are pending in court. Against many of these the court has entered judgment for the taxes, but the state's attorney's office has ruled that these properties must be readvertised for sale, and that there can be only one advertising a year.

Therefore, some of the 1927 delinquent real estate taxes, as well as some of the 1928 taxes, will be advertised for sale when the list of 1929 delinquents are published.

Mr. Bell insisted that the state's attorney's office is moving as fast as practicable.

The state's attorney's office is also the law office attempting to collect personal property taxes. In those cases suit is brought against the delinquent where the prospect of collection will justify the expense.

CENTRAL PURCHASING AGENT FOR CITY PLAN IN NEW ORDINANCE

Members of the city council finance committee yesterday directed the committee's staff to draft an ordinance providing for the creation of a central purchasing department for the city hall. The idea of handling all purchases through one department, according to reports, is favored by Mayor Cermak.

In the past the city purchasing agent has bought postage stamps and other small articles for the city. The police, electricity, health and public works departments, under the city code, have contracted for large purchases with council consent without the purchase going through the city purchasing agent.

Objections raised to the proposed plan included the argument that the purchasing agent would not be as familiar with toxin antitoxin as officials of the health department, and therefore could not purchase so well as the latter, and also that contracts for the erection of bridges should be handled not through a purchasing agent but through the department of public works.

DR. KIPFER SAYS MAN MAY SOON FLY TO THE MOON

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—People who believe it possible to reach the moon from the earth have a supporter in Dr. Charles Kipfer, who accompanied the Belgian scientist, Prof. Auguste Piccard, on his recent balloon trip into the stratosphere.

Dr. Kipfer, who is now in London, said that airplanes driven by rockets would play a great part in the future development of aviation, and added, "It wouldn't surprise me if by this means a flight were made to the moon."

He predicted that the air battles of the future would be fought 20 miles above the surface of the earth, far beyond the vision of those below, and at so great a height that modern anti-aircraft weapons would be entirely useless.

Flood in China Takes Toll of Hundreds of Lives

SHANGHAI, June 23.—(AP)—Advices from Changsha today reported hundreds of persons drowned, thousands homeless, and millions of dollars of property damage from the flooding of Tungting lake and the Siang river in Hunan province. Assistance of the nationalist government was asked, the reports saying acute famine was facing the province, already wracked by banditry and warfare.

CITY MAY HALT PUBLIC WORKS IN CASH CRISIS

taxes have been collected. The 1930 tax assessments are just emerging from the board of assessors, with collections set for Jan. 1, 1932. The 1931 taxes will probably be collected the latter part of next year.

These troubles were presented to the state legislature by Mayor Cermak, but consideration of the subject was deferred until the prospective special session to be held in September or later.

Policemen and Firemen Paid.

The policemen and firemen were paid $1,020,000 yesterday for compensation which was due June 16. Of this total $850,000 was obtained by the sale of $1,500,000 in tax anticipation warrants to the Illinois Bell Telephone company, which is privileged under the agreement to turn the warrants back on the city as compensation when a franchise is given the company.

As a means of reducing expenses, a two weeks' vacation without pay for all city employés during July, August, and September is urged by the Sprague economy committee. An ordinance to make that scheme effective was submited to the council finance committee yesterday afternoon. It is estimated that this scheme will save $2,389,823. The committee decided to hold a public hearing on the ordinance this afternoon.

In the meantime Ald. Oscar F. Nelson and Victor Olander, secretary of the state federation of labor, will confer with Col. Sprague. Upon the result of that conference will probably depend whether organized labor will oppose the payless vacation.

EVANSTON COUNCIL VOTES FOR $400,000 TAX WARRANT ISSUE

Evanston's tax levy for 1931, calling for $1,562,367, was introduced into the city council last night. It will be considered and passed upon at the next council meeting. The council voted to issue tax anticipation warrants immediately in the sum of $400,000, in denominations of $100 to $5,000. The warrants, which bear 5 per cent interest, will be sold directly to the citizens, doing away with the customary 2 per cent charge made by banks for disposing of the warrants. At the present time, the council was told, the city has sufficient funds to run all departments for three months.

COUNTY PAY DAY TODAY, BUT NO MONEY IN SIGHT

Today is a scheduled pay day for Cook county employés. But there is no possibility of obtaining the $550,000 needed, the board of county commissioners revealed yesterday when the pay rolls came up for consideration.

Inasmuch as there was no money to pay the employés, Mrs. Edward Fleming, woman commissioner, asked that an investigation be made to determine if the employés were working full time. She indicated a belief that many employés took afternoons off and were late in appearing for work in the morning.

When the employés will be paid remained a mystery. County Treasurer McDonough announced that all the money he receives must first be used in paying interest due on 1929 tax anticipation warrants. The controller's office announced unofficially that the employés should prepare themselves not to expect any pay until fall.

The board referred bids on a new swimming pool at Milwaukee and Devon avenues to the committee on public service. The low bid on the pool was $219,343. The expected fight over the award of a contract for the appraisal of road improvement property to Donalt T. Morrison did not materialize. The protest of the Manufacturers' Appraisal company, another bidder, was referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

STATE GRANTED CONTINUANCE OF MADDOX TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

John R. Field, rape, sentenced to 2 years in the penitentiary; Amanda Hewer, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail; Robert Johnston, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Paul Juskewicz and William Stockfeld, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in Pontiac reformatory; Harold Jensen and Frank Schwaber, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Louis Gottlieb, concealed weapons, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Philip Finnegan.

A week's continuance was granted the state yesterday in the assault trial of Claude Maddox, gunman and reputed leader of the Circus gang who is alleged to have shot Police Sergeant James McBride of Bellwood last fall. In granting the continuance, Judge Charles A. Williams of the Criminal court warned the state to be ready for trial next Monday. McBride was shot while on a street car on his way to the Criminal courts building to testify against "Three Fingered" Jack White, who was on trial for murder.

Woman, Spurned in Love Quest, Drowns Self in Bath

After writing a note in which she stated she was despondent over unrequited love, Mrs. Mattie Beebe, 52 years old, drowned herself yesterday in a bathtub at the home of Thomas Massey, 5340 Ingleside avenue. Mrs. Beebe had been employed as housekeeper for Massey. The note indicated that she had been in love with her employer, but that he had not given her any affection in return. Massey said that she had tried to commit suicide twice before and that she once was sent to the Elgin state hospital as mentally unbalanced. The body was discovered when Massey and Policeman William Moss of the Hyde Park station broke down the door.

EMMERSON VETOES REPAIRS ON THREE ARSENALS, TWO HERE

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson today sliced $160,000 from house bill 863, which appropriated $256,350 for repairs and permanent improvements on arsenals of the state.

In a written statement commenting on the veto, Gov. Emmerson stated that he withheld his approval of various items in the interest of economy and reducing state government expenditures. The items vetoed are as follows:

Armory at Ottawa, $35,000.

Gov. Emmerson's statement follows:

"In the interest of economy and reduction in state governmental expenditures there will be no appropriations for the construction of additional armories during the biennium. For the same reason, careful consideration has been given to the question of the necessity of each of the repairs and improvement items provided for in this bill and I have therefore eliminated those items, totaling $160,000, which, in my opinion, from the information obtained from the supervising architect, are not absolutely essential at this time."

Boys Play with Shotguns; One Shoots the Other Dead

Adair, Ia., June 22.—(AP)—Coroner Edna Sexsmith today declared accidental the shooting of Frank James, 11, whose body was found in the Charles Baird farm home kitchen near here.

Dr. Sexsmith said that questioning of James Baird, 11, who had been with Frank, disclosed that the boys had been playing with shotguns, and that young Baird's gun had been accidentally discharged, killing his companion.

FIRST 1930 TAX BOOKS SENT TO REVIEW BOARD

Increase in Valuation Is Shown for 12 Towns.

The first 1930 real estate assessment books were turned over to the board of review in the board of assessments yesterday. The books were those of twelve of the thirty country towns. The total assessed valuation of the real estate in the twelve towns was $[illegible],730,497.

JOHN E CONROY.

For the same country towns the first 1930 board of review figures were $[illegible],690,222. The 1930 increase, $[illegible],151,115. This increase, according to John E. Conroy, secretary of the board of assessments, is reflected in new building. The valuation figures for other parcels of real estate is the same as in the quadriennial assessment, no changes being made by the assessors for depreciation in property except when new valuations are made every four years.

The twelve country towns, with the respective 1929 and 1930 figures, are:

[illegible]	$ 3,213,597	$ 3,287,514
[illegible]	32,870,492	33,857,723
[illegible]	18,225,883	18,449,130
[illegible]	6,879,898	7,206,891
[illegible]	67,715,678	70,527,691
[illegible]	47,282,137	48,410,147
[illegible]	3,815,580	4,002,939
[illegible]	2,464,528	2,485,900
[illegible]	1,900,581	1,930,837
[illegible]	23,541,843	26,231,805
[illegible]	20,290,631	21,025,342
[illegible]	30,656,591	31,194,669
[illegible]	$261,609,593	$268,798,897

The remaining books will be turned over to the board of review before July 1, the assessors announced. Taxpayers dissatisfied with the valuations of their property may file complaints with the reviewers.

About 1,000 taxpayers swarmed to the offices of the assessors yesterday to complain about the 1930 valuations. Yesterday was the last day for complaints to be filed with the assessors. The board of review will announce the time when they will hear complaints.

The first of a series of public hearings on inequalities of taxation methods will be held in the council chamber of the city hall tonight. Four speakers will address a committee headed by Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] to protest the Chicago Real Estate board's point of view on assessment methods.

MALONE LAUNCHES GOVERNOR CAMPAIGN IN PARK RIDGE TALK

WM. H. MALONE. [Moffett Photo.]

He spoke before a group of neighbors and some downstate friends in the Pickwick theater. As he had forecast, his first attack was upon the tax situation, particular bitterness being directed toward the Cook county taxing boards, an echo of his fight when, as chairman of the state tax commission, he ordered a revaluation of real estate in the county.

He also adopted legislative reapportionment as one of his chief planks.

"How," he asked, "can the lawmakers expect the citizens of Illinois to obey the laws they make when they themselves violate their own oaths of office by brazenly refusing to carry out the provisions of our Illinois constitution?"

DIVIDEND FOR DEPOSITORS OF DEFUNCT BANK

An order has been entered by Judge Philip L. Sullivan authorizing John W. O'Leary, receiver of the defunct Michigan Avenue Trust company, to pay to the depositors of that institution an additional dividend of 1 per cent. This dividend will make the total paid to the depositors 50 4-10 per cent of their claims.

Many of the depositors cannot be located. Those who fail to receive their dividends should communicate with Mr. O'Leary at 134 South La Salle street.

The Michigan Avenue Trust company was wrecked in 1921 when its president, Warren C. Spurgin, fled to Mexico when it was discovered he was short more than $1,000,000 in his accounts. Spurgin has never been found. The bank was a $3,500,000 institution.

NEWS OF SECRET INDICTMENTS AT DETROIT ALARM

Detroit, Mich., June 22.—[Special.]—Conscience stricken Detroiters, to the number of three or four hundred, are fearful they are among the forty-eight persons secretly indicted by the grand jury, it was revealed today, on charges of "perjury, protecting criminals and obstructing justice."

Assistant prosecutors reported they were swamped with telephone calls from attorney friends, who invariably asked:

"If so and so is one of the 48 can I arrange to have him appear in court instead of staying over night in jail?"

In each case the assistant prosecutors refused information.

ADVICE WE RECEIVED!

• When you get married, or when your first baby comes—or even when you move to a new community—you certainly get lots of advice from your friends. Sometimes it's best to let suggestions go in one ear and out the other—but of course other times this friendly help is indispensable.

• I think the best advice we received when we moved to Chicago was to order Wanzer's Milk. I remember calling Boulevard 7900 while the movers were still tramping from the van into the house.

• I was glad to have the important matter of our milk supply so quickly settled. We were very fussy, all of us, about milk and butter and eggs—and of course in a critical frame of mind.

• But Wanzer's more than stood the test. It made boosters out of us all before the first week was up.

Try WANZER'S MILK

• The growth of the Wanzer business since it was established in 1857 has been steady and sure. Every month more families have tried Wanzer's Milk—and discovered for themselves its rich flavor.

• It is so easy to try Wanzer's Milk in your family. Simply telephone Boulevard 7900—or hail a Wanzer man as he passes your door.

• Sidney Wanzer & Sons, Chicago's oldest milk company, is still owned and operated by the Wanzers. CHARGES WOMAN JUDGE CONDONED ILLEGAL TACTICS

Tells of Witness Being Dragged to Stand.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Magistrate Jean N. Norris, the first woman to be appointed to a magistracy in New York City, went on trial before the Appellate division today with her judgeship at stake.

Sitting at a table by her attorney, Martin Conboy, she heard one witness describe how Mary Desana, a defendant on a vice charge in her court had been dragged forcibly by a court attendant some seven or eight feet and placed in the witness chair, screaming her protestations.

Then she heard Harold Schum, an official stenographer of Women's court, where the Desana case was heard, tell how she had prepared a blank form and instructed the stenographers to use it invariably in transcribing the minutes of hearings at which sentences were imposed, although in the case up for review, that of Mina Landry, the form varied considerably from the stenographer's record of what actually took place.

New Evidence in Case.

Although both the Desana and the Landry cases had been aired before, they were not brought out at the public hearings before Samuel Seabury as referee in the investigation of the lower courts, and both came out in the cross-examination of witnesses by Mr. Conboy.

Peter L. F. Sabbatino, a former assistant district attorney, was the attorney for Mary Desana at her trial before Magistrate Norris in May of 1927. He was the first witness called today. He told a familiar story. It was that Magistrate Norris had, at the outset of the trial, remarked: "You know what to do; plead her guilty and tell her to throw herself on the mercy of the court."

The witness told how he had ordered a copy of the minutes from George A. Ingersoll for an appeal, and on receiving it found that it had been changed.

He based an appeal on the ground that his client had not been given a fair trial and the court special sessions sustained the conviction by a two to one vote with Justice Fetherston writing a dissenting opinion in which he held that the trial had been unfair.

Tells of Scene in Court.

Mr. Conboy took up cross-examination on the point of Mr. Sabbatino's closing statement that his client had been forcibly placed in the chair by an attendant.

When Mr. Sabbatino was pressed by Mrs. Norris' counsel for the reason why he had not taken exceptions to the proceeding, he said "It was my first trial before a woman judge, and I did not want to antagonize the court."

NAMES MAN HE SAYS PAID FOR MURDER OF VIVIAN GORDON

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Harry Stein, on trial with Samuel Greenberg for the death of Vivian Gordon, pointed out a man named Radeloff in a newspaper photograph as "the party we done it for," according to Harry Schlitten, confessed driver of the automobile in which she allegedly was strangled. He testified today before Supreme Court Justice Cohn and a jury in the Bronx, accusing the two defendants of the murder.

The first name of Radeloff was not mentioned by the witness, and further testimony did not reveal whether it was John A. Radeloff, Brooklyn attorney, who earlier in the investigation of the crime was held as a material witness.

Asked what action he might take with respect to the case in the light of today's testimony, Police Commissioner William Mulrooney tonight said:

"That will be determined by a conference between me and the district attorney, and by further developments."

Before the trial opened police admitted they were looking for a third man, said to be a "higher up" and possibly the instigator of the murder, though Commissioner Mulrooney denied this man was Radeloff, the Brooklyn lawyer.

POLICE LOCATE CAR OF MISSING GAS MERCHANT

The automobile in which Samuel Levins, gasoline merchant missing since Saturday night, was last seen was found by police yesterday standing in front of 4148 North Springfield avenue, a block from the home of Levin's sister-in-law, which he had visited just before his disappearance. Detectives continued to entertain the kidnap theory in spite of the fact that the missing man's wife said she had received no demands for money.

Saturday evening Levin left his wife playing bridge at the home of her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Finkelberg, 4219 North Crawford avenue, and started off to visit his brother-in-law, Finkelberg, at a gasoline station at Harding and Elston. He failed to arrive, Finkelberg said.

Levin's home is at 165 Pine avenue.

INDIAN JOE HAS FEARS IN PRISON; 15 VICTIMS THERE

Indian Joe Hussar, one time chief of police at Broadview and the terror of motorists on the western boulevards, was reported yesterday to be not exactly happy in Joliet penitentiary, to which he was sentenced for attacking a motorist he had tried to shake down.

There are in the prison upward of fifteen inmates who are said to have had experiences with Indian Joe and to be anxious to get even with him, now that he and they are far away from automobiles.

Warden Henry C. Hill, however, asserted that he did not think Hussar was in any particular danger.

VLADIVOSTOK—A CITY WHERE MEN DIE OF HUNGER

Full in Streets as Tons of Food Are Exported.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VLADIVOSTOK, May 12.—[By mail.]—Large numbers of kulaks and political exiles have made their way here to this seaport town adjacent to the Chinese boundary, having escaped from their remote places of banishment. They live in hiding here and never dare appear on the streets in day time, only going out at night to avoid being questioned by the police.

Today I visited a room in a cellar, about 4 feet wide and 15 feet long, where 32 kulaks, men, women and children, of three generations are living. Most of them escaped from a filthy camp 600 miles northeast of Irkutsk, where they had been sentenced to remain for ten years. They were set by horse sled, harnessing their animals in the dead of night during a violent snowstorm while their guards were enjoying themselves with vodka.

Loses Baby in Snow.

One sad faced woman especially caught my attention and I inquired about her. She, her husband, two children and tiny baby started on the trip, which took them four days without food before they found a friendly peasant who rescued them, watching on their road, all nearly dead, and gave them bread.

The mother, in a coma from the bitter cold and lack of food, let her infant daughter slip out of her icy hands some time during the trip. She believes it was on the third day. The baby dropped out of the sleigh and was never missed by the half unconscious parents until next day, when they were revived, after their exhausted horse had been seen wandering down the trail.

Twice this woman has attempted to kill herself since her arrival here and each time her husband has prevented her.

City a Dreadful Spectacle.

Vladivostok has a population of close to 200,000, half of whom are Chinese, and the city presents a dreadful spectacle with its swarms of ragged, famishing men—Mongols and Slavs both.

In the free port in the harbor, conveyor belts are sending thousands of sacks of wheat, grain from last year's bumper harvest, into the holds of British, Japanese, French, and Italian ships, from the huge elevators of the great grain trust. Half a mile away men are falling unconscious on the streets from lack of nourishment.

The best restaurant in Vladivostok, operated by Japanese for the government, is on a valuta basis. Rubles are not accepted in payment, only gold, yen, sterling and marks. This is also a seaman's home where sailors of the crews of visiting ships are received. This also is strictly on the cigarets, tobacco, likker, etc.

Sailors don't have much fun in this port because there are no dance halls and no saloons or any places of amusement, and they can't take girls into the seamen's home.

The girls wait down by the free dock for the sailors to go up town for a few hours, and they beg cigarets, gold, wool, bread, shoes, anything except money, from the lads they meet. They don't want rubles. They are no good to them since they can't buy anything with them, and they don't dare fool around with valuta, as the G. P. U. is very suspicious of any Russian possessing foreign money.

"Many Looking Sirens."

These girls are certainly the dizziest looking sirens one could imagine. In rags and tatters, holes in their once cotton stockings, torn, heelless shoes, their dresses ripped and filthy, dirty—they can't get soap to wash their faces and hands—and no money to make up.

Every morning there is a bazaar down by the bay, with hundreds of Chinese selling a few radishes or a handful of onions or macaroni or rice, and peasant women with geese or chickens, butter, eggs, milk. The girls from jams into the square for the bazaar, and pickpockets do a rushing business. I saw the G. P. U. arrest fifteen pickpockets in less than an hour.

Four dollars a woman asked for a fine goose weighing about two pounds. Milk was $1 a liter, eggs were $4.50 a dozen, butter was $8 a pound.

Built Like San Francisco.

Vladivostok is much like San Francisco, physically, built on and around seven steep hills, but there are only two lines of street cars and no taxis to hire. Most of the lugging is done with Chinese carriers, who have a sort of chair arrangement they pack on their backs, and I'll bet they could move pianos and billiard tables if they had any here.

If some one dies, you call in a carpenter, put the deceased in a box, or pack if you haven't a box, and the carpenter packs the remains neatly in the chair and trots off to the cemetery. I saw several funerals like that.

The only Americans in Vladivostok are the experts maintained by the Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria to repair and service their machines on the collective and state farms in the far east district. At present that are four Caterpillar men here, Kelly Vail of St. Louis, Charles Showen of Sparta, Wis.; Fred Stevens of Chicago, and Bud Brewster of Moline.

Use Poor Fuel in Tractors.

Complaints are beginning to come in from every hand that the poor quality of gasoline, benzine, and kerosene, shipped here by the Naphtha trust from Baku and Grosny is ruining all the motors, besides wasting untold working hours in the long period it takes to start the engines every morning. It begets terrible waste, too, as tractor drivers never shut off the motor, remembering the backache of starting it again, and leave it turning over for hours while they are busy doing something else.

"Bad fuel, coupled with careless handling, is cutting down the average life of a tractor from eight to ten years, which they enjoy in America, to about six months here," I was told. "The best qualities of all the petroleum products are shipped abroad and deleterious stuff is distributed in Russia, despite the fact that they need motors to operate at best efficiency now in putting through the five year plan."

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Grand, Powerful, Yet Safe, Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Sufferers.

Here is a wonderful antiseptic oil, now dispensed by pharmacists at nothing cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Its action is little less than magical. The itching is instantly stopped; and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery eczema. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottles for 85 cents at any modern drug store. It is safe to be guaranteed—and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible.

TWELVE OFFICIALS OF CLOSED BANK GET CHANGE OF VENUE

Twelve officials of the defunct City State bank of Chicago, charged with receiving deposits after the bank was insolvent, were granted a change of venue yesterday when their case was called before Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Criminal court. The case was returned to the chief justice to be reassigned. The bank was closed by the state auditor last fall. Seymour Stedman, vice president of the bank and once a candidate for mayor, is among the defendants.

1 KILLED, 12 HURT AS MINE GUARDS FIGHT STRIKERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—[Special.]—One man was killed and 12 wounded in a battle between strikers and Allegheny county deputy sheriffs at the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal company today. Forty-one persons, including two women, were arrested. One of the deputies was injured.

WILLIAM FOSTER.
[A. P. Photo.]

More than 100 shots were exchanged between the deputies and a mob of about 150 striking miners and women.

The demonstration was planned yesterday at a massmeeting in Acmetonia addressed by William Z. Foster, national secretary of the Trades Union Unity league, a communist organization affiliated with the National Miners' union.

Although officials of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, which operates several mines in this vicinity, announced a tentative agreement had been made with the United Mine Workers of America to settle the strike, it is feared this will not end the trouble. A large percentage of the strikers belong to the National Miners' union, the communist organization, which is bitterly opposed to the United Mine Workers. The National union is demanding recognition as one of the issues in the strike and has announced it will refuse to recognize terms made with the other organization.

This Sunroom Group Chooses to Be "Picturesque"

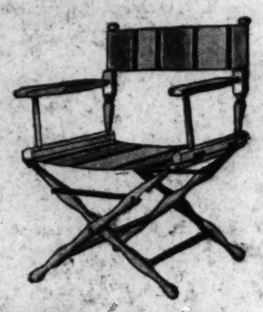
STICK REED COVERED IN "EARLY AMERICAN" CRETONNE

Three Pieces, Complete, at

$59

Two chairs and a settee compose this cleverly designed sunroom group of stick reed, in wood tones, accented with burnt orange and green.

The covering has a charming Early American design in cretonne, with quaint old-fashioned scenes creating the pattern. There are comfortable spring cushions. Priced complete for the three pieces at $59.



Folding Chair, $4.95

American Rugs

Of a Type Noted for Exceptionally Long Service

Are Now Priced Much Below Usual

For the 9x12-Foot Size

Here's a real 'find" in the way of a floor-covering—a room-size fringed rug in an unusually desirable selection of patterns—all of them copied from the best-liked type of Oriental design. They are firmly woven and wear splendidly. 9x12 foot size, $38.

Although We're Very, Very Young, We Know We're Smart in These

Printed Pantie Frocks

$1.95

We know our fashions, too, and these are the frocks we like to wear in summer, for they are cool as well as smart.

The striped lawn print on the right is a darling. It's sleeveless, trimmed in white, and comes in pink, blue, green and orchid. Sizes 2 to 6.

Whisk Off Your Coat And You're Dressed For Dinner

White Topped Frock

$29.50

From a strictly tailored georgette suit you may change to a tea, dinner, or dance frock by merely doffing the jacket. It's becoming, for white always flatters the face. It's smart, for "with white" has been the favorite contrast of the season. It's cool, as only georgette can be.

The frock is sleeveless, with the crossed white top. There's a slight flare from the low-set godets, and a bit of color in the belt and the flowers on the jacket. In black, navy and brown with white. Women's sizes.

A Practical Fashion Sponsors These KNIT SUITS

$17.50

The needs of the out-door woman are considered in designing this three-piece knit suit, for we agree with Vogue that "utility comes first in sport clothes."

She finds its cardigan jacket gives her the trimness she wants. A well-placed pleat gives her the necessary freedom without flare. New colors that blend with the landscape, flecked with silk threads forming small dots. They may be had in navy, black, light blue, orchid, white, pink, brown. Sizes 14 to 44.

Knitted Apparel, Fourth Floor.

In the Moderate Price Section

Punched Shoes

For the "Younger Set"

$6.50

Punched shoes are more and more in the foreground as summer progresses. The "younger set"—and there is no age limit—are great boosters of punched shoes because they find them cool, comfortable and smart.

AMAZES JUDGE BY CONFESSION OF HIS HOAXES

Youth Fooled Governors, Envoys, Toured U. S.

New York, June 22.—(AP)—A recital of the strange hoaxes confessedly perpetrated by George Robert Gabor, 25 year old Hungarian who says he once was engaged to marry Eleanor du Pont of Wilmington, Del., caused a federal judge today to mutter: "What saps we humans are."

Gabor, who in 1928 received suspension of a 5 year sentence for entering the port of New York on a fraudulent passport, was arraigned before Judge John C. Knox, for alleged violation of parole.

His signed confession of his adventures was read. In it he said he left Harvard law school to assume the role of Baron von Krupp on a wager.

As a member of the famous German family, he toured the country from coast to coast in an automobile given him by Henry Ford, he said.

Served 9 Months in Jail.

He admitted serving 9 months in the Wilmington, Del., workhouse and 17 months in McNeil Island penitentiary, California, for fraudulent impersonation. He passed a bad $100 check in Wilmington.

Later, he said, he was shanghaied from this country for his engagement to Miss du Pont.

As far as it has been possible for the government to check the man's story, United States Attorney T. J. Todarelli said, it is true.

In Paris, assuming the name "Taft Thew," Gabor telephoned Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador, using the name of W. C. Widener, well known in Philadelphia social circles.

As "Widener" he asked Mr. Herrick to befriend "Thew," "son of a former American ambassador." Herrick gave him passage to America and befriended him.

Entertained by Hoovers.

Still as "Taft Thew," Gabor, in Palo Alto, Cal., was dined and entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover before Mr. Hoover became President.

The governor of Illinois presented him to the legislature. Former Governor Walter Kohler of Wisconsin showed him around the City of Madison in person and presented him to the Wisconsin senate, Gabor related.

"But I never heard of Taft Thew," interrupted Judge Knox.

"You're right, your honor," spoke up Gabor, "of course you haven't. There never was any such man."

YOUTH LEAVES PRICE OF HOTEL ROOM; ENDS LIFE

A young man walked into the Chelsea hotel, 920 Wilson avenue, last night, registered as R. G. Chapman, and was shown to a room. Several hours later hotel employés found him dead with a bullet in his right temple.

Two notes were found. One, addressed to the hotel clerk, contained $3 for the room and asked that Frank E. Chapman of 2009 Archer avenue, his father, be notified. The father, in charge of the employés' insurance department of the International Harvester company, told police his son had been despondent over unemployment.

The dead man was 30 years old, married, and father of a 12 year old child. He lived on the west side, but his address was not known by the father.

Romances on Reef

RENO.—(AP)—Patti Harrold, popular musical comedy star and daughter of Orville Harrold, tenor, obtained a divorce on grounds of cruelty from Alfred L. Meeker.

RENO.—(AP)—Mrs. Alison G. Harrison filed suit for divorce from W. Frazier Harrison, member of a socially prominent Philadelphia family. Before her marriage she was Alison R. Gowen. The Harrisons married April 22, 1908, and have two children.

RENO. — [Special.] — Mrs. Martha Nicholson Doubleday filed suit for divorce against Nelson Doubleday, New York publisher, alleging nonsupport. There will be no contest. They married in Providence, R. I., June 10, 1916, and have no children. A property settlement was effected out of court.

It is reported that Mrs. Doubleday will become the bride of Richard F. Hoyt, New York broker, whose wife, Katherine Stone Hoyt, obtained a divorce several months ago.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(AP)—Clifton A. Edwards, known on the stage and screen as "Ukelele Ike," won his contested suit for divorce against Irene L. Edwards, former Follies girl. He failed in his efforts to set aside a property settlement.

The settlement constituted about $100,000 worth of property Edwards gave his wife and an agreement to pay her one-third of his income for the remainder of her life. The court held the agreements were valid. Edwards sought to abrogate the agreement on grounds that she had violated a "morals clause."

RENO.—(AP)—Mrs. Emily Johnson Oxtoby, daughter of former United States Senator E. S. Johnson of South Dakota, obtained a divorce from A. P. Oxtoby Jr. She charged cruelty.

LOS ANGELES. — (AP) — Pauline Starke, film actress, filed an amended complaint, asking a divorce, to the separate maintenance suit she entered April 13 against Jack White, motion picture producer.

3 MEN GASSED TO DEATH AFTER BLAST IN WELL

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—Three men are dead tonight as the result of one being overcome by gas in a well and the efforts of the other two to effect a rescue. The dead: Cal Diesendach, 46; Louis Vehove, 48, and Patrick Bonner, 22, all of Springfield.

Diesehdach and Vehove were digging a well on a farm near here. Shortly after noon they struck bed rock. They set off a dynamite charge. Diesendach then went into the well. He was immediately overcome by gas, and Vehove went to his rescue, but was overcome before he reached Diesendach.

State highway workers were called. One of them, Patrick Bonner, volunteered to go to the rescue of the men. He climbed down the ladder and got almost to the top with Vehove when he, too, was overcome by the deadly fumes and fell back, carrying the unconscious Vehove with him.

Springfield firemen arrived a few minutes later, and Fireman Francis Saunders, protected by a gas mask, made three trips into the well and brought out the men. All were still alive, but died at a hospital.

Laura La Plante Injured in Automobile Collision

Hollywood, Cal., June 22.—[Special.]—Laura La Plante [Mrs. William Seiter], screen star, was slightly hurt in an automobile collision today in which her car struck that of Daisy Dowell, University of California co-ed, and injured Miss Dowell, her younger sister, and her mother. Mrs. Dowell suffered a brain concussion. The Dowell girls suffered severe cuts and sprained shoulders.

STARR'S LETTERS MAY CLEAR UP MYSTERY DEATH

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—A personable Scottish surgeon faced a dozen interviewers in the lounge of the Laconia of the Cunard line today as she steamed upstream to her dock and with the utmost curtesy told them nothing. He could, if he chose, tell much about how Starr Faithfull met her death, he implied, but cannily he added, he would not.

The surgeon was Dr. George Jameson Carr of the Franconia, who in the interest of justice abandoned a holiday in Belgium to assist Nassau county authorities in clearing up the mystery of how Miss Faithfull was drowned off Long Beach after disappearing from her home June 8.

Parrying questions and evading direct answers, Dr. Carr made it clear he was holding his tongue only until he had an opportunity to loosen it in the secret chamber of the Nassau jury room.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards and Inspector Harold R. King, chief of Nassau county detectives, expect him to be their most important witness before the grand jury tomorrow.

The doctor disclaimed responsibility for having Miss Faithfull sent ashore on a tug when she failed to get off at sailing time, but admitted he had witnessed her departure.

ADMITS SLAYING; SENT TO PRISON.

Benton, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—Henry McRoy, 58, of West Frankfort, was taken to the penitentiary at Menard today to start serving a 14 year term for murder. McRoy was charged with killing William A. Smothers, 20 year old Benton youth, at McRoy's home May 30. McRoy entered a plea of guilty before Judge Roy E. Peace.

2 Chicagoans at Ketchican Returning from Game Hunt

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, June 22.—(AP)—En route home from Prince Rupert after a big game hunt in southeastern Alaska, George B. Dryden and Judge William V. Brothers of Chicago and Mark Merriman of Jackson, Mich., stopped here today aboard the yacht Westward. Merriman had a brown bear cub which he named Dempsey.

Banker, Former Chicagoan, Weds Restaurant Hostess

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—(AP)—Ralph W. Pittman, 32, president and treasurer of the Morris Plan bank and member of the Illinois bar, was married today to Mrs. Elsie Failor, 26, hostess in a small midtown restaurant. Mr. Pittman came to Philadelphia from Chicago in December.

NEW PACKARD CARS

New in design · New in performance · New in luxury

The new Continental models of the Packard Eight are now on display at our showrooms. You are cordially invited to examine them.

Old only in distinguished name, in adherence to the simplest principles of motor design, and in refusal to give up the characteristic beauty of line that has long spelled "Packard", the new Packards are new in everything else. Longer in wheelbase, wider in tread and with new frames! Such foundation changes make newness a necessity throughout.

Bodies have been redesigned for greater beauty, strength and luxury. They are now most thoroughly insulated against heat, cold and noise. Freshly upholstered and trimmed, with new pillow-top cushions, their interior loveliness will appeal to all.

The new Vee radiator provides an identifying mark of smartness. The new bonnet houses a more powerful motor, floated in rubber, and one that only purrs in its quietness. Out of the richest experience in the industry, Packard continues to present the simplicity and economy of eight-in-line design and in doing this challenges any other type on any score.

Outstanding among the many new features is Ride Control—shock absorbers adjustable from the dash to meet any road, speed, load or temperature condition. Now, instantly, you can have just the kind of ride you like best. At last, true luxury in motoring! Ride Control, the newest and most appreciated thing in motoring, is to be had only in Packard cars.

You will appreciate the four-speed synchromesh transmission as Packard builds it. You will marvel at the action of the Stabilizers built into the bumpers of the larger cars. You will enjoy, and we mean this most literally, the exploration of the new Packard for its many new features.

Again, come and see the new cars. Ride in them and drive them yourself and then compare them with all other cars. In spending your motoring dollar when dollars mean more, why not have the car of tomorrow instead of any car of yesterday?

Next Monday night, June 29th, Packard will present for the first time on the air GERALDINE FARRAR, famous Metropolitan soprano, beginning a series of Monday evening radio recitals in honor of its new cars.

The Packard Eight is offered in thirteen beautiful body styles—the Packard Eight DeLuxe in twelve. Prices at the factory range from $2485 for the Packard Eight Five-Passenger Sedan to $4550 for the Packard Eight DeLuxe Convertible Sedan for five.

MALOY'S DEATH THREAT TO SLAIN OPERATOR BARED

Statement of Victim Read to Grand Jury.

Named by Sixth Man.

"That's the man," he said, according to Kaufman's statement.

Kaufman, according to his declaration, recalled he had met the two accusers through two friends, but denied he had engaged them to kill the union chief. In his statement Kaufman said he met the strangers through Max Hennig and Paul Rothenberg. Hennig, according to the state's attorney's office, is an ex-dry agent and a bondsman. Rothenberg, it was said, is the Republican committeeman of the 24th ward.

Maloy, Kaufman wrote, was told by him that he had met Hennig and Rothenberg in business deals while he was an automobile salesman. The parley in the union offices was further portrayed in Kaufman's statement.

The statement says that Kaufman was advised to appear with Hennig at 1 p. m. the next day. He promised to try, but Hennig, the statement declares, refused to accompany him. Kaufman told of this refusal to Maloy, and, according to the statement, the movie "czar" closed the incident for the time being with a threat.

"Keep your damn mouth shut, or I'll see you are taken for a ride, and that will be the last anyone will hear of you," Maloy said, according to the statement. Kaufman was then slugged in the office, the statement says.

Maloy's Brother Mentioned.

Several days later, Kaufman recorded, he met Joe Maloy, a brother of Tom, whose name has been mentioned in the jury quiz dealing with the operators' union. Joe told him, Kaufman wrote, "to forget it." On July 24, states Kaufman in his record, Tom Maloy talked to an electrician at the theater. He told the electrician, says the statement, that he heard Kaufman had been taken for a ride. He added further, it is charged, that "we're not through with him yet."

Previous to the reading of the Kaufman statement, which Prosecutors Lounsbury and Bellows declined to discuss, Maloy, O'Hara and Quinn appeared in the grand jury chambers. Maloy and O'Hara had been sought for two days for questioning in the murder.

They were taken into the jury room, one at a time, but were quickly dismissed when they refused to sign immunity waivers. This refusal was on advice of counsel, it was reported.

"Maloy, O'Hara and Quinn were not asked to testify in the face of their refusal to sign waivers," said Assistant State's Attorney Bellows.

Call Actions Unusual.

Bellows and Lounsbury later expressed their opinion that it was a strange act on the part of Maloy and O'Hara to decline to aid in the solution of the Kaufman murder. "We find that union officials are always eager to help clear up the killing of their men," they commented.

Before the operators' union "czar" and his aids left the Criminal court building they were told by the prosecutors that their attorney, Michael Ahern, had given assurance of their appearance whenever wanted.

The appearance of Maloy in the grand jury rooms brought a moment of suspense. Just as Maloy stepped to the jury chambers, Carl Kaufman, brother of the slain operator and the man who furnished the statement, moved toward him and reached toward his hip pocket. Two policemen grabbed Kaufman, and, at Maloy's request, searched him for a gun. They found nothing and escorted him away. As he left he turned to Maloy, "You'll pay for this," he shouted.

Maloy Denies Any Part.

Earlier Maloy discussed the Kaufman killing. He knew nothing about it, he said. O'Hara made similar denials. Maloy's attention was called to reports that he and Kaufman had been foes. The union "czar" grinned. Kaufman, he asserted, didn't amount to much, and "nobody knew him." O'Hara offered the opinion that Kaufman was killed for trying to break into the booze racket.

Maloy seemed willing to discuss his own connections with the union. At the outset he said he received only $500 a week salary, without expenses. He described as "laughable" other reports that the union had turned over to him $250,000 as a war fund to fight the grand jury racket quiz into his organization.

He admitted, however, that the union had empowered him, without any restrictions, to employ its fund of $248,000 as he saw fit for the legitimate protection of the organization and its members' jobs.

Probe 10 Per Cent Cut.

Maloy's reference to the "10 per cent" cut is one of the matters under inquiry by Lounsberry, Bellows, and the grand jury. On May 29 Sergt. Michael Ahern of the racket bureau raided the union offices and seized a truckload of records. Judge Harry Fisher nullified the seizure, but was overruled, in effect, by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who issued a subpoena duces tecum. Other records examined were from the city department of electricity.

The city records showed, according to Lounsbury, "irregularities" in the granting of permits to operators. Joe Maloy was then head of the license bureau of the electrical department. He is a brother of the union chief.

The city and union records were examined, it was understood, particularly as to the "10 per cent" phase of the inquiry. Reports, based on the appearance of more than a score of operators before the grand jury were that men obviously incompetent to qualify for operators were granted permits at salaries ranging from $100 to $175 a week. Many of these permit operators, it was charged, were forced to turn back 10 per cent of their salaries.

Make False Statements.

Two permit operators testified, according to one report, that they had obtained their papers by swearing they had worked as operators in western cities, whereas they had never been so employed. Another operator testified, it is reported, that he could not read or write and that his examination papers were written at his side by another man.

The grand jury quiz into the alleged racket character of the operators' union, and independent of the murder inquiry, was inspired by complaints of independent theater owners that Maloy and his outfit were ruining them by insisting on the employment of two men in their houses although one man was sufficient.

RUTH NICHOLS IS HURT IN CRASH ON HOP FOR EUROPE

BULLETIN.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—June 23.—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in their monoplane "Winnie Mae" at 3:56 a. m., eastern standard time, today on the first leg of a round-the-world flight. The Oklahoma city flyers expect to start for London after a two hour rest at Harbor Grace. They hope to make a 25,000 mile flight in seven days with ten stops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 22.—Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, is in the general hospital here suffering from a strained back and a deep gash in her right leg as the result of her plane crashing on a rock about 300 yards west of the municipal airport, when she attempted to land about 7 o'clock [Chicago daylight saving time] on the first leg of her trans-Atlantic flight. She took off from New York this afternoon and was to have taken off from here tomorrow for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, her starting point.

Dr. G. A. B. Addy immediately ordered the aviatrix to the X-ray room after her admittance to the hospital to ascertain how badly she had been injured.

"Gee, this is tough," was her exclamation following the crash, which, she claimed, was due to the strong sun streaming through the windshield of her cabin.

Blinded by Rays.

"It practically blinded me from making the runway," she said.

Miss Nichols had no trouble locating the airport on her hop from New York. Shortly before 7 o'clock she was seen soaring about the airdrome. She swooped down at a high rate of speed and headed for a perfect landing to the runway. About 200 feet from the runway she seemed to lose control of her plane and crashed against a bowlder in the field. The craft landed in an upright position, but the propeller was torn away. The plane was also dented in on both sides as it careened between the rocks and rough ground.

Departure from New York.

New York, June 22.—[Special.—Ruth Nichols, in her great gold and white monoplane, took off from Floyd Bennett field at 3:24 o'clock this afternoon and soared into the sunshine toward St. John, N. B., on the first leg of her projected solo trans-Atlantic flight. She loafed along for a short time, waiting for Clarence Chamberlin, the trans-Atlantic flyer, who has been her coach, to get into the air with his plane and follow on to St. John. Col. Chamberlin took off a few minutes later.

Poised for Hop.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 22.—Otto Hillig, Liberty, N. Y., photographer, and Holger Hoirlis, Danish pilot, landed in their monoplane Liberty here at 4:25 p. m., Newfoundland daylight saving time, completing the second leg of a projected flight to Denmark. If weather reports are favorable, Hillig and Hoirlis will take off for Copenhagen Wednesday morning.

HONOR CHICAGO MEN AT ROTARY MEET IN VIENNA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, June 22.—Renomination of Rufus Fisher Chapin of Chicago as international treasurer was regarded as practically certain here today as delegates to the Rotary international convention ended the first day's session. Chapin is in Chicago, and will not attend the convention.

The day was spent in debate on a proposed survey of school books throughout the world similar to that carried on by the league of nations. Lord Robert Cecil will speak tomorrow on the forthcoming disarmament conference.

Johann Shober, Austrian foreign minister, received members of the board of directors of Rotary today. Chesley R. Perry of Chicago and Almon Rother, international president, of California, were presented with gold badges of the republic of Austria. Howard H. Feighner of Chicago and S. W. Pascall of England were given silver badges.

WHAT TEN-WORD SENTENCE CAN YOU MAKE USING ONLY THE WORDS IN TODAY'S ADS?

The Chicago Tribune will pay

$1000 IN CASH PRIZES

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

What Is a Good Time Charliegram?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice: "Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity." "The time to stock up is when prices are low." "Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today." "When business starts humming prices are bound to rise again." Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start looking for your words now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

This is your last week to try for the $1,000.00 in cash prizes which the Tribune will pay for the best original Good Time Charliegrams. All you have to do is select ten words from any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and the resulting sentence may win for you one of the big cash prizes.

Try it! It's a fascinating game—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads now!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements, EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$250.00
2nd Prize		100.00
Next 2 Prizes	$50.00 each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes	$25.00 each	100.00
Next 25 Prizes	$10.00 each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes	$ 5.00 each	200.00
73 prizes totaling		$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Fifth Series must be received in the Tribune office before 6 P. M. on Wednesday, July 1, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may use the handy blank supplied each day in the Tribune or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made to each tying contestant.

TWO KILLED IN MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLISIONS

One of Victims Is Chicago Policeman.

Warren O'Neil, 19 years old, 3325 West Monroe street, was fatally hurt yesterday morning when the motorcycle he was driving in a rainstorm skidded and struck an automobile head on near Indian south of Libertyville, in Lake county.

His brother, Edward, 15 years old, riding behind him, received a broken leg. The car which they hit was driven by Theodore Goldsmith, 915 Hickory street, Waukegan.

Chicago Policeman Killed.

Another motorcycle crash yesterday cost the life of a Chicago policeman, his death and six others raised the 1931 Cook county motor toll to 530. The victims:

South Park Policeman Thomas Johnson, 29 years old, fatally injured when the motorcycle he was riding in the outer drive was struck from behind by an automobile driven by William Devine, 8126 Luella avenue at 53rd street. Johnson died in the Michael Reese hospital. Devine was arraigned before Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli before Johnson's death on a charge of reckless driving and was a continuance until July 15.

Bobby Weller, 3 years old, 3211 North Paulina street. Killed while he was playing about a spouting water hydrant at 1627 West 32d street by a truck driven by Albert Krause, 20 East 94th street.

Louis Theobald, 76 years old, 7429 Clement avenue. Killed early this morning at 75th and State streets, where he had been a news dealer for many years, by an automobile driven by Joe Galette, 22 years old, 5303 Michigan avenue.

Mildbrand Han, 56 years old, of 750 West 18th street. Died last night in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries suffered June 18 when his automobile and the car driven by William Cillon, 19 years old, 2747 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn, collided at 63d street and Hamlin avenue.

Miss Lena Haller, 76 years old, 5745 Ingleside avenue. Killed when a car in which she was riding, driven by Mrs. Rose Fleming, 43 years old, of the same address, collided with another automobile driven by Mrs. Harry Arnold, 948 Belden avenue, at Milwaukee avenue and Golf road. Mrs. Fleming suffered severe injuries.

Henry Perryman, 73 years old, 566 Fryman street. Fatally injured when he was struck at Taylor street and Seeley avenue by an automobile which had been taken by two robbers from the owner on Sunday. His death occurred at the county hospital.

Miss Jean Tyne, 33 years old, Tyne hotel. Died in St. James hospital in Chicago Heights, of injuries received Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding struck another on St. Terrence avenue and the Lincoln highway. Five other persons were hurt, one so seriously that he may die. W. A. King, 57 years old, of the McCormick hotel, companion of Miss Tyne, has internal injuries. Miss Anne Badner, 20 years old, 1643 South Halsted street, received a fractured skull.

Five Hurt in Crash.

Five men were injured, three seriously, when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into an electric light pole at 92d street and Muskegon avenue. The men, whom the South Chicago police said had been drinking, were unable to make a sharp turn after crossing a bridge over the Calumet river. They are: Michael Onofrio, 41 years old, 9344 Muskegon avenue; John Kostelk, 27 years old, 10033 Avenue L; Louis Semanik, 32 years old, 9136 Phillips avenue; Frank Lupoc, 29 years old, 10062 Avenue O; and Joe Stubler, 25 years old, 9350 Muskegon avenue. The conditions of the first three were reported to be serious.

Frank Montana, 17 years old, 914 West Polk street, whose father and brother, Joe Sr. and Joe Jr. are well known to police, was arrested last night after the automobile which he was driving injured a girl seriously at Congress and Halsted streets. The girl, Katie Rentas, 12 years old, 2517 Flournoy street, was taken to the Mother Cabrini hospital with a fractured skull and broken leg.

Girl Secretary to Doctor Seized on Contempt Charge

Miss Helen Warren, supposedly the secretary of Dr. Clifford S. Goodman, 185 North Wabash avenue, who is accused of receiving money under false pretenses while treating a woman for cancer, will appear before Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli this morning to answer charges of direct contempt of court following an alleged confession that she perjured herself to protect the doctor, to whom she owed a debt of gratitude.

Miss Warren was taken into custody at the Dearborn station yesterday as she was about to board a train for California and was taken to Judge Borrelli's chambers.

False Testimony Charged.

According to the judge she admitted testifying falsely in his court on May 29, when Dr. Goodman was arraigned on charges that he had accepted $400 from Mrs. Marie Setterstien, 1114 Wellington avenue, with which to buy radium to treat her sister, Miss Louise Passow, for cancer, and then had failed to secure the radium.

At this arraignment, Judge Borrelli said, Dr. Goodman presented a notation signed by Miss Warren as his secretary acknowledging the receipt of 20 ten-milligrams of radium from a "Dr. Clarkson." At the same time, the judge said, Miss Warren testified in person that the radium had been received.

Admits Story is Wrong.

In her confession yesterday, the judge stated, she admitted that "Dr. Clarkson" was a fictitious character. When Dr. Goodman's continued case comes up this morning, the young lady will be asked to appear also and repeat her alleged confession. Miss Warren is 26 years old and lives at 14512 Lexington avenue, Harvey.

Records of the Edgewater hospital show that Miss Passow was being treated for cancer by Dr. Goodman in April.

Start Delivery of New Chicago Phone Directory

Delivery of the summer issue of the Chicago telephone directory, listing about 225,000 changes in phone numbers, was begun yesterday and will be in progress until July 3, when officials of the company hope to have the task completed. Four hundred men and thirty motor trucks are engaged in the delivery. The new summer issue includes a new downtown central office prefix—Andover—making 110 central offices now in use.

NEAR DEADLOCK ON NEW GRANT TO PHONE COMPANY

Aldermen and telephone company lawyers appeared close to a deadlock yesterday over the section of the proposed telephone franchise fixing the company's obligation to pay for relocation of its lines in connection with any public improvement.

W. P. SIDLEY. [Kaufmas & Fabry Photo.]

The members of the council committee on gas, oil, and electricity, who last week ordered the section of the franchise on relocation costs redrafted, turned the redraft back to their lawyers for further revision yesterday. No specific instructions were given the attorneys, however.

At the same time Attorney William P. Sidley stated definitely for the company that it will not subscribe to the language of the old ordinance on relocation costs. The franchise which expired in 1929 placed a definite obligation on the company to bear the full cost of relocating its lines whenever the installation of any public improvement, such as a subway or street widening project, made that necessary.

The redrafted section, which the aldermen refused to accept yesterday, provided that the company should pay the whole cost or such part of the cost of relocations assessed against it by the city council. It contained the further proviso, however, that the company should not pay a higher percentage of relocation costs than that paid by any other utility company.

Ald. Hodes Objects.

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] objected to that provision.

"The gas company," Hodes said, "operates under a perpetual charter from the state, and not under a franchise from the city council. It is thus in a superior position in any negotiations with the council. Because the gas company is in a position to demand a deal, I don't see why we should grant the telephone company the same preferment."

Former Corporation Counsel Busch, who is representing the city in the negotiations, explained that the gas company is placed on terms of equality with all other utilities under the subway legislation. If that legislation is ever declared unconstitutional, however, he said the city might have some difficulty in proceeding under common law to collect relocation costs from the gas company.

Nelson Charges Tapped Wires.

After the meeting formally adjourned Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], a consistent opponent of the franchise, made the charge that his home and office telephone wires had been tapped.

"I can't get a message through my home phone," he said, "without its being relayed through a second operator."

"What do you want us to do?" inquired Sidley.

"Quit fooling with my phone," said Nelson.

CHARGED $9.30 FOR GINGER ALE, HE SUES FOR $100,000

A bill of $9.30 for two bottles of ginger ale should bring a vigorous protest in any night club, says Victor P. Swanson, 7221 Aberdeen street, a draftsman. Swanson has brought a $100,000 damage suit against the Midnight Frolics, Inc., a night club at 18 East 22d street. He alleges he visited the night club on May 3 with another man and two girls and was given the bill for two bottles of ginger ale and a cover charge. When he objected, Swanson avers, he was pushed about by William Porter and Charles Ritty and taken to the South State street police station, where he won release only after paying Porter.

THE FAST, PLEASANT, LOW COST WAY TO COLORADO

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

The faithful old-time icebox is disappearing. And so are noisy mechanical refrigerators—Electrolux has made them obsolete.

Electrolux—the modern automatic refrigerator that operates without any noise or moving parts—makes noisy refrigerators seem behind the times

A FEW years ago any automatic refrigerator was considered "modern"—no matter how noisy it was, no matter how much complicated machinery it contained.

If the refrigerator made its own ice and provided its own cold, that was thought to be enough.

But it isn't enough today. Not when 150,000 fine homes and apartments have chosen Electrolux, the automatic refrigerator that contains no machinery at all, and never makes a sound.

In Electrolux a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water circulate the refrigerant that makes the cold and freezes ice cubes. The refrigerant itself is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. It is hermetically sealed within the rigid steel unit.

The gas flame is protected by an automatic shut-off that cuts off the flow of gas automatically should the flame ever be extinguished.

The chilling action in this refrigerator never ceases. There is no alternate stopping and starting. Electrolux works all the time, and so the cold is unusually constant, steady.

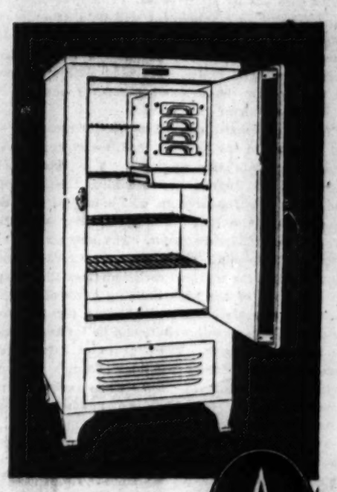
Connections for both gas and water are through concealed flexible copper tubing, and are quickly and easily made for you by your gas company. And remember—should your electrolux ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE

Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of any other means of refrigeraion.

Electrolux gives you all these unique features, yet costs less to run than any other refrigerator—a few cents a day covers everything. Despite its many advantages, Electrolux prices are no higher. And it is made in 10 different household models, from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity.

Be sure to see this refrigerator at you gas company's showroom before buying any make—and look for it in the apartment you rent. For complete information by mail, write us or phone Wabash 6000.



THE KITCHENETTE—a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model—extremely popular for families of 2 to 5 persons.

IS CHICAGO OVERBUILT?

The conclusion reached by Prof. Woodbury of Northwestern university that a shortage of low-rental apartments is impending in Chicago runs counter to the general belief. It has been said so often that Chicago is overbuilt that a statement to the contrary is regarded with considerable suspicion. The fact is, as Prof. Woodbury shows, that overbuilding is pronounced in some types of structure but not in all.

We have more office buildings and more high priced apartments than we have immediate need for. We are also more than adequately provided, for the present, with hotel accommodations. But elsewhere the supply is not so great in relation to demand.

There is said to be some $400,000,000 worth of real estate now in foreclosure in Cook county. Accurate statistics are lacking, but men in close touch with the situation have expressed the opinion that at least three-fourths and probably more of the foreclosed residential properties were designed to appeal to perhaps one-fourth of the population, that fourth being those possessed of incomes of $2,500 and more a year. If foreclosures may be taken as a rough index of where the surplus lies, it follows that there is relatively little overbuilding of dwellings for families whose incomes amount to $2,500 a year or less; and these people constitute three-fourths of the population of Chicago.

It is precisely in this class, too, that the doubling up of families in apartments is commonest. When business conditions improve and employment picks up, the first result to be expected is the setting up again of the family in its own dwelling. Few persons live by preference in overcrowded rooms. The great majority of men and their wives prefer to run their own establishments. Doubling up is an expedient, unwholesome and unwelcome, which has been forced on many families by hard times. The first sign of improvement in employment will be a stimulated demand for low-priced apartments. It is a fair guess that the demand will quickly absorb any excess that now exists. Probably within a year of the upturn the demand will have equaled if it has not outrun the supply.

This fact constitutes, perhaps, the most hopeful element in the present business situation because it points the way out. The leaders of business and finance are scanning the horizon for some new industry in which capital can be invested for the long term with safety and the prospect of moderate profit. The success of the Rosenwald housing experiment in Chicago and similar ventures in New York indicates that even on the basis of the high building costs of recent years large-scale apartment houses for families in the lower income brackets can be made to yield an adequate return. The margin of safety will rise as the shortage of dwellings becomes marked. Buildings constructed now when costs have touched bottom will have an advantage over future construction.

In this connection it should be remembered that most of the buildings now available for the $2,500 families are relatively small. Because they are small, the costs of financing have been relatively high. Economies in planning have been lost, partly because the architects employed have been generally of the fifth or sixth rank and partly because the small building is inherently more wasteful of excavation and roof than the large one. If today, in the midst of the depression, the Rosenwald project for Negroes, with only 7 per cent of the population of Chicago to draw upon, is profitable, it seems altogether probable that similar constructions, appealing to a far wider clientele, will prove at least as successful in the face of the definite shortage of accommodations which can be anticipated a few years hence.

American industry taught the business men of the world that the largest profits are to be found in supplying the wants of the families in the lower income ranges. If the principle is true of automobile transportation and merchandising it may also be true of housing. Henry Ford put as much into a $500 car as he could pack with the economies of large-scale production to help him. The same theory if applied to the building industry might lead to equally astonishing results.

Incidentally, money invested in building apartments for the common man today will go farther toward ending the depression and providing employment than any other investment which has been suggested. The building industry will stimulate, directly or indirectly, every other in the country.

A TEST OF CHICAGO'S SCOTLAND YARD.

The murder of Jacob Kaufman, the moving picture operator, provides a test of the new detective organization in the Chicago police department. At Mr. Cermak's insistence, a bureau has been created which is charged with the task of investigating major crimes. The intention is to assign detectives to these cases and keep them at work until the cases are solved, no matter how long it may take.

The idea is sound and it will work, as has been demonstrated—notably in the Brothers case—provided no influences are effective in halting the investigations. To all outward appearances, the motive for Kaufman's murder will be found somewhere in the inner politics of the moving picture operators' union. It may be assumed, if this is so, that the murder was committed at the behest of men who are not without substantial financial strength and who are not without political influence.

If the new bureau solves this crime, notice will have been served upon racketeers generally that their day of immunity is over. If the crime is not solved, the professional gunman will believe, and not without reason on his side, that things in Chicago are about as they always were. This is a test case. Upon it hinges to no small degree the success which Mr. Cermak will have in ridding Chicago of major crime in his administration.

A WARNING FROM AUSTRALIA.

Australia in terms of population is a small country, smaller by several millions than the state of Illinois. Because of that fact and its remoteness the lesson which Australia today offers democratic governments in other quarters of the globe may be ignored. There may be an inclination to say that because Australia is a huge continent, sparsely settled, its experience is not likely to be duplicated. The fact is that every democratic government is in danger of the same kind of bankruptcy with which Australia is trying to deal today. The blow struck Australia first, but England is not much better off and even in Chicago, where underlying economic forces are far more favorable, the local governments are unable to meet their pay rolls and their maturing debts promptly.

Australians made the mistake of thinking that there was no limit to the obligations which government could assume in coddling the citizens. As long as the markets for wheat and wool remained fairly favorable, Australia found it possible to raise the needed revenues through taxation and the flotation of loans. The break in commodity prices also broke the governments. The limit of taxation had been reached and foreign credit was exhausted.

The solution upon which the political parties in the commonwealth appear to have agreed is the sharp reduction in pensions and bounties to the citizens, a sharp reduction in other government expenditures and the confiscation of the property of those who lent money to the governments. In all, the internal debt amounts to more than $2,600,000,000, yielding about 5 per cent. Holders of these bonds will be asked to exchange them for others yielding about 4 per cent. "Asked" is a euphemism. The reality is indicated in the dispatches which state that "drastic action will be taken against recalcitrant bondholders." The effect of this seizure of property upon the government's credit is easily foreseen.

The lesson is almost too plain to need stressing. There is a limit to the revenues which a government can obtain and that limit is fixed by the productivity of the enterprises within the state. When taxation eats up the bulk of a nation's income, production is discouraged, still further weakening public and private finances. A flight of capital ensues and repudiation and confiscation are made inevitable. Australia may not recover from her spree for years to come.

Governments as well as individuals cannot long live beyond their means. If any one supposes that the wealth of this country is so great that governments can never exhaust it, let him examine the recent compilation of the growth of government expenditures. Already our governments are spending a seventh of the national income. In England the situation is even more serious. Australia stands as a warning of what the future has in store for us if we do not mend our ways.

Editorial of the Day

"A BOMB FROM THE GRAVE."
[New York Evening Post.]

One of the most striking statements made in Europe in recent years has just issued not from any conference of statesmen but from the past. It is presented in the memoirs of the late Bernhard, Prince von Bülow, who was imperial chancellor in Germany from 1900 until 1909 and a close and rather anxious student of Wilhelm II. and his scheme of world politics in the period which saw the rise of war psychology as a dominating force at Potsdam. Prince von Bülow, who was recalled to official life in haste to serve as ambassador to Italy after the war began, asserts bluntly that Wilhelm II. was the precipitating cause of the débâcle. It isn't strange that the book has been characterized as "a bomb from the grave."

Prince von Bülow was one of the ablest statesmen in Europe. He admired the English and he was deeply affected by the spirit of Italian culture. His detailed studies of the character and purposes of Wilhelm are devastating in their general effect. It was his privilege on one occasion to see the old king of Belgium frightened and astounded by the young kaiser's frank and contemptuous assertion that the German army would march through his country if the need arose. The implication of mental and emotional instability in the kaiser appears on almost every page of the memoirs. Wilhelm vibrated between moods of Napoleonic resolution and moods of abject fright. Says Von Bülow:

> On July 25, 1914, it was still possible for us to avoid war. It would have been sufficient to declare at Vienna that we would in no case authorize the rupture of relations between Austria and Serbia. . . . We should have proposed at the same time to submit the points still in dispute to the tribunal of arbitration at The Hague.

The writer further asserts that Germany declared war on Russia "in haste" in order to force the adhesion of the Social Democratic party to the government by giving the latter an anti-czarist appearance.

"Now," says one great German newspaper bitterly, "they have only to flaunt this book in our faces when we ask for the elision of the war-guilt paragraph from the Versailles treaty."

DOWN THE LINE.

The telephone operator's call was answered by a baby's voice. "Isn't your mother there?" inquired the operator.

"No."

"Isn't your big sister there?"

"No. There's nobody here but grandma and me and the cat. Grandma can't hear and the cat can't talk."—Exchange.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

D. M. writes for an article on nervous breakdown: Its causes, symptoms, diet, and the best way to build oneself up.

It is evident that D. M. thinks of a nervous breakdown as a physical disorder—one that results from physical causes, and that can be repaired by physical remedies. In this he is at least 90 per cent wrong.

The term is a loose one—so very loose that it is not easy to decide just what it means. It follows that there is a great latitude in causation. Using the term in the customary sense, a nervous breakdown is a personality disorder. It is the mind and the emotions rather than the physical structures that are at fault. Underneath it lies fear, anxiety, worry, unwillingness to face the realities of life, lack of ability to withstand strain, hysteria, lack of courage and poise. Sometimes all of these qualities enter into the personality. In other cases one or more are missing. In some cases one of them is to the fore. In other cases, another.

The type of personality which is most subject to the disorder is that which goes by the name "nervous personality," though the cyclic personality, in its depressive phases, is liable to run into what is called "nervous breakdown." The breaks which occur in other forms of personality should be called by names other than this one.

If the breakdown is a mild one the symptoms may be a feeling of inadequacy, unwillingness to try to meet obstacles, to fight back. There may also be dizziness, lack of appetite, fatigue, and insomnia. If it is more severe it goes by the name of "symptoms of psychasthenia."

There is no special diet. A good, nutritious, wholesome diet, and one that appeals to the appetite is of service. However, patients with nervous breakdown do not care to have people try to diet them.

The only place of drugs in treatment is in meeting occasional symptoms. It is claimed that radium solution internally has some value. Possibly other remedies help somewhat. The core of treatment is mental, spiritual, and social training. There should be a period of relaxation and rest, after which the training should be of another kind.

TRENCH MOUTH CAN BE CURED.

S. F. writes: What is the cause and the result of trench mouth?

REPLY.

Trench mouth is caused by infection of some part of the mouth by two microbes acting in conjunction. It can be cured, leaving no after effects, although it may have caused some destruction of tissue. Keeping the mouth very clean is a preventive. Mouth washes are excellent for that purpose. Soap is an almost perfect preventive.

RIDDING CLOTHES OF LICE.

P. M. A. writes: I have discovered lice in my suit of clothes, which is practically new. I cannot afford to throw the suit away or burn it up. However, I will do so, if you say it should be done. Is it possible for me to get the lice and eggs out of the suit if there are any left in it? There are no vermin on my body.

REPLY.

The usual method is to iron the clothing, especially the seams. The iron should be almost hot enough to scorch.

Steaming them long and well is even better. A well equipped cleaner should be able to solve your problem. Lice in clothing go on the body to feed. If your insects do not, then they belong to some other insect tribe.

WHAT CAUSES HEARTBURN.

A. writes:

1. Is there any cure for appendicitis besides operation?
2. What is the cause of heartburn?

REPLY.

1. Chronic appendicitis rarely calls for operation. Many cases of acute appendicitis get well spontaneously. Fasting, quiet in bed, and cold packs locally applied are of service. Good surgical judgment is required for a decision as to which cases are to be operated.
2. Among the causes of heartburn are infection of gall bladder, gall stones, ulcers, cancer, adhesions, constipation, faulty diet, wrong eating habits, and perhaps chronic appendicitis.

ZONED FOR HOMES.

Chicago, June 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Can an owner of a cottage in the 1200 block of North Springfield avenue change his house into a candy store? Is there not a law prohibiting people in the restricted districts from erecting stores in the same locality? H. W.

The block referred to is zoned for apartments. It is not permitted to use the building on Springfield avenue for business purposes. The owner has obtained a permit to change a window into a door, but not for store purposes.

JOHN R. ERICSSON,
Commissioner of Buildings.

AFTER BANK FAILS.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a bank fails, how many days have the depositors to file claims for their money after the date the bank goes into the hands of receiver? 2. Is there a state law pertaining to the time limit to file claims? 3. Can a depositor claim his money after the time has expired? C. B.

1. There is no stated period.
2. No.
3. In general, all depositors will receive some dividend.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

READ YOUR LEASE.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A year ago last May we signed a two year lease on a flat, on which we now cannot afford to pay the rent. We pay by the month; can we leave by giving one month notice? H. S.

No, the lease would remain binding in accordance with its wording.

STARTING AT BOTTOM.

Chicago, June 17.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to take a civil service examination for electric inspector. When and where do I apply? J. H. B.

The examination for electrical inspector has always been promotion, open to various employés now employed in the electrical service, including electrical mechanics.

If he desires to be notified for the next original entrance examination for electrical mechanic we will be pleased to notify him.

JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary, Chicago Civil Service Commission.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT STARTED TROUBLE OVER THERE, TOO.

Quite a number of shades had gathered on the other side of the Styx and they were all terribly aroused. Something had happened over in that peaceful land and the debate was heated and at times acrimonious.

"I tell you right now," each one was shouting, "I'm not going to be the goat! Let 'em start it on anybody else's grave they want to. But not mine."

The ghosts were those of long dead Democrats and they were aroused over the reports that the present day Democrats were going to follow the lead set by the Republicans and start the 1931 campaign with a series of speeches at tombs of the departed great.

"Let 'em start at Tom Jefferson's grave," shouted the ghost of Martin Van Buren; "he's been dead the longest."

"Quite true," observed Mr. Jefferson, "but not so thoroughly dead as a certain party that I am looking at right now." And he fixed a piercing gaze on Mr. Van Buren.

"Is that so?" demanded Mr. Van Buren. "Well, let me tell you something. There's a street in Chicago right now that bears my name. Whaddaya know about that?"

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," said the ghost of Phineas T. Barnum, "don't make a show of yourselves. Or at least until we advertise the thing, print the tickets and decide that I am to be the manager and get seventy-five per cent of the gate receipts."

"Well," spoke up the ghost of Stephen A. Douglas, "to get back to the point; I for one don't want the Democratic platform launched over my head. If they crawfish around and dodge and twist the way the Republicans are doing I'd be mighty uncomfortable."

"Gentlemen," said the ghost of President Buchanan, "as my friend Julius Cæsar, whom I see standing over there regarding us with some amusement, once said, 'the die is cast.' The Republicans are to blame. They started this thing and the Democrats are going to finish it. They'll launch their campaign over our dead bodies and there's nothing we can do about it. Let's forget it and go over to George Washington's houseboat and have some of his home made whisky. There's one advantage we have over the living Democrats anyhow."

So, with Julius Cæsar following behind, the long departed Democrats marched over to call on Mr. Washington.

NIGHT RIDE.

We shattered the moonlight's silver breast
With horn and light and laughter,
But over the dark sweet sleeping dunes
It closed like water, after.

We turned an alien golden eye
Wherever the road was new;
Behind us, under the breathing trees,
Night was as dim, as blue.

For I crept into my wishing shoes,
And stole right back to see.
There wasn't a hint in the wide cool world
Of the passing of you or me.

LOLA MALLATT.

THE ONE YEAR MORATORIUM for debts is a grand idea. This is to notify Ray, our groceryman, and Jack, our butcher, that we will not pay them what we owe, nor will we pay them for supplies for the next year. But that's as far as we will go, and if old Bill Wisner doesn't pay us that seventy-five cents that we won off him on the last Derby we're going to sue him, and if we can we'll put him in jail.

HOORAY! HOORAY! And a tiger; our pet stock that has been trying to crawl through to China in its mad efforts to effect a new low every day sat up and took nourishment yesterday and actually climbed a notch or two upward. All because of the debt vacation for one year. We wish debt would take a vacation for ten years. Goodness, how that stock would zoom! Maybe.

A SOCIETY MAN.

Hearken, students in the colleges of journalism. You will note that the newspapers are so excited they are black in the face because they say that one of Mr. Alphonse Capone's gang is a "society man." Nothing, students of the colleges of journalism, can put you in so strong with your future city editor as discovering that a person involved in a black scandal is a "society" man. Hook your man up to society if you can possibly do so. Now, this particular society man, who was a lieutenant of Alphonse's, is given his aristocratic standing because of the fact that he belongs to a suburban golf club. At first glance that wouldn't seem to you as distinctive enough to make him a society man. Belonging to a golf club is about the same as belonging to the human race, say you, but you are not yet a journalist. Simply remember that if a man plays golf, even if it's only peewee golf, he is a society man, and if you don't put that in the first line of your story the city editor will throw you right out the window.

AMIDST the great outpouring of praise to the administration for the debt moratorium only two concerned are strangely silent. France and our tailor.

R. H. L.

NOW IF HE JUST DOESN'T TRY TO BRING HIS TRUNK AND SUITCASE ALONG

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, acting in twenty coördinated departments and conferences, added a new chapter to the advance of honesty in advertising. The 155 newspaper delegates representing the newspaper section of the convention voted to adopt the following standard of practice: To make none but true statements of circulation; to maintain advertising rates as published; to reject fraudulent advertising, and to oppose free publicity.

BERLIN.—The Russian retirement from Lemberg may be said to have begun. Forces defending the city from the north are falling back in an easterly direction. Three Austro-German armies were within a few hours' march of the Galician capital when the last dispatches were filed at Przemysl. Gen. von Mackensen's center was slowly turning the Russian flanks, while two other Austro-German forces were approaching Lemberg through Zoelkiew from the north and Komarno on the south.

LONDON.—A message received at Rotterdam from Berlin states that Lemberg will fall tomorrow. Flags are already flying in German cities in anticipation of the victory. Vienna reports that the Austro-German army has severed the Russian line and the Muscovites are fighting with a severed army.

LONDON.—The French seaport of Dunkirk again has been subjected to a terrific bombardment by a gun of huge caliber situated somewhere behind the German lines. Fourteen shells were dropped on the city and a number of civilians were killed. The allied troops have made good gains in Alsace, where the Berlin official statement admits the Germans have been forced to abandon the western bank of the Fecht river.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1901.

CHICAGO. — Before the largest crowd that ever went to Washington Park track, and for the largest amount of money ever at stake except in the memorable race of 1893, Robert Waddell won the fourteenth American Derby. On his back sat John Bullman, who rode the American Derby winner of one year ago. W. T. Shafer's Terminus finished second, and R. T. Wilson Jr.'s The Parader came in a poor third, with the others badly beaten.

NEW HAVEN.—Adelbert Hay, son of Secretary Hay, and former consul to Pretoria, was found dead on the sidewalk outside the New Haven house early this morning. He was only 24 years old when he was appointed United States consul at Pretoria on Dec. 3, 1899, within a few weeks after the beginning of the Boer-British war.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—One of the most brilliant weddings that has taken place at Rye Beach occurred when Albert Arnold Sprague, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. A. Sprague of Chicago, was married to Miss Frances Fidelia Dibblee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dibblee of Chicago. The ceremony took place at St. Andrew's by the Sea and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Coit, principal of St. Paul's school, Concord, assisted by the Rev. Dr. D. F. Warren of Jersey City, who married the parents of the bride.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1881.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—A dispatch from Tombstone, Ariz., says that the town is burning and that a large part of it already has been destroyed. Fire swept over 7,250 acres in Merced county, California, destroying wheat crops and many farm houses and barns.

ROME.—The Italian government has prohibited all demonstrations in Italian cities hostile to France. Premier Depretis announced that force would be used if necessary to prevent such demonstrations. The feeling against the French seems to be most bitter in Rome, Turin and Milan as a result of the recent riots at Marseilles. Numbers of Italians are quitting the French city for Italy.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

SCHOOL EXTRAVAGANCE.

Chicago, June 17.—One always expects educators to encourage extravagance. They live with their heads in the clouds, ready to encourage any fad or fancy which appeals to them, and happily spending the taxpayers' money. But how hardheaded business men, such as one supposes are on the board of education [when they must have known they would soon be bankrupt], could have continued the orgy of extravagance we hear of in our schools is incredible!

Radios and moving pictures, musical instruments and baseballs, swimming pools, expensive special teachers of art, music, athletics, vocation and evening schools, new junior high schools with special rooms and highly paid teachers—one might go on for pages. The taxpayer may be worried as to how he can raise money to buy his own children shoes, but let us have tap dancing taught, have our pupils singing in ancient languages, let us have tons of colored paper to cut up, and clay for pottery!

I think many people are of the opinion that education, in preparing children for life, should teach them self-control, self-reliance, and, above all, that they should go without what they cannot afford. The young people I know, products of modern education in Chicago, buy cars without money, marry when they have nothing, indulge in every luxury, and send the bills to fathers. We do not help our children when we spend beyond our means, as the schools have done. We should teach them ideas of thrift and of spending according to their pocketbooks.

I asked a little girl of my acquaintance if she didn't miss her junior high when she had to change to an elementary school. She looked at me in surprise.

"We learn the same things," she said, "only they have grander names in the junior high."

There are many of us like this child [not impressed by the jargon of the educators] who would like to see the schools made more simple and expenses kept within reasonable bounds.

OBSERVER.

ASLEEP OR DEAD?

Chicago, June 18.—Are the property owners of Chicago asleep or are they already dead? This morning's TRIBUNE should arouse them to action, not tears or talk.

"Chicago taxes jump 27% per cent in fourteen years," and they are still mounting; 10 per cent higher for 1930 and 4 or 5 per cent higher still for 1931. If the property owners stand for it they deserve all that they get. I should say, "If we stand for it," for unfortunately I also am enmeshed in the clutches of the octopus. S. A. R.

FOOTBALL TICKETS AT $4.

Joliet, Ill., June 19.—I must admit that the individual who commented on the fact that the tickets for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game would be sold at $4 rather than $3 must not have realized the difficulty charitable institutions confront during the present times. The proceeds from the game are to be used in charity work, so why should a few individuals complain if the price of admission is raised $1? T. DONOVAN.

BREAD FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Chicago, June 12.—This coming winter threatens to be the most difficult and trying one that the American people have ever been called upon to face. In view of the situation that confronted us last winter and found us unprepared to cope with it except in a hit-or-miss fashion, permit me to make what I consider a very practical suggestion. I know that preachers are regarded as hopelessly impractical men, and yet it is possible for them to get away from empty theorizing and attack certain problems in a businesslike manner.

The indications, at present, point to a bumper crop this summer. Our farmers doubtlessly will be faced with the serious problem of disposing of their surplus produce. May I suggest that the government come to the rescue, purchase this surplusage and put it away in government storehouses and hold it in readiness against tha threatened famine of the coming winter?

I realize that there is nothing startlingly original in this proposal. A similar plan was offered by Joseph to the king of Egypt something like 2,300 years ago, and it worked successfully.

I am fully aware of the charge of "paternalism" and the outcries against a "dole" that will immediately be raised, but if we are to do the humane thing, if we are to do the just and the right thing, if we feel that our country ought to be more interested in the conservation of its citizenship than in the conservation of its natural resources, we will not allow the fear of any such indictment on the part of reactionaries to deter us from the discharge of a sacred obligation, and the time to take such action is the immediate present. We do not want to wait until it is too late. Surely we do not want a repetition of the tragic spectacle of bread lines such as last year. We owe it to the farmer, we owe it to the unemployed, we owe it to the necessitous to give them the assurance that they will not be permitted to starve for food in a land where economists claim that the present depression is largely due to overproduction.

I make no suggestion as to the manner in which this thing can be financed—I leave such a matter to our Mellons and other financial geniuses. I merely plead for a humanitarian, an American act of justice and mercy.

FOR BIBLE STUDENTS.

Chicago, June 19.—To settle a dispute would you kindly give the facts regarding following statements, made by a foreigner whose people do not believe in the Christian religion? He states the Bible says Adam and Eve were colored and also mentions Christ had brothers and sisters. Any reader of the Bible knows such statements are ridiculous and without foundation, but he claims he is a student of the Bible and I am wrong. Will you kindly enlighten him.

SANCTITY IN ALABAMA.

Chicago, June 14.—Anent the unlovely state of Alabama, which is in the heart of what Mr. Mencken calls "the Bible belt," where holiness sits like a thing of lead, it is unlawful to own a deck of playing cards or to be found playing a game of Old Maid. Such are the frills of excessive sanctity. W. S. GREEN.

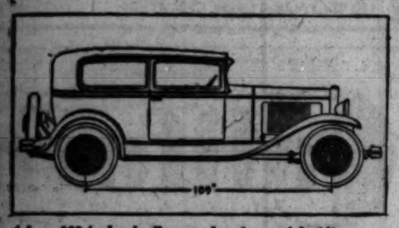
What the buyer of a low-priced car has a right to expect today

Important things have been happening in the motor car industry during recent years. Progress has made rapid strides. Standards of quality have advanced. Features and advantages formerly confined to costly cars have been steadily brought down within the means of more and more millions of buyers.

Because of this progress, the buyer of a low-priced car has a right to expect a great deal more for his money today than ever.



A long 109-inch wheelbase makes for restful riding comfort and adds to Chevrolet's smart appearance.

He is entitled to a full-size car, for instance, one in which driver and all passengers can ride without being crowded. Chevrolet gives him the travel-ease of a long 109-inch wheelbase—the comfort of roomy Fisher bodies with wide seats and ample leg room.

He is entitled to the restfulness and safety of modern spring suspension. Chevrolet supports its frame with four parallel-mounted chrome-vanadium springs, controlled by 4 hydraulic shock absorbers.

He is entitled to the comfort and luxury of modern, multi-cylinder performance. Chevrolet's 50-horsepower 6-cylinder engine delivers that smooth, quiet power which nothing less than six cylinders can give.

He is entitled to enjoy this modern performance at a minimum cost for gas, oil, tires and upkeep. 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is a common experience with Chevrolet owners. And the records of many large business firms prove that the Chevrolet Six is less expensive to operate and maintain than any other car they have ever used.

Among Chevrolet's features that add to the convenience and safety of driving are: insulated driver's compartment, adjustable seat, non-glare windshield, foot controlled headlamps and complete instrument panel.

He is entitled to the pride and prestige that come from a fine-looking car—smart and modish outside, luxurious within. In the lines and appointments of the Chevrolet Six, Chevrolet has struck an attractive new note in motor car style that is winning nationwide popularity.

He is entitled to the advantages of truly fine coachwork. Chevrolet gives him the distinction of Body by Fisher. And that means the same kind of construction used on costly cars—composite wood-and-steel, which is rugged, safe and permanently quiet.

He is entitled to a modern safety gasoline tank. Chevrolet offers the modern "pump" method of fuel supply, which makes it possible to mount the tank in the rear, away from engine and chassis.

Chevrolet's 50-h. p. six-cylinder engine combines smooth, quiet performance with unusual economy of operation.

He is entitled to a service policy whose provisions are plainly set forth. Every Chevrolet buyer receives, upon delivery of his car, a printed and signed document—the Chevrolet Owner's Service Policy. This service agreement is unquestionably the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced automobile.

In deciding what car to choose in today's low-price field, insist on all the advantages which progress has made it possible for you to enjoy. Choose a Chevrolet Six. Its cost, delivered at your door ready to use, is one of the lowest in the motor car market.

PROGRESS SEEN AS CERTAIN FOR COURT REFORMS

Judicial Council Aims to Push Program.

Despite the sidetracking of their court reform legislative program at Springfield, members of the Cook county judicial advisory council yesterday were optimistic about their progress and the prospects of accomplishments in the future. Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan and Circuit Judge Harry Fisher, members of the council, each said that the work of the group would go on.

The two judges pointed out that, although the general program of 30 bills was tabled in the house, the gateway amendment which the council had recommended was adopted and that one of the bills escaped the fate of the others and was passed. The latter was the jury commissioners' bill revising the procedure in preparing jury lists. The legislature also authorized the continuance of the Cook county as well as the state judicial council for two more years.

Council Is Encouraged.

"We feel that the passage of the gateway amendment and the passage of one important bill were accomplishments and we are far from discouraged," said Judge Fisher. Judge Sullivan emphasized the fact that in the last year the council had been instrumental in bringing about notable changes in criminal procedure outside the legislature, in particular by winning Supreme court decisions allowing jury waiver in criminal cases and knocking out the century old law making juries judges of the law as well as of the fact. The defeated bills, he said, would be kept alive and pressed again at the next session.

Under the gateway amendment, which is to be submitted to a referendum, the state constitution can be amended without the calling of a constitutional convention. This would make way for several fundamental court reforms advocated by the councils.

The jury commissioner bill, which now awaits the governor's signature, would give the judges general control over the jury commissioners system, permitting them, among other things, to prepare a comparatively small active list of jurors and to call them at terms when it is most convenient. This bill, according to Judges Fisher and Sullivan, will make the jury system much simpler and more flexible.

Would Enlarge Powers.

Among the more important measures sponsored by the judicial councils which met death in the house were those to abolish terms of court, simplify indictments, limit challenges for conscientious scruples against capital punishment, and to enlarge the power of the courts to dismiss for want of prosecution. The program was the result of two years of study by the council members, including visits to courts in other states and in Canada.

Members of the Cook county council, in addition to Judges Fisher and Sullivan, are Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Supreme court and Attorneys John J. Healy and Amos C. Miller.

BY PARKE BROWN.

G. O. P. now stands for Grim Old Poverty.

The Republican organization of Chicago has gone broke.

R. W. SNOW. [Acme Photo.]

Rumors that this tragedy was imminent have been heard for several weeks, but the first definite action proving the presence of the wolf at the door came yesterday. The county headquarters in the Steuben Club building were ordered closed. When the end of July arrives the party will be homeless.

A Matter of Rent.

So far as could be learned, this development had no connection with national conditions or the visit to Illinois last week of the titular head of the party. It was just a case of the rent bill ascending to too great dimensions.

At the Steuben Club building it was learned that three months' rent—about $450 or $500—will be due before the thirty day cancellation notice takes effect on July 31. This sum, plus the salary of one secretary, is said to be too heavy a load for a once prosperous organization.

Leaders Are Silent.

Chairman B. W. Snow, who sent the cancellation notice, said he had ordered the breaking up of housekeeping, but beyond that point he would not go. George F. Harding, who acted as treasurer during the mayoralty campaign, said he believed it to be a fact that the headquarters were to quit business and he stopped there. Search for information from other leaders was equally nonproductive of statements on the shutdown.

In the meanwhile, riding on the crest of prosperity due to recent election victories, the Democratic organization is actively looking for clubrooms suitable for the entertainment of distinguished visitors during the next national convention, which they hope to see in Chicago.

Her Fatal Blunder

She loved him and lost him—yet didn't know why. Too late she learned she was guilty of a fault no one will forgive

Blind to the fault that was driving him away. Never once aware she was letting "B. O." offend. And no one would tell her!

DAINTY, exquisite, fresh as a flower. So she seemed—at first. Then one day he noticed—faint but unmistakable—a hint of "B.O." (body odor). And romance fled. Not until long afterwards did she realize why she lost him.

Guilty—and don't know it!

How many heartaches would be avoided if we only knew when we were offending! But we don't. Though pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily, we're so used to this ever-present odor that we seldom notice it in ourselves. But others do—instantly! "B.O." can be a fatal barrier to popularity . . . success . . . love.

Take no chances. Adopt the pleasant safeguard millions of particular men and women use. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy—the delightful toilet soap that gives extra protection. More lather—creamy, searching, gently antiseptic. Lather that penetrates and purifies pores—removes all odor. Lifebuoy's very smell is different—a pleasant, hygienic scent that vanishes as you rinse and tells you, "No fear of 'B.O.' now!"

End complexion worries

Bothered because your complexion is dull, cloudy, coarse-textured? Try Lifebuoy "facials". Massage the pure, bland, pore-purifying lather well into the face each night. Then rinse. Pores are gently freed of clogged impurities, toned down to normal fineness. Healthy, glowing, radiance coaxed back to dull, sallow skins.

HENNEPIN CANAL AGAIN LOOMS AS WATERWAY LINK

Short Cut from Illinois to Mississippi.

BY ROBERT WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, Ill., June 22.—[Special.] Three congressmen and a government engineer today embarked on an inspection tour of the Hennepin canal to ascertain what improvements are necessary to make of this old, little used channel a first class waterway providing an all water route linking Chicago and the great lakes with the wheat belt and the northwest market.

W. H. HULL.

Today the congressional party followed the channel from the Mississippi at Rock Island to the Illinois river at Bureau Junction. Tonight the congressmen drove to Geneseo to address a mass meeting of local service clubs whose members see in the project a boon to local commerce.

Congressman William E. Hull of Rock, member of the rivers and harbors committee and sponsor of the project, hopes, with a favorable report from the government engineers, to include the proposed Hennepin improvement in the next rivers and harbors bill when it is drafted for submission to congress. With that accomplished the congressman is confident that the measure will pass.

Carries Little Traffic Now.

Since its completion in 1906 at a cost of $1,300,000 the Hennepin has carried little traffic aside from a few mine pottery tonnages and an occasional barge plying between points bordering on the canal. Government engineers concede that the channel is basically a good waterway, save that it starts in a ditch and goes no place.

It is the opinion of Congressman Hull and his constituents in the territory adjacent to the canal its value as a water route will be greatly enhanced by the completion of the deep waterway improvement from Chicago to Utica which will give the canal what it has always needed, access to Chicago and an outlet to the great lakes.

Would Replace Obsolete Locks.

The proposal of Mr. Hull and of the congressmen who accompanied the party today, Col. R. M. Chipperfield of Galena and John Allen of Monmouth, is to use just half of the 32 obsolete locks which now are required to lower 24 feet from the Illinois and ascend from the summit 100 feet to the Mississippi and to replace these with larger modern locks capable of accommodating the heavy traffic which would travel over such a waterway.

In addition they propose widening the channel and raising several bridges, which when built 30 years ago were made purposely low at the demand of local farmers who protested that dobbin could not pull the hay wagon over higher bridges. All the improvement would cost between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000, according to Mr. Hull's estimates.

The present depth of seven feet would be adequate for traffic, he said, and the construction work if continued by the next congress could be completed shortly after the work is finished on the Illinois river project.

Cuts 400 Miles from Route.

Such a waterway would cut off 400 miles of travel by the old water route through the Illinois to Grafton and up the Mississippi, Congressman Hull said at tonight's meeting. It will accommodate fully two-thirds of the freight traffic from Chicago and the great lakes to the grain markets of the northwest.

Earlier today the party stopped at Wyanet, where 200 supporters of the project from Princeton, Tiskilwa, Sheffield, Bradford, and Manlius gathered in a meadow adjoining the canal to greet the visitors.

AT HEARING

Mrs. Bella Factor, whose husband, known as "Jake the Barber," is fighting extradition before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, as she appeared at the federal building yesterday.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Arguments on the extradition of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, who is wanted in London, England, on charges of swindling British investors out of $5,000,000, were begun yesterday before United States Commissioner Walker. Counsel for Factor, including United States Senator Otis F. Glenn and David Stansbury, contended that the extradition warrant should be quashed because the offense of receiving money known to have been fraudulently obtained, for which Factor is wanted in London, is not on the Illinois statutes.

The attorneys argue that the extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States provides that a person cannot be extradited for an offense in one country unless the laws of both countries have been violated.

Franklin Overmyer, counsel for the British crown, cited cases to show that the Supreme court has held that the offense charged against Factor is sufficient reason for extradition. The arguments will be resumed this afternoon.

CONGRESS GROUP DEPARTS TO SEE NATIONAL PARKS

A dozen members of the appropriations committee of the United States house of representatives left Chicago yesterday afternoon on the Gold Coast limited of the Chicago and North Western railway to visit the national parks in the Rocky mountain region. They also will visit Hoover dam. Representative Frank Murphy [Rep., O.] headed the party, which was accompanied by several officials of the department of the interior.

CHICAGO YOUTH TO RACE ACROSS OCEAN IN YACHT

When the starting gun goes off at Newport, R. I., on July 4 for the greatest event of the yachting season the trans-Atlantic race to Plymouth, England, Chicago will follow with interest the progress of the sloop Matines II. Hewitt Bayley, 20 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Bayley, 37 East Elm street, will be one of the members of the crew of the Matines, a British boat, for the gruelling contest.

The trans-Atlantic is not only the greatest yachting feature of the present season, but of many seasons. It is being revived after twenty-six years under the auspices of a number of British yacht clubs and will constitute one of the hardest fought of such competitions in a generation. The nearest approach to the event was the Santander race of last year, for which King Alfonso offered a cup to the winner of the race to Santander, Spain.

Three Nations to Compete.

Three nations are presented in the entries, including British, German and American boats. Young Bayley got his yachting experience off the eastern seaboard around Marblehead, Me., where his parents have their summer home and are members of the Eastern Yacht club. The Matines is owned by W. B. Luard, an Englishman. It was shipped to this country last week on board the Majestic and is now being put in condition for the hard pull across the Atlantic.

Young Bayley attends school at Hamilton college, Clinton, N. Y., and became acquainted with the owner of the Matines during his summers spent at Marblehead. The invitation to become one of the crew for the race is considered a great compliment to his seamanship.

"It's bound to be one of the greatest races we've ever seen," Douglas K. Porteous, Chicago yachtsman, declared yesterday. "I judge it will probably take about twenty days to reach Plymouth, and it will be attended by some danger, naturally. But the only accidents that have ever occurred on such events, so far as I know, were caused either by drunkenness or by ignorance, and I don't believe you'll find any of either aboard any boat entered in the trans-Atlantic.

To Enter Fastnet Race.

On reaching England, the Matines II will enter the annual Fastnet race, over a course of 500 miles, which she has already run twice. Bayley will remain on the sloop until after this contest. He will then join his mother and his younger brother, John, who are leaving by steamship for Europe, and spend the summer with them.

"It's enough to make my hair turn gray, but it's also awfully exciting," was Mrs. Bayley's ecomment last night.

Senator Barkley's Knee and Rib Broken in Crash

ILLINOISANS ASK NATIONAL FOREST OF 100,000 ACRES

Harrisburg, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—Petitions are going forward today to the national forest reserve commission asking that a forestry unit of from 100,000 to 150,000 acres be established in the hill lands of Saline, Gallatin, Pope, and Hardin counties.

Th petitions are backed by resolutions passed by the city and county governments in all the counties affected, and by a score of different civic and business clubs.

Suggested by Tribune.

The movement, suggested first by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, began to take form when L. E. Sawyer, forestry chief of the University of Illinois field extension service, came into these counties to make a survey of the lands available for reforestation purposes. He has established an experimental field near Elizabethtown, where ten acres has been planted to different kinds of trees to find out the timber most adaptable to this climate and soil.

More than 75,000 acres of of the land in the foothills of the southern Illinois Ozarks immediately would become available to the government, since it has reverted to the state when owners refused to pay taxes on it. At least that much more could be had at a price ranging from $3 to $5 per acre, Sawyer says.

Land Unfit for Crops.

The land that would be taken would be of no benefit for any crop other than timber, he says. Erosion is too bad for pasture, and it is too rough for the planting of successful orchards. An association has been formed in the four counties with a purpose of asking the federal government to establish a forest preserve. It is headed by Judge B. F. Anderson o. Golconda, president, and Prof. Clarence Bonnell, Harrisburg, secretary.

The University of Illinois has promised support of the project and has surveys of the territory, which are to be furnished the federal commission.

Nature, not parching, Makes CAMELS Mild

But the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended are naturally mild and gentle. Parching would only ruin their exquisite flavor and aroma.

No matter where you buy Camels you will find them always in factory-fresh condition. Their rare flavor together with their natural moisture is air-sealed-in by moisture-proof Cellophane. We call it the Humidor Pack.

No stinging particles of peppery dust to irritate the throat; no brackish smoke from stale tobacco; no burnt tongue from the hot smoke of dried-out cigarettes.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. Then leave them—if you can.

Leaving the moisture-proof Cellophane on my Camel package when I open it protects the cigarettes against the odors of powder and perfume

DEATH REVEALS QUAINT WAYS OF WOMAN SCHOLAR

Harriet Taylor Funeral to Be Held Today.

Friends ond co-workers of Mrs. Harriet S. Taylor, who died on Sunday after 37 years of service in the genealogy department of the Newberry library, 60 West Walton place, yesterday recalled the unusual character of the woman, who developed her department into one of the country's most famous genealogical research laboratories. She was one of the country's leading authorities on heraldry.

Funeral services for Mrs. Taylor will be at 10 o'clock today in the Church of the Ascension, La Salle and Elm streets. Cremation will take place in Graceland cemetery. It had not been determined last night what disposition would be made of the ashes.

Lived Within Sight of Library.

Little was known of the personal history of Mrs. Taylor, but during the entire time she was employed at the library, she lived within sight of it, and was known in the neighborhood as a quaint little figure who looked as if she had stepped out of Godey's Lady's book.

Thirty-five years ago she dicided she would not waste her time by following the dictates of style. Thereafter all her clothes were made by the same pattern.

To work she always wore a black silk dress which swept the floor and rustled when she walked. It had a high neck, wasp waist and full skirt. Her other costume was of like pattern, but of dark red silk.

Advocate of the Old Order.

Her hats were made by a pattern of the nineties, as well. They were draped with a veil, and sat high on her auburn curls, which, with her same insistence on changelessness, she remade auburn when nature would have turned them to gray. In crisp, pungent language she spoke her mind about women voting; she was opposed to it and to everything that made passé the old aristocratic order that she loved.

Her love for the Newberry library was perhaps the grand passion in her life, according to Philip Williams, financial agent of the library, and Miss Mary Watson, who for 20 years worked with her. On Jan. 1, Mrs. Taylor was retired with a pension, but she continued to go to the library daily at 8 o'clock.

Found yesterday among her papers was a memorandum, dated December, 1923, as follows:

"Newberry Library has been my companion, solace and protection since June 18, 1894.

"[Signed] Harriet Taylor.

"With abiding loyalty and affection."

She was reticent about her life before she joined the library staff. What her maiden name and date of birth were was not known. She was believed to be about 75 years old. She had lived as a child in Cincinnati and was educated in London. She never spoke of her husband.

Harry Lewis Winters Dies; Rites in California Today

Funeral services for Harry Lewis Winters, 56 years old, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade for the last thirty years, who died on Sunday, will be held today at Glendale, Cal. Mr. Winters died at Pasadena, Cal., where he had maintained a residence for a number of years. He was vice president of Thomson and McKinnon, brokers, and was formerly connected with Logan and Bryan. The widow, Mrs. Faith Ahnefeldt Winters, and two children, Mrs. Faith Smitter and Arthur Winters, survive.

$10,000,000 FIRE SWEEPS ST. JOHN SHIPPING PORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 22.—Fire, which swept the St. John waterfront today, left practically the entire western section of this important Canadian port in ruins. It was believed the damage would exceed $10,000,000, the greatest Canadian loss by fire since $25,000,000 worth of property was destroyed and 1,300 lives lost in Halifax in 1917.

Two lives were reported lost.

Two firemen were severely burned.

The conflagration, which started in a shed on a wharf, raged for hours unchecked except for an off-shore wind which prevented the flames spreading through the city.

Grain elevators and wooden sheds along the water front burned fiercely and the fire spread fast despite efforts of the entire city fire fighting force and volunteers.

The greatest loss was suffered by the harbor commission, $3,500,000 worth of federal property being destroyed. The Canadian Pacific coastal steamer Empress, which formerly plied between Boston and St. John, caught at a wharf and destroyed, as were several smaller craft.

and the pilot boat Gloosecap were.

The fire entirely destroyed the facilities of the western sction of th port, but the eastern section was not damaged. The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

O'SULLIVAN OF THE RUBBER HEEL DIES, AGED 77

Lowell, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—Humphrey O'Sullivan, 77, manufacturer, politician, and knight of St. Gregory, died today. His name was invariably associated with the product which he invented—rubber heels.

In 1889, a quarter of a century after he landed in New York, an immigrant from Ireland, Humphrey O'Sullivan conceived the idea of a cushioned heel. He experimented on it in the small retail shoe store he and his brother, James, conducted in Lowell. Eventually he patented it and the O'Sullivan Rubber company was incorporated to manufacture and market the heels.

Humphrey O'Sullivan became treasurer and advertising manager of the new concern with James acting as president. Through insistence that a substantial sum be set aside from the profits of the company for advertising and the subsequent large scale advertising conducted by the company, sale of the heel grew into one of the greatest successes of modern merchandising.

GEO. WOLTMAN, EARLY CHICAGO MERCHANT, DIES

George Woltman, 94 years old, known to an earlier generation of Chicagoans as a corn husk and straw merchant, died yesterday. He had resided with a daughter at 4816 Gladys avenue.

Mr. Woltman was born in Gronegan, the Netherlands, and came here 65 years ago. He established his business in the days when families filled their bedding with corn husks and straw. He retired thirty-five years ago. At the time of the Chicago fire Mr. Woltman loaded his furniture on his wagon ready for flight, but the conflagration ended just short of his home.

Surviving Mr. Woltman are five sons, John, George Jacob, Thomas, and Charles, and three daughters, Mrs. John Mendendorp, Mrs. Henry Bouman, and Mrs. Henry Faulstich. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Thursday at the West Side Reformed church, 13th street and Austin boulevard, Cicero.

Bankruptcy Petition Is Filed Against Hospital

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the Rogers Park Community hospital, 6970 North Clark street, was filed in United States District court yesterday on behalf of three creditors whose claims amount to $1,000. No estimate of the assets or liabilities of the hospital was contained in the petition. Dr. William H. Hoppe is president of the hospital.

50,000 WATT RADIO PERMITS DUE THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—After ten months of deliberation, the federal radio commission this week plans to act on the high power issue in broadcasting, in which 24 of the nation's leading stations are competing for eight vacant assignments of 50,000 watts, it was learned authoritatively today.

Agreement has been reached to decide this turbulent issue before the commission adjourns for the summer on June 26. The commission has before it the recommendations of its chief examiner, Ellis A. Yost, for these choice assignments. Of four applicant stations in Chicago, WGN, operated by THE TRIBUNE, alone was recommended for the maximum power—because of its high degree of public service and minimized commercialism.

The commission had deferred action on this question because of the situation which arose from the Radio Corporation of America's defeat in the vacuum tube litigation. Whether the commission must cancel more than 1,400 licenses for all types of radio stations held by subsidiaries of the R. C. A. is a question before that body to be decided this week also.

Body of Ralph H. Booth to Be Brought to U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, June 22.—Arrangements were completed today for the removal of the body of Ralph H. Booth, U. S. minister to Denmark, who died at Bad Gastein Saturday, to America. The body will leave Hamburg on July 2 aboard the steamer America. Mrs. Booth today left Bad Gastein for Munich, where she will stop for a few days, and then go on to Berlin to await the departure of the steamer. She is accompanied by William Vogel of New York, her son-in-law, and her daughter, Dorothy, her son, John Lord Booth, and his wife.

Trial of Four Former Bank Officials Resumed

The trial of four officials of the closed Roosevelt Bankers State bank, who are accused of misappropriating $21,000 worth of bonds, was resumed before Judge Joseph Burke in criminal court yesterday. Fred Edgerton, chief state bank examiner, and Mrs. Mary Raymond, Negress, of 5930 Indiana avenue, a depositor, were witnesses. The defendants are Alexander Flower, chairman of the board, his two brothers, Samuel and Frank Flowers, and Louis Frank.

Joseph F. Grossman Named Aid to Corporation Counsel

Attorney Joseph F. Grossman, 5134 Woodlawn avenue, was appointed second assistant corporation counsel yesterday by Corporation Counsel Sexton. Mr. Grossman, who has been practicing law since 1904, will have charge of the assignment of work among the assistants in the corporation counsel's office.

FREDERIC FRENCH, FORMER FARWELL OFFICIAL, IS DEAD

Frederic Earle French, for 51 years a resident of Evanston and for 45 years associated with John V. Farwell & Co., died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital at the age of 68. He had been in fil health since January. Since leaving Evanston three years ago, Mr. French had resided at the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan road.

Mr. French is said to have originated the idea of a half holiday on Saturday for wholesale houses. He was born in Milwaukee on May 9, 1863, and came to Evanston when 4 years old. He went to work for the Farwell company in 1880 and remained with that organization until his retirement in 1925, having risen to the position of credit manager and assistant treasurer.

He was formerly president of the Evanston Country club, and was a member of the Chicago, Mid-Day, and Skokie Golf clubs. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Augustus Knight, and a son, Bayless W. French. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the First Congregational church in Evanston with burial in Rosehill cemetery.

Pilot Injured in Plane Accident on Wheaton Farm

John Botkin, 23 years old, sustained minor injuries yesterday when the Stinson-Detroiter plane which he was piloting nosed over in a wheat field on the George W. Strom stock farm, south of Wheaton. Botkin made a forced landing because of a storm. He was flying the plane, belonging to C. W. Jones of the Paul Rader tabernacle staff, to Shawnee, Okla., on a vacation.

Here You Have Maine Woods' Piney Wisdom

Tab Many Rock Hewn Wise Cracks.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

TWO leisurely, delightful little books that are sure to hold summer afternoons of pleasure for the nature lover and for any one who enjoys quiet, descriptive prose are "Letters from Fraternity," by A. L. McCorrison [Dutton] and "Cape Cod Color," by Arthur W. Bell [Houghton Mifflin].

ARR ANDE WILLIAMS.

They are both about that New England country, picturesque and heart warming, that has bred so many patriots and so many writers. "Letters from Fraternity" are epistles written to the well known author, Arr Anne Williams by an old Maine friend, A. L. McCorrison, who, except for one fishing trip to the Bay of St. Lawrence, spent his entire life within a 50 mile range of his birthplace on the Penobscot river, near Bangor, Me. At the time Mr. Williams and Mr. McCorrison lived and where he gained his notes to his trout fishing friend.

These letters are given just as they are written, with the same punctuation and spelling. They are fine and manly and simple, like a beautiful old wooden chair that no one has tried to "improve" or refinish. They are a bit of nature, so to speak, and retain all their great charm.

Mr. McCorrison was a typical native of that rock-bound, rugged country of which he writes. His life was spent in a steady, even tenor, punctuated by the seasons: by the storms of winter, when the snow lay six feet in drifts and the thermometer went to 40 degrees below zero; by the slow, sweet advent of spring, when the swollen brooks pushed aside their coating of ice and went rushing down to the ocean, and when the first green began to bite; by the coming of summer when the sun shone warm on the budding blue berries on the moors and by the approach of autumn with its flinging of scarlet, gold and yellow banners on the hillsides. A great life it was, and a peaceful one, but not uneventful nor boring.

The letters are reminiscent of Thoreau's "Walden." They are filled with all the little pleasures and homely joys of the days and with whimsical and pithy comments on events.

The radio came as a marvelous open door to the outside world and furnished many an evening of entertainment. "A fine program on the radio last night. When the announcer coughed, I turned my head, for he'd catch the grip."

The comment on the annual town meeting is lively. "A lot of excitement at times. One fellow had much to say; he was broad faced, baldheaded and resembled Ben Butler. Another would have made a good model for a statue of Abe Lincoln. And Daniel Boone was there, all but he never born. All these men had much to say, and said it often. In fact, we need only sit with partly closed eyes, and with little stretch of the imagination have pass before us like a panorama of all the shining lights of American history. And with hardly an exception, ALL were orators."

"Letters from Fraternity" is as full of Maine baked beans, as delicious as fresh blueberries and cream and as zesty as apple cider. What more is to pick up a book like this instead of the eternal sophisticated, decadent, artificial type of thing we are all too familiar with!

Arthur W. Bell's "Cape Cod Color" is a collection of thumbnail sketches of the cape, its people and its ways. The author has something amusing to say about bathing, antique shops, the summer visitor, the gipsy moth, whaling, herring and assorted subjects. He makes the simple life charming and seasons what he has to say with a keen sense of humor.

Among the many startling episodes in this outspoken autobiography is Dr. Munthe's acquaintance with Guy de Maupassant and his visit to Maupassant's yacht, there to discover "Yvonne, barely eighteen, drifting to total destruction in the lap of her terrible lover."

Good morning!

Score another victory for the Germans!

"Lumpenball" is a gay, rakish and delightful comedy with tunes. It will be more to the popular taste than anything since "Zwei Hertzen in ¾ Takt." It hasn't as much or as catchy music as the latter possesses, but the airs as sung and played are lilting and provocative.

So's the acting. For utter naturalness the Teuton mummers take the cake. Hollywood would be smart to sit at the feet of the makers of "Lumpenball," take notes and use them!

The story is concerned with happenings attendant on the escapade of a father and a son-in-law. The two wish to frisk about a bit at a gay affair known as "The Vagabonds' Ball" in company with a couple of vaudeville actresses who were former friends of Gerd, the younger man.

To get away from their wives is not easy. However, the feat is accomplished. But, tck, tck, what is this! Mamma and daughter also go to "The Vagabonds' Ball" . . . ! The outcome will amuse you hugely.

This picture is comparatively easy to understand without aid of the program—which bears an English synopsis.

There's a talking parrot in one of the short features on the Punch and Judy bill that you should take the children to see and hear. SOME Poll!

"JUST A GIGOLO."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Jack Conway.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

THE CAST.

Lord Robert Brummell..William Haines
Roxana Hartley.....Irene Purcell
Lord George Hampton..C. Aubrey Smith
Lady Jane Hartley.....Charlotte Granville
Lady Agatha Carrell.....Lilian Bond
A French Husband.....Albert Conti
A French Wife.....Maria Alba

A gigolo is one who steps
Where husbands fear to tread;
Dances with teardrops in his eyes
And were just as useful dead.
But the gigolo you're told of here
Gigs for a purpose. He Is really NOT a gigolo
But a man of high degree.
He loves to sow wild oats—and does.
He kisses far and free;
And rumor with his pranks doth buzz!
His uncle doth decree
That he shall wed Roxana, fair
And pure as driven snow.
Quothes Nevvy "Wrong you are good sir!
NO girl is true. I KNOW!"
His uncle waxes very mad
And Brummell doth agree
To put her to a test, egad!
"You'll see!" cries he. "You'll see!"
So, disguised as a gigolo
He starts to stalk the prey.
[Now wasn't that a rotten trick
For his lordship to play?]
Granted. But the same proceeds.
And Roxie—does she fall?
To tell you that part of the yarn
Would be to tell it all.
So, I desist. The film will show
Results of the du-el
Twixt maiden, and the gigolo
Who storms her citadel.
As Brummell, William Haines is sleek,
Promiscuous and fresh.
A lord in name, but for a' that
A lump of carnal flesh.
Miss Purcell plays Roxana with
Con-sid-er-able taste.
You hate to think that such a girl
Should have to go to waste.
C. Aubrey Smith, as Uncle gives
A very fine portray'l
And Lillian Bond plays Roxie's Mom
With artistic detail.
Players of minor rôles do well
With what they have to do.
Photography, sets, scenery,
And sound, are all good, too.
Direction rings the bell—sometimes.
And sometimes it is punk.
But then, I guess, he did his best.
The story is the bunk.

See you tomorrow!

PRINCE OF WALES, 37 TODAY, WILL CONDUCT HIS DAILY BUSINESS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 22.—While flags are flying all over the British empire in his honor, with guns booming the royal salute, the prince of Wales will spend his thirty-seventh birthday tomorrow working as usual.

In the morning, as prior of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, he will be present at the king's investure at Buckingham palace. After luncheon with the king and queen at the palace he will carry on his usual routine in his plainly furnished study at York house, receiving visitors, dealing with official business, and so forth.

The prince, it is said, is London's busiest man, and even on his birthday he takes no holiday. Every moment of his time is organized and accounted for. Even on rare occasions when he is able to snatch a few hours "off" for his favorite relaxation, golf, he plays almost by clock, allowing himself only a given time on the links before hurrying back to London to dress for a public dinner or prepare to entertain his own guests at a York house dinner party.

Here is a typical day's program when the prince is in London: At 7:30 rise, 8:15 breakfast, 8:30 reading newspapers, receiving early visitors, and dealing with correspondence. At 10, conference with secretaries concerning future engagements, invitations, requests, etc. At 11:30, receive more callers, distinguished foreigners, and public figures. At 1:30, luncheon—a brief, simple meal.

During the afternoon the prince usually has some function of a private or semi-public nature to perform in connection with one or another of the many offices he holds. If free, there is usually a speech to prepare for a future function. Nearly always the prince composes the speech himself, and frequently acts as his own stenographer, using a portable typewriter in his study.

Hilda Burke Joins Ravinia for an Evening

Sings 'Madame Butterfly' in Rethberg's Place.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This is an account of how when a storm breaks some acquire the cloud and others have the fortune of picking up the silver lining.

The storm was an entirely physical one around Ravinia yesterday afternoon, with all the accompaniment of rain, thunder, and lightning in large quantities. When the tumult died away there was a whispered bit of news to the effect that Elizabeth Rethberg had a bad throat and would be unable to appear as Cio-Cio-San in "Madame Butterfly" in the evening, but that Hilda Burke, not a member of the Ravinia company, but living this summer not far from the park, would go on and sing the part without rehearsal. So there was both cloud and silver lining.

Man proposes, said Mr. Eckstein in telling the audience of the change before the curtain went up. This time there can be no regrets about an altered disposition of the proposal. Miss Burke to the best of my memory has not sung this rôle during her experience with the Chicago Civic Opera company, but somewhere in the course of her career she has acquired a canny, not to say expert knowledge of it. How well she has learned it was promptly proved by the fact that she made an artistic success and a personal hit into the bargain.

The music of the rôle is of exactly the right weight and range for her voice, and she has a charming voice. Musically she was distinctly there from the beginning, and whatever slips she made were a few slight ones of a first performance, and promptly covered by the skilled conducting of Gennaro Papi. But what was less surely expected was the ease, the poise, the gentle dignity that she put into her impersonation. She was pretty, she was attractive, she had all the possibilities, with many of them worked out into facts of being one of the fine Cio-Cio-Sans of this generation.

For a number of seasons back Edward Johnson has been my vocal and dramatic favorite of all tenors who sing the rôle of Pinkerton. So when he and Miss Burke sang the love duet of the first act it became the true ideal of all love duets. Having struck this level, Miss Burke held to it firmly with her solo, "One Fine Day," her duet of the flowers with Ina Bourskaya, and the pathetic scene that ends this little operatic tragedy.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 22.—[Special.]—The Fred Niblo family typifies the downs and ups of the movies in these parlous times. After being connected with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for more than five years—much of that time its ace director in the wake of his work on "Ben Hur"—Fred Niblo's contract expired eight months ago and he didn't see a film pay check for months.

After a few months of this Mrs. Niblo, the former Enid Bennett, a former topnotcher as actress, befriended the Niblo family's exchequer and movie prestige in a comeback as actress. She played Skippy's mother in that child picture and now is working at Universal. In the meantime, Niblo connected again with Pathé studio and now is busily directing "The Iron Chalice" with Bill Boyd and Dorothy Sebastian.

To top it all, Fred Niblo Jr., his son by a former marriage, has just signed on at Paramount as a contract scenarist, having done dialogue for "Street Scene" and "Criminal Code" after writing on Universal's "The Virtuous Husband."

Al Santell, the director, went to his attorney about making a will.

"Just leave it all to me," said the attorney who is Santell's personal friend.

"O, yeah," retorted the director. "I expect most of it will get into your hands, but I want to tie up some property so that it will get into the hands of my wife and family."

Lou Anger, the movie financier, was motoring back from the Agua Caliente resort in Mexico, 150 miles south of here. He was talking about things he noticed on his trip.

"They're doing more planting than ever down Santa Ana way," Anger said, referring to the county seat of the greatest citrus fruit region in the world. "In fact, they've got a speed cop planted behind every tree."

Adolphe Menjou hinted to all his family on his last birthday that what he wanted was a nifty cigaret case. Birthday came and went with no cigaret case. A little injured, Adolphe went to a jeweler's to see what he could do about it. The result was a beauty, inscribed "To Adolphe Menjou, on his birthday, from his greatest admirer, Adolphe Menjou."

Evelyn Knapp, film actress, who was seriously injured in a fall while hiking in the vicinity of Hollywood, was still in a serious condition today. Surgeons believe she may have received a fractured leg in addition to an injured back and lacerations of the face and lips. Miss Knapp, who is 22, was hiking up scenic Mulholland highway with her brother, Stanley, when she ventured too close to the edge and plunged over the embankment. She dropped about fifteen feet, landing on a rocky ledge. She broke three ribs and strained her spine.

New Gertrude Hicks Hospital Dedicated on U. of C. Midway Campus

The new $356,000 Gertrude Dunn Hicks hospital for crippled children on the University of Chicago campus was dedicated yesterday.

Presentation of the structure, which is at Ellis avenue and the Midway, was made on behalf of Mrs. Hicks by Dr. Edward Scribner Ames, head of the university's department of philosophy. It was accepted by President Robert Maynard Hutchins.

Dr. Nathaniel Allison, professor of surgery, who heads the institution, told in a short address his plans for its conduct. It would be, he said, a place of cheer, and the mental condition of the child patients would be as well cared for as the physical. The hospital has a swimming pool, a solarium, and other modern features.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

"HIGH HAT."

A comedy by Viva Tattersall and Sidney Toler; given at the Adelphi theater June 22, 1931, with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle, under the management of George L. Miller.

THE CAST.

Maude Mooney.....Henriette Farley
Oscar Mooney.....Lloyd Nolan
Charlie McKenzie.....James Spottswood

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A FARCICAL comedy called "High Hat" drifted hopefully into the doldrums of the summer theatrical season at the Adelphi theater last night with Edna Hibbard at the helm, Richard Taber as first mate, and James Spottswood as bos'n. These are well known names and well liked players, and so it would seem that the light little craft might be able to hold its course for a long cruise.

The news about Miss Hibbard is that she isn't tough this summer. She has put aside her line of rowdy girls and is acting a perfect lady for a change. Well, perhaps not quite perfect, because that sort has gone out of fashion; but she is a reasonable modern approach to that obsolete ideal. Gone are the Broadway wisecracks; gone is the slang of the bold, bad sister of the chorus—and for this relief, Edna, many thanks.

Gone, too, unfortunately, is the vein of feminine irony in which she is adept. Miss Hibbard is amusing and expert in "High Hat," as she fidgets through the domestic routine of a one room kitchenette, dressing and undressing with candor and diligence; she is an adroit and vivid comedienne; but somehow the laughs of Hibbardism are not as frequent as they ought to be. The play is to blame, of course; its dialogue was written with a fluttering pen, and Miss Hibbard needs lines with a cutting edge.

The play deals with a couple of plain, simple minded New Yorkers, living in comparative poverty on $10,000 a year, in the aforesaid sitting bedroom with adjacent cubby holes, who suddenly learn that they have inherited $250,000 from Uncle Peter, who went to Mexico. Good old Mexican Pete! They immediately become afflicted with delusions of the social prominence at which, in their humble tenement, they had sneered.

They begin to buy country estates over the telephone. Miss Hibbard gives away all of her clothes and goes shopping for a more expensive wardrobe in her step-ins. [At any rate, the ending of the first act suggests as much.] Richard Taber, playing her erratic young spouse, resigns his job, darts out to buy a new car, and gets himself put up at a gilt edged golf club. They invite their old comrades to a dinner of celebration, and then pass up the party because Mrs. Van Oyster of the social register has asked them to drop in for cocktails.

In other words, before the good news is twenty-four hours old they become snooty, ritzy, and high hat; and you know that they are riding for a fall. The last act brings the collapse of the iridescent bubble of snobbery. The old lawyer pops in again to announce that good old Mexican Pete had left a widow and three half-breed children, who are his rightful heirs.

But it's an ill wind that lacks a silver lining, or words to that effect. During their fling with the Van Oysters Mr. Taber had got "tight," imagined himself an insurance man once more, and sold a million dollar policy. His employer routs him out of bed by 'phone to say that he can have his job back, at double the salary.

All of which, I suspect, has been used as material for farcical plots many times before. The story has an authentic Victorian flavor to me, in spite of the play's bedroom and undressing scenes.

Mr. Taber is droll and persuasive as Miss Hibbard's opposite; and James Spottswood turns up at 10 p. m. to brighten the proceedings as a loud and hearty violator of the prohibition laws. Muriel Owen is effective in burnt cork as a comic maid; and the other members of the cast are as they should be.

"Meet My Sister" will end its engagement at the Grand Opera house next Saturday night, and will move to Atlantic City.

Aldermen Favor Commerce Group O. K. for Tag Days

A resolution providing that no organization can be given membership in the Chicago Federation of Charities with permission to participate in the latter's tag day without the consent of the Chicago Association of Commerce was approved yesterday by the city council finance committee. Present members of the federation, the resolution provides also, must get the approval of the commerce group before 1932 to retain their membership.

Lonely Louise, Once Center of Europe's Gossip

Saxon Ex-Crown Princess Lives in Belgium.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 22.—Just across the road, no more than fifty steps from my house, lives ex-Crown Princess Louise of Saxony.

If you belong to the post-war generation you wouldn't know a thing about her. Her love affair with Giron dates at least thirty years back, and since 1910 or so she no longer has been front paged.

A woman who had eight children with three different fathers is no longer interesting to "us moderns." Other women than Louise have divorced and married three times by now, and far more casually than if they changed frocks.

But Louise's love affairs shook a kingdom to its roots. If Louise had not eloped with the dashing, blond Belgian tutor of her children in 1902 Saxony might have stayed loyal to its king in 1918 when other German kingdoms collapsed. Louise's romance dealt a fatal blow to the Saxons' popular faith in royalty.

I wouldn't have suspected there was any romance about that tall, gray haired, stout and double chinned woman whom I passed in the market square the other day, as I often do. She carried a big wicker basket. Her coat surely had cost no more than $15. Her hat was several seasons old.

Louise of Saxony, once heiress to a throne, does her shopping at a public market in a Brussels suburb every morning at 9 o'clock. Butchers, grocers, butter and egg men and women there know her, shake hands with her, and know she will bargain to the limit. They call her Countess Penury. She has accepted that surname. In dim days of her past she was Archduchess Louise of Toscana, of the Hapsburg dynasty, the bluest of blue bloods in Europe. Later, after her sensational divorce from Frederick-Augustus, now ex-king of Saxony, she was entitled to the name of Countess de Montignoso. She never married young Giron who carried her, the crown princess of a leading German state, off to Switzerland, else she might have added the name of Mme. Giron to her list. In 1906 she became Signora Toselli, as wife of a famous composer.

Shortly after her divorce in 1903, when the Saxon king expelled her, she had her dot to live on. The capital stayed in a Saxon bank, but rather generous dividends reached her regularly until 1918. Then the four kingdoms of the German empire, Prussia, Saxony, Wurttemberg, and Bavaria, soon became part of a republic.

The German currency was inflated, then collapsed. One fine morning the cashier at a Brussels bank handed to Louise her monthly dividend; it amounted to exactly $0.05.

The former crown princess started to work. She gave Italian lessons to the few in Brussels who wanted them. She embroidered and then went from door to door to sell her work. I did not see her in those days. She is better off now. Ex-King Frederick-Augustus of Saxony has granted her a small annuity. That keeps her from actual want.

Nancy Hibberd, at 10, Finishes Her Grammar School After 4 Years

Nancy Hibberd, a bright, brown eyed little girl of ten, will receive her diploma from the Alcott grammar school on Thursday after only four years of class work.

Nancy, who lives at 1714 North La Salle street, presented herself in the principal's office at the age of six and was told to report to the first grade teacher. A neighbor who accompanied her, however, suggested that she be quizzed on knowledge acquired through home study. After rattling off multiplication tables and unravelling the intricacies of long division to the principal's satisfaction, the little tot started in fourth grade instead of first and breezed through the entire curriculum in an additional four years.

She plans to attend Waller High school and after that the University of Chicago. Then she'll probably be a newspaper woman, she said.

Hoover Given a Cherry Pie from Michigan

Miss Weaver has been selected as the queen of the Traverse City, Mich., cherry festival and came to Washington to invite the President to attend the fete.

She was presented to Mr. Hoover by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Heath.

The pie was sent to the White House kitchen and will be served at the President's table.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse du Castelmaurou. Marcel is seen frequently with Suzanne Marly, an actress. Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Mal. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rostetter, conduct a private search for Clare.

Iris moves to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have reformed.

A letter is sent to Iris stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled.

Alan meets Marcel and recalls having seen him at Le Touquet, hobnobbing with a smart looking couple. Marcel calls on Alan in his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to asphyxiate Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Tommy and Alan suspect that Marcel, who is known to be heavily in debt, is the instigator of the kidnaping with the couple, known as Yetta and Pietro, his partners in crime, the motive being the ransom. Alan learns that the couple have a half-witted son.

Tommy sees Marcel leaving Suzanne Marly's home at the hour scheduled for him to deliver the ransom. Alan calls on Iris. Marcel arrives shortly after, badly beaten up, and declares that he was robbed by the kidnapers, who have not returned Clare. Tommy and Alan tell the story to the police. They return with the police inspector to question Marcel and find he has vanished. They leave to search for Yetta and Pietro in the neighborhood outside of Paris, where they are supposed to dwell, each taking separate routes. Alan finds the dilapidated dwelling they used as their hideout. It is deserted. The couple returns and Alan hides in the scullery off the kitchen. Marcel arrives.

INSTALLMENT LVI.

A VILE PLOT CLEARED.

The newcomer now slid inside and closed the door, leaned upon it, breathing hard. De Bertincourt seemed exhausted with terror, his sweating skin glistened. Lepin, unsteadily grasping his weapon, eyed him blankly, the woman retreated to the stove, against which she planted her broad back in an attitude of defiance. Out of her doughy face her little brown eyes blazed, evil, accusing.

It was she who spoke first, with guttural contempt.

In spite of the distance between them De Bertincourt shrank as though dreading a personal attack.

"Where is she?" he panted, darting frantic glances from one to the other. "Why hasn't she come home? Answer me—I must know!"

In the glare of the lamp Charnwood saw Warshavsky's face swell up like a puffadder, till her lashless eyes receded to pin points of venom. She returned the speaker's gaze without flinching and sneered, nostrils pulsating.

"She's not here," she declared, "let that be enough for you. Take my advice and save your skin as we are doing."

"I know, I know," cried De Bertincourt hastily. "I broke in here and searched. Ghastly place," he added with a shudder of loathing, "all overrun with rats. You never told me."

"You never asked," she snapped back at him. "And would you have cared if you'd known?"

He moistened his lips, assuming a conciliatory air.

"Never mind that now, Yetta. The point is what have you done with her? Tell me quickly!" he urged, quivering with impatience.

With her small eyes flickering first at her tongue-tied companion, then back at De Bertincourt's anxious features, she replied deliberately, "It was necessary to remove her. She was too ill to travel. There was nothing else to do."

"Ill? How do you mean ill?" he cried, alarmed. "I don't understand. . . . All this playing about—one false step will ruin everything for me!"

"Well, we shan't be here to face the mischief," she retorted grimly. "Nor are we afraid of your squealing on us. O, no, so last we can trust you. We didn't before—and we weren't wrong, eh, Pietro?" She gave a jeering laugh.

"Lies, lies!" she cried. "You've got that money safe and you let me beat you up rather than part with it."

Her taunt had evidently touched a sore spot. De Bertincourt's swollen face contorted with sudden hatred.

"Why wouldn't you listen to reason? To send me all the way back for the other money—my money!—and when I couldn't lay hands on it to jam a gun in my face, smash at me and tear me with your filthy nails——"

"Single handed, too," she chuckled with satisfaction. "O, Yetta could take on any two of your kind and put them in hospital. Well, it served you right, you lying, snivelling——" the epithet she added reeked of the gutter.

"But things went wrong! I swear they did!"

"Whose fault was that?" She loomed upon him suddenly, poker in hand, so terrifying that he cowered away. "Did we choose an evening when your wife's lover was with her? Did we reckon on him sticking to her like a burr afterwards, a man who'd seen us with you and for all we knew might have heard us talking?"

"I told you I supposed he was in Africa," he protested sullenly, and there was a ring of truth in the assertion. "God knows I've tried to get rid of him. The risks I've taken——"

"You! What did you risk? Nothing. We did it all, Pietro and I. You fooled us, led us into danger we didn't bargain for! You mouldy little swine, pretending the money was stolen!"

Beads of moisture broke out afresh on his forehead.

"It was stolen," he muttered, desperate. "I'd hidden it in Suzanne's flat, but she found it, curse her, and when I tried to get it back she laughed in my face."

So this explained the midnight visit to Marly's apartment! The incredible actress had calmly possessed herself of his pile of bank notes and made sport of his helpless rage. Charnwood gasped at what struck him as a superb gesture, wholly in keeping with his knowledge of Suzanne. However, Yetta, with a violent snort of disbelief, spat on the floor.

"Lies, lies!" she cried. "You've got that money safe and you let me beat you up rather than part with it. Well, it was your idea to be waylaid and robbed so you've only your own cleverness to thank. But I've had enough—I'm finished. Now get out of here before I dig this in your other eye!" and she lunged at him with the poker.

He dodged but held his ground.

"I can't go—not till you've told me where she is. Don't you see I'll lose everything if she isn't found?"

Her fury ebbed. She eyed him coolly, more frightening than in her burst of passion.

"Why's that?" she temporised. "Haven't you got what you want? Your wife's come back to you."

"What if she has?" he groaned. "My aunt is the snag. Since last night she's grown suspicious. Now she tells me that unless Claire is returned she'll allow her existing will to stand—the will which cuts me adrift without a single sou. Now, now will you give the girl up?"

At the words "existing will" a blinding light flashed before Charnwood's vision, making the whole vile plot clear. This dastardly outrage had been planned not for a paltry million or so francs, but for the inestimably greater stake of the entire Castelmaurou fortune! Here, sweating and grovelling, stood the potential legatee, his hope of vast riches hanging in the balance. If fate prevented his daughter's rescue he was a ruined pauper.

"But, De Bertincourt, what you ask is impossible——"

Before he could complete the sentence a blow on the mouth sent him reeling backward.

"Be quiet!" hissed the woman. "Leave explanations to me. Now you!" She leveled her evil gaze on the supplicant. "You know as well as we do how you've messed things up, letting the affair drag on like this and allowing your wife to get help from her precious Englishman. You didn't expect, surely, to find that brat of yours untouched after you'd let us down?"

"You agreed not to injure her," he faltered huskily. "You haven't let her come to any harm——?"

"Listen to me!" She had dropped her mocking tone and addressed him with deadly cold calculation. "You want the truth, do you? Then here it is. That girl of yours is dead. She was done for when we got here the first night. We'd given her a big shot of morphia to keep her quiet on the journey and when we uncovered her and brought her in, phut! She was finished. That's all."

Charnwood felt an overpowering nausea assail him. In his dark hiding place he leaned against the wall and shut his eyes. Dead! Clare was dead . . . the end of the struggle . . . poor Iris, alone, not knowing, waiting for news . . .

When he peered again through the crack he saw De Bertincourt, ashen-faced, staring at his informant with glassy eyes. A tiny trickle of blood issued from his nostrils and was oozing slowly along his upper lip. He did nothing to check it and drop by drop it welled up till it splashed down the front of his coat.

"Is this true?" he whispered, barely audible. "You swear you are not saying it out of revenge?"

"Ask him," jerked the woman, indicating her accomplice, and without more ado began winding her thick scarf about her throat with an air of finality.

Permitted to speak, Pietro vented a feverish babble of confirmation.

"It's true, De Bertincourt, every syllable! We did our best—cold water, brandy, injections—O, Yetta is quite a good doctor!—but nothing was any use. We couldn't tell you, of course, before we got our money. It was better for all concerned to keep it dark. We were going to clear out when you arrived just now."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. George B. Wallington left here for Old Bennington, Vt., for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Olcott and their daughter, Miss Janet Olcott, who arrived recently from Europe, left the St. Regis today for their summer home near Saratoga Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Sosthenes Behn and their three children, who have been at the Plaza, will leave Wednesday for a summer in Europe.

Chic Jackets for the Smart Convalescent

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Convalescent chic keeps right up with other Paris fashions, and the little jackets Paris creators are designing for the first days of sitting up in bed after a long or short illness are so ravishing that they almost reconcile one to being ill, and their gayety does a lot toward helping along the good work of a complete cure.

You may wear any color you choose for these tiny negligees, but warm rosy tints are apt to prove more flattering, for they cast a glow over your interesting pallor, and these are the ones favored by Paris, just now.

Sketched today are three new convalescent jackets that will have to revive your interest in life. At the top there's a short sleeved coat of the new fine handmade wool lace, that's light as thistledown and just warm enough. It's in wild rose pink and it's fastened round the neck with a garland collar of crocheted wool flowers.

Next comes a little elbow length cape of quilted primrose satin that is so new and so easy to slip on. It crosses in front, narrows toward the back where it crosses and comes around to button at the waistline in front. The quilting forms a decorative border all round the edge.

The flaring, long sleeved jacket at the bottom of the page is of rose coral taffeta with all its edges done in eyelet embroidery in coral silk of a deeper tone. Its Medici collar that is tied with a bow at the neckline makes it becoming to the mature as well as the youthful convalescent. Tucks on either side of the front at the top lend further fullness.

Group 39 Years Old Issues Several Million Books

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Bible Institute Colportage Association of Chicago was held yesterday at the Moody Bible institute. The report of the secretary pointed that the association has published nearly 10,000,000 library books and 8,000,000 scripture portions since its foundation in 1894 by Dwight L. Moody. The officers appointed for the next year are: Frank Taylor, president; Henry P. Crowell, vice president; William Norton, secretary.

Dateless Girls Called High Hat or Pepless by a Contemporary

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There's nothing like a contemporary to put one straight on thinking. Especially if it is youth that is in need of advice. So, I offer for the benefit of girls who bemoan their dateless Saturdays and Sundays some advice from one of their age:

"What's the matter with those young girls who find life unbearable because they have no beaux? There must be something radically wrong. Either they are snobs, or they haven't any pep, which every girl has to have to get any fun out of life.

"I am 18," continues "1931 Girl," "and I have a grand time. I have girl friends and boy friends. We girls have awfully good times together. We go horseback riding, play golf and tennis and go in for all kinds of sports—and we haven't much money, either. But we plan. If those lonesome ones would go in for sports, they couldn't help but meet nice young men.

"Another thing, how do they expect to learn to dance if they just sit in the house fretting because no one asks them out? They'll never get any of the practice that makes perfect, acting that way.

"In my opinion, any girl who sits in on Saturdays and Sundays or on any other day because she has no young man to take her about is crazy. A girl who is not boy crazy can have a good time with girl pals, and if she cultivates these, the boys will come along in time. Any way, if a girl sits around and waits for a man to come along, she is going to be sadly disappointed. No fellow wants a wet blanket for a girl friend. And any girl who spends her evenings and Sundays just waiting for a man certainly is a wet blanket.

"Any modern girl goes out after her man—and gets him. She gets him because she gives him the kind of companionship he wants."

And that's putting it right over the diamond by one of your own age, girls. And she is dead right about the depressing influence of inactive wishing.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The bolero jacket, the blouse of a contrasting color with its collar laid over the neck of the bolero, and the slightly flaring, gored skirt are all up to the minute details of a smart costume. The dress is easy to make, there is no trimming other than the collar and jabot, and the jacket sleeves are three-quarter length, simply faced. Linen, piqué, and washable flat crêpe are ideal materials to use.

The pattern, No. 3127, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material for the jacket and skirt with 1¼ yards of 39 inch contrasting for the sleeveless blouse.

West Suburban Hospital Nurses Help Shriners' Fund

Student nurses in the West Suburban hospital, 518 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, have collected more than two large barrels of tin foil as a gift to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, it was announced yesterday by Miss Lenore Tobins, educational director of the school of nursing in the West Suburban hospital. Miss Edna Traselet, a senior, daughter of Dr. E. T. Traselet, Cicero, and Miss Florence Warren, daughter of Dr. C. L. Warren, Michigan City, Ind., started the movement.

Lindbergh's Wife and Baby Celebrate Their Birthdays Together

New York, June 22.—(AP)—There were two birthday cakes in the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today . . . a tiny one with a single candle on it and a larger one with 25 candles.

Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was just one year old. His mother, the former Anne Morrow, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, was 25.

The joint celebration was safeguarded from the curious to the extent that where it was observed was unknown, even at the home of the little "Eaglet's" grandfather.

How to Whiten Dark, Sallow Skin

By Carolyn Haines

HERE is good news for women who are troubled with dark, sallow, blemished or freckled skin. Beauty specialists, using a secret French formula, have produced a lovely new white facial pack that dries in ten minutes, fades out freckles and darkened skin, and removes fatigue lines and blemishes.

It contains fresh juice of the whole lemon, magnesia, and other secret ingredients. It is called Boncilla Lemon Magnesia Pack, and is sold in all good drug and department stores. A large size tube or jar, containing many facials, costs only one dollar. The dealer will refund your money if you are not delighted. I advise that you try it at once.

Eden Gray Is Seeing Parents, the Pardridges

BY THALIA

The demands of a career on Broadway are strenuous and unremitting, and so the Albert J. Pardridges are enjoying one of the rare visits their daughter, Priscilla Eden Gray on the playbills—get them out here in the middle west. Be with them at Villa Azura, their Lake estate, for about a fortnight before she goes back east.

She has been playing a leading rôle in a mystery melodrama, "Doctor X," at the Hudson theater in New York, and she is going from here to Newport to play the part in "The Firebird" that she originally played in New York with Joseph Schildkraut. She played with Katherine Cornell a season or so ago in "The Age of Innocence," you'll remember, when it was on Broadway, but she wasn't in the cast which played it here.

Ruth Burnham, daughter of the Robert Burnhams of Evanston, who has been at school in Lausanne, Switzerland, for the last season, is returning to America on the steamship Isle de France with Mrs. Sewell Avery and Miss Nancy Avery, and her mother has departed to meet her on her arrival. The Burnhams are giving a dance-dinner tomorrow evening as a sort of welcome home for their child. Supper is to be served in the patio by candlelight, and there will be dancing in the cabanas by the lake.

Lake Geneva Garden Club Holds First Meeting Tomorrow.

The Lake Geneva Garden club is to hold its first meeting tomorrow at the William Nelson Pelouze's. Mrs. Ruth Burnham is to speak on "The Flowers of the Illinois Prairie and Its Borders." Mrs. Edwin B. Frost is president of the club this year, and the other officers are Mrs. Catherine Osborne, first vice president; Mrs. Henry P. Isham, second vice president; Mrs. John Jennings, secretary, and Mrs. Addin P. Kaye, treasurer.

Other Lake Geneva notes—Holiday house opened its 44th year as a fresh water inn last week. Its officers are Mrs. William F. Peterson, president; Mrs. David Peterkin, Mrs. Addkin P. Kaye, and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener. . . . Lawrence A. Caton and the Alfred T. Cattons are in their cottages at the Chinese club on the lake, as also are Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kaye who recently returned from Sarasota, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webber McKee, who returned a few days ago from a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Warren W. Wade in Honolulu, had an unusual and disturbing accident during their visit. They were riding in an outrigger one day and were precipitated into the sea by an extra large wave. Mr. McKee can't swim but she managed to stay up, hang onto the overturned boat and call to some beach boys to come out and rescue them. Mr. McKee has been suffering from the effects of the upset, ever since he had to go to Passavant hospital for recuperation as soon as he got home.

Mrs. L. Ives to Copenhagen After Sojourn at British Court.

An London correspondent says Mrs. Bryant L. Ives, the former Dorothy Stevenson and sister of Adlai E. Stevenson, has gone back to Copenhagen after having been presented at the British court [her entrée is reported to have been one of the most distinguished at the whole court], that the Stevensons have been touring the Scandinavian capitals and will be back in Chicago about the first of July, and that Mrs. Ives Jordan has arrived in Paris and has taken a house for a month.

Recently newcomers in Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Johnson of Omaha, who are at the Drake hotel while they take an apartment here, possibly at 900 North Michigan. Mr. Johnson, who is president of several transport companies, was recently appointed head of the combination of companies controlling the largest air transport service in the world, the main office of which are to be in Chicago. The Johnsons plan to spend part of each year in Chicago and part of each year in Chicago and New York, flying between Seattle and Chicago. They have a lovely estate on Puget Sound and an interesting office.

Mrs. Warren Wright Hostess at Dinner.

Among dinner parties of interest—Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright spent the week-end at the Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crane II. The Wrights are occupying their "country" place near Golf, Ill., as are planning to do much entertaining during the Arlington Park season. [Mr. Wright is one of the governors of the Park and of the Post and Paddock club] . . . Mrs. Keene Spencer, who has had Mrs. E. C. Grace's apartment on Walton place for the summer, has moved out to Lake Forest for the summer . . . Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Creath Ammons, formerly Miss Adelaide whose residence is in Paris, are in Chicago for a month, visiting at the Lake Shore hotel. . . . Mrs. D. W. Mercer and her children, Betty, Jane and Donald, Mrs. Mercer's mother, Mrs. L. E. Raymond, are having a motor tour to California, leaving until Aug. 10.

Mrs. Chester Cummings is opening her Lake Forest house today for an indefinite all-day sale. This afternoon there will be bridge, the proceeds of which are to go to the Eli Bates memorial fund.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—The Mexican ambassador and Mrs. Tellez have returned to the embassy after spending some time in Mexico. The first secretary of the embassy, Señor Don Carlos Trejo, and them in New York yesterday.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R., has returned to her apartment in the Colonial clubhouse.

Leander McCormick-Goodhart, commercial secretary of the British embassy, has joined Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart and their young son at Reynolds, Harbor Land, Bar Harbor, Me., for the remainder of the summer. Mr. Frank Starkweather and her daughter, Miss Doris Starkweather of Chicago, Ill., have arrived in Washington. They will be at the Shoreham hotel.

MARRIED IN NEW YORK

MRS. DAVID PERCY WILLIAMS JR.

[Ira L. Hill Photo.]

Cuban Consul Depicts Origin of Rumba Dance

Ladies! Gentlemen! It's all a mistake. You haven't seen this Cuban dance, the "rumba." You're not going to see it—not in its genuine, unadulterated native performance. Senor Gaston Fernandes, Chicago consul for the republic of Cuba, begs to explain, out of the depths of his wounded national pride. For Senor Fernandes has viewed the American stage version of the dance ascribed to his country, and yesterday he took measures to justify his reproachful attitude.

"It is terrible! Terrible!" says the senor. "This thing they call the rumba is nothing at all like the dance we know in Cuba. It is, at best, a distorted, vulgar exposition of the dance known in my own country. I have to explain that the rumba originated with the Negroes in the eastern part of the island, and that it was something of an African rite. The colored population used to dance it by the hour, to the weird instruments called the bongo (drum) and the maraca.

"In its original state it was banned for five years by the governor of Cuba in 1912, because usually these Negro dances, which white people are not permitted to see, ended up in a riot.

"It was danced in the streets of the Negro section when they had a celebration, which was often, and it is what Americans call 'very, very hot.'"

This wild dance has been famed and refined by generations of Cubans, and that version is presented by Edwina Marchand and Nico Quiriqui, who danced it yesterday in the Midland Authors' room of the Hotel Sherman. They appeared under the patronage of the consul. While neither of them ever has been in Cuba, Señor Fernandes vouched for the skill of the interpretation. He will present them again a week from tonight in the Diana court of the Michigan Square building.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

GUERNSEY MEETING TODAY.

An outing for farmers of Illinois who are members of the state Guernsey Breeders' association is to take place today at Grangemead farm, near St. Charles. The program includes a series of talks in the afternoon.

Those scheduled to present their experiences include H. C. Horneman, Danville, secretary of the Illinois Guernsey Breeders' association, with a talk on the organization; L. R. Lounsbury, editor of a breed paper, "The Marketing of Guernsey Milk"; "An Illinois Farmer's Experience in Marketing Guernsey Milk," Roy Atwood, Grande Ridge; "A Guernsey Program for Illinois," R. L. Holden, field representative of the American Guernsey Cattle club, West Lafayette, Ind., and an introduction of prominent Guernsey breeders of the state by Mr. Horneman.

Judging of cows of the breed will occupy visitors individually, and also groups of Four-H boys and girls. Prof. C. S. Rhode, University of Illinois dairy specialist, and E. L. Pilchard, state club leader, are in charge of the judging. Fred K. Babson, owner of Grangemead farm, will be host for the day.

Summer Comfort for Baby Improves Health, Disposition

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Your's hot, and so you take a tepid bath and rest. Or you shed some more layers of clothing. You're irritable—or your husband is—and you realize that ten days of heat takes it out of you, physically and nervously.

The older children have local discomforts from the heat, and they can tell you about it. They—or you—take sun baths too long or too suddenly at first, and you know it because of the queer or unpleasant sensations that follow undue exposure to the sun.

You and, with your help, the older children can in these cases take measures toward greater comfort.

But the baby in summer is completely helpless. His comfort depends entirely upon the grownups who take care of him—upon their diligence and intelligence.

More and more has been learned about the care of babies, particularly in summer. This knowledge covers two things—the baby's health and the baby's comfort. In a way it is almost silly to separate them, because the baby's health is dependent not only upon things like correct feeding and time schedule, but upon his comfort. The hot or chilled, uncomfortable, restless, wet, irritable, overdressed baby does not eat as well, digest his food as well, sleep as well, nor play as well as the baby whose comfort is looked after. That is, the continuously comfortable baby will be a healthier baby.

Without going to seashore or mountains, right in your own home, you can secure a maximum of health and comfort for your baby, if you know how. Advice on care of the baby in summer will be sent out in the usual way through this department.

JELLIES AND JAMS MADE AT HOME ARE GOOD INVESTMENT

Every housewife has the chance to "get ahead" next winter by putting up fruit now. Sugar is low in price, and there are always bargain days for each fruit and berry.

A little concentrated effort as each fruit crop reaches its peak will result in a cupboard well stocked with canned fruits, jellies, jams and relishes from which one may draw freely throughout the winter.

Since fruit belongs in the diet and should appear in some form at every meal, the economy of a home supply is readily apparent. Cane sugar is ideal for all kinds of canning. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

BOYS AND GIRLS BUSY WITH LETTERS ABOUT SALLY BROWN'S PARTY

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Yesterday's mail brought a shower of letters from the boys and girls in and around Chicago who are anxious to be invited to our first party of the summer. It will be held at White City Amusement park on Thursday, July 2.

Most children know just what White City has to offer in the way of fun, for the fame of its rides and slides and shows and other attractions has been broadcast by every one who has ever been there. I think most of us like the high rides especially, because they are so thrilling and exciting, and there are so many of them we're sure to have a marvelous time. Then there's "The Dodgem," where you pilot your own automobile, and you may count on the fact that there will be plenty of narrow escapes from colliding with your neighbor's car, which makes it just so much more fun.

Those of you who have never had an airplane ride will get an excellent idea of what a trip through the clouds is like on the "Lindy Loop." The attendant will strap each of us into his own ship, and with a buzz and a whir-r-r we'll be off, with the sensation of actually being in an airplane.

All of this awaits the one hundred boys and girls who win invitations to the party. And to be chosen as a winner you must, as you probably know by this time, write me a letter telling me why you think you'd like to spend an afternoon at White City. Every letter must be in my office by next Thursday morning, for on that day I shall select the winners. Their names will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. So get busy and write immediately and do not neglect to give me your name, address, and age. Tomorrow morning there will be more news of this delightful party.

There's a Flower for Every Type of Wedding Ensemble

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday I was telling about a novel show I attended recently, called the Fashion Flower Promenade, put on by a well known stylist for the purpose obviously of promoting bigger and better flower sales. While I'm not in any way interested in the selling of flowers, still I don't know why flower sales shouldn't be given a promoting boost when you consider all the unattractive things that are boosted.

Anyway, at said Fashion Flower Promenade, the audience was treated to a parade of grand and scrumptious bridal bouquets. In case any readers are bride-ing this month and you have your eyes on the stately lilies for your arm, take a tip from the show and bind the lily stems in satin ribbon. Or, if you are going to carry a large arm bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, let's say, with a few gardenias dotted in here and there, leave a little nest in the center of the grouping for a shoulder corsage which, when you change into your going away costume, is all ready to be pinned on the suit.

The trick thing, now, is to know what boutonniere, what shoulder flower, what belt spray goes with what costume. There are going away flowers for the going away suit, as already hinted. There are clever little flower combinations to give just that contrasting dash of color to a yellow ensemble. As a matter of fact, a red anemone, or a little bunch of them, was pinned on a yellow suit, a ban don the hat picking up the red again.

A smart brown tailleur was shown with brown flowers, not artificial, understand. All the flowers shown for wear with suits were natural ones and the movement afoot is to get women to adopt the natural bloom for every formal and informal occasion.

It gives us a chance at a bit of originality and it is a warm and charming touch to a costume, no matter how simple. Many different kinds of flowers may be pressed into this decorative service to relieve the monotony of the single gardenia or the orchid twins.

Food Talk.

This is the season of the year when a cold meat platter often appeals more than hot ones. The selection and preparation of meats to be used strictly for slicing cold, however, are almost unheard of in many kitchens. If women could only adopt this practice, they would never give it up because it saves one's energy and disposition on hot, sultry days.

A variety of meats for cold service is possible. Baked or boiled ham, roast pork and beef loin, meat loaves, boiled tongue, and corned beef are some of the favorite ones. Of these the most popular is baked ham. A good baked ham is a company dish. Baking in the most exquisite way isn't much work and doesn't cost much money. For baking it is usually wise to buy a whole ham. A medium sized family will consume a ham to the last shred if it is well prepared. If a whole ham should be too large a half ham or a picnic ham [boned shoulder] may be purchased instead.

A good time to cook a ham of any kind is on the occasional cool day that does come along even in midsummer. If it is not convenient to wait for a cool day the early morning of any day will do. A fireless cooker is ideal for cooking ham, but lacking this, ham can be nicely cooked by simmering in any vessel large enough to hold the ham and be closely covered.

To develop the finest flavor and the best texture in baked ham it should be first boiled. Cider, ginger ale, grape juice, or water to which has been added a little cider vinegar are the best boiling mediums. A quart of cider diluted with a quart of water is sufficient to boil a good big ham. Keep well covered and simmer slowly for 2 or 3 hours. When ham is tender, remove from fire and allow the ham to cool in the liquid in which it was boiled. When ready to bake lift the ham from liquid, peel off the skin, stick cloves in the fat side of ham, and sprinkle with brown sugar.

Another good treatment is to spread a glass of apple or currant jelly over the fat side of the ham, then add fine bread crumbs and pat into the jelly. Bake in a slow oven for at least 2 or 3 hours. This baking of the ham may be done in the cool of the morning, too. Once the ham is baked it should cool thoroughly before it is put into the refrigerator. Use a sharp knife for slicing cold ham.

STEAMED BLUEBERRY PUDDING.

2 cups bread flour.
5 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons shortening.
1½ to 2 cups milk.
1 cup blueberries rolled in flour.

Mix the dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in the shortening with finger tips or pastry mixer. Add the liquid gradually, mixing with a knife to a soft dough. Add blueberries which have been rolled in flour with last few stirs. Turn into buttered mold or baking powder boxes, having molds not more than 2-3 full. Put on a cover and place the mold on a trivet in a kettle containing boiling water. Have water come half way up around mold. Keep water at boiling point, adding boiling water as needed and steam for 1½ hours. Serve with vanilla sauce.

VANILLA SAUCE.

2 teaspoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 tablespoons light corn sirup.

Boil the sugar, corn sirup, and water for 5 minutes. Remove from the fire, add butter and vanilla.

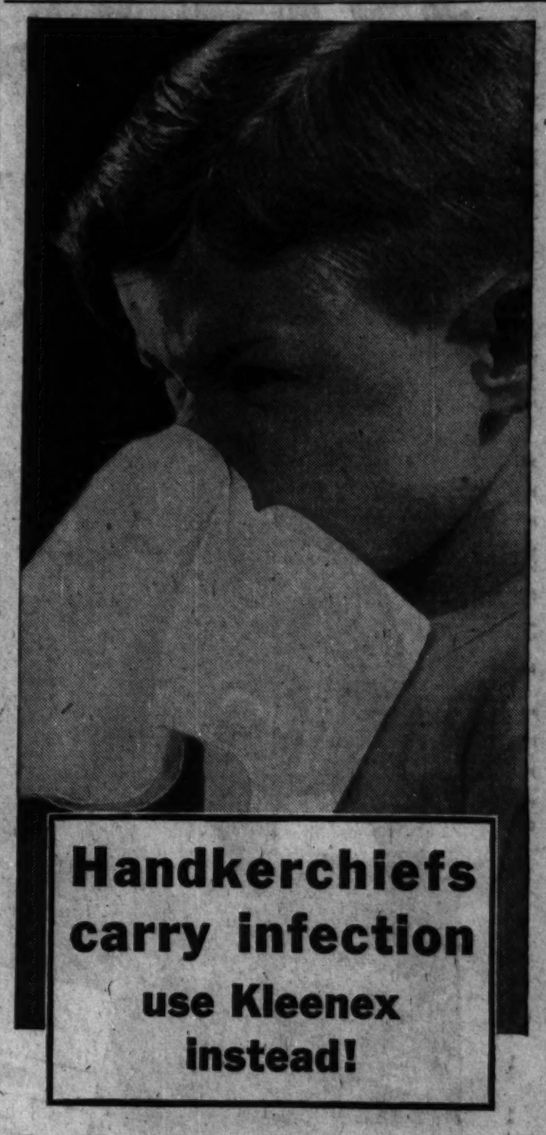
Eastman Offers Million for Belgian Dental Clinic

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 22.—(AP)—The City of Brussels is considering the offer of a fund of $1,000,000 by George Eastman of Rochester, N. Y., for a dental institution. One of the conditions of the offer is that the city supply an equal sum.



Handkerchiefs carry infection use Kleenex instead!

Disposable tissues safer... use just once and destroy

DON'T be careless about handkerchiefs! Most infection enters the body through the nose and mouth. No soiled handkerchief should ever touch your face. No soiled handkerchief should ever be stored away in a purse or pocket, or in a laundry bag to spread germs through other clothing.

Kleenex the solution

Kleenex fits in with modern hygienic knowledge. It is a wonderful discovery . . . a gentle, soft tissue, softer than linen, more absorbent than anything. And so wonderfully low in cost that you can use Kleenex and destroy it, for less than the cost of laundering a handkerchief.

Why risk health? Why carry a dirty handkerchief ever? Tests show a used handkerchief may contain up to 4,170,000 germs. It certainly is unfit to use or keep. Take the advice of doctors and use this new-type disposable Kleenex tissue. Particularly during colds and other nose and throat infections. Avoid self-infection.

Other important uses

These exquisite, absorbent tissues are useful in many ways. They are the accepted way of removing creams and cosmetics thoroughly and safely. Use Kleenex also for applying and blending cosmetics, for manicuring. Mothers find it invaluable in caring for young babies. Use Kleenex for applying medicines and for minor bandages.

Ask for Kleenex at drug, dry goods and department stores. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

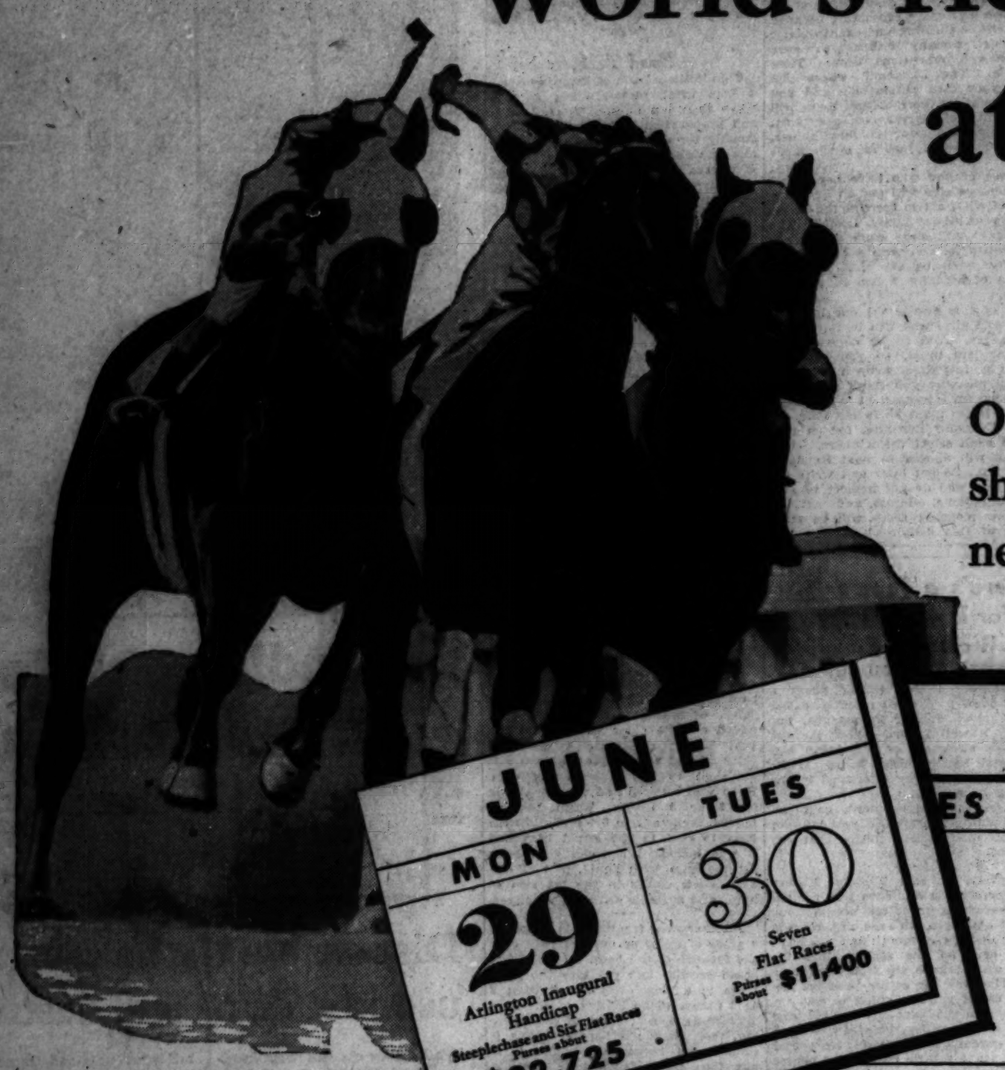
Opening third season of unique non-profit policy of shrine of sport operated for sport's sake only—brings new thrills, new glamour, new gaiety to Chicago



ONCE again, glorious Arlington, America's greatest racing shrine, opens to the public. Once again, thousands and thousands of Chicagoans and visitors will know the thrill and excitement of a keen horse race. For at Arlington, there is racing for sport's sake only and the breeding of the thoroughbred.

Arlington brings to Chicago the spirit of Belmont, Saratoga, Ascot, Longchamps with a non-profit policy that sport lovers everywhere acclaim as the greatest achievement of sport in modern times—a selfless policy never before attempted in racing.

Exclusive non-profit policy

Just think what this non-profit policy means to the public. Arlington does not depend upon betting for its existence, therefore the program is built entirely on the basis of entertainment. Each day there are seven great flat races, and three times a week you can see the most thrilling of all horse races, the steeplechase. The only track in the West where you can see a steeplechase.

The richest purses in America, $700,000 for 30 days of racing, are offered at Arlington to attract the greatest thoroughbreds and the outstanding jockeys. It is the only track in the world in which the lowest purse offered is $1,500. This assures the finest horses, jockeys, trainers, and owners in America and is only possible because every cent earned is put back into the purses and in beautifying Arlington.

Shrine of sport for sport's sake

All this was made possible two years ago when a group of Chicago's leading citizens met and subscribed a total of $2,000,000 in varying amounts from $25,000 to $150,000 up with the understanding that they were to get not one cent in profit or even interest on their subscription. They did this as a matter of civic pride—to lift horse racing in Chicago to heights never before thought possible—to attract a class of citizens never before interested in horse racing—for the breeding of thoroughbreds—and to give the public the opportunity of enjoying racing at its best.

Thrills galore at moderate cost

It is this policy that made Arlington, as was the intention, the mecca of sport lovers last year and which will once again attract them to this glorious spot beginning next week. For Arlington is operated for everyone—for owners—for horse lovers—for lovers of fine racing—for those with no particular knowledge or interest in horses—everyone who can enjoy a day of excitement at moderate cost in surroundings kingly and colorful.

You, too, will get the thrill of a lifetime when you visit Arlington this season. Plan to spend some glorious afternoons enjoying the thrill of racing and the glamour and gaiety of the crowds.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those champion Athletics hung around just a bit too long. They took one straight from the White Sox by hanging nine to their work, but on their attempted to make it four in a row yesterday they discovered things slightly different. Vic Frasier, a kid from Texas, wouldn't let them do it, the Sox refused to be awed by the pitching of Bill Shores and Ehrhardt. Consequently the champs were bombed in a manner that is pure proof that they actually have the world's title. The score was 8 to 2.

Frasier's pitching was of such a high variety that, even though he seemed to be fooling around with it a bit instead of his customary self, he didn't walk a batsman. Of the six hits the Macks collected, only two occurred in the first six innings. In contrast with defensive labors was his doubling with the bases full in the fourth inning, climaxing a five run rally that settled everything.

Bush Juggles Lineup.

The men employed in the Sox second victory since they whipped the Cubs in twelve innings on June 1 was a bit different from any of Manager Bush's recent creations. Ed Sukeforth was back on the bench with his annoying charley horse and his outfield was made up of Fonseca, Sime and Watwood. The infield remained unchanged, but Bush did shake them up slightly in the batting order. Simons became lead off man and Sime was dropped to third place. It proved to be the proper spot for him as he brought on the fourth inning rally with a pass and cleaned up the fourth round foray of three runs with a triple.

Frasier began so impressively that in the first three innings no Mack reached first. But the instant this jinx was broken a run resulted. Cissell opened the fourth with a two base drive to right center and moved to third on Haas' bunt. The infield chose to play for a possible play at the plate, but Todt's grounder to Kerr moved so slowly that there was no chance for a throw to first. It let Cissell score. Kerr tossed out Simmons to end a hard whack to conclude the inning.

Frasier Cleans Up Bases.

The Athletics began to spread in the fourth when Bluie walked. Fonseca attached a single to Bishop and Watwood filled the bases with a perfectly executed bunt toward third. The relay faded momentarily when Todt failed to Haas in short center. Frasier came to the rescue, booted Bishop's grounder which might have been a double play. This sent two runs across and kept the bases loaded. Todt was passed. This was where Frasier deported himself.

COCHET BEATEN IN FIRST ROUND AT WIMBLEDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Henri Cochet, the Athos of French tennis, was overthrown in the first round of the Wimbledon tennis championships in straight sets this afternoon. The rapier shots which the former world champion placed in any vulnerable spot he chose when he was the master of every tennis player, fell weakly today and Nigel Sharpe of England walked off the courts the winner, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

It was a sad experience for Cochet, who twice has won the Wimbledon championship and who in the past has always been imperturbable in recovering after he had permitted an opponent to gain an advantage.

The best match on the center court in today's play was the beating which Francis Shields, seeded young American, administered to P. D. S. Spence, South African Davis cup player, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, to establish himself as the one man with a chance of defeating Jean Borotra and winning the championship.

George Lott loafed through the first set against B. Berther of France, but lightened his game and played easily through the next three sets, winning, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2. Sidney Wood, the other seeded American, beat the Indian, R. Singh, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, while Johnny Van Ryn of New Jersey, galloped through his first match against F. F. Schaefer of Jugo-Slavia, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1. They were the only Americans who survived.

Gregory Mangin was beaten by G. E. L. Rogers, lanky Irishman. Mangin started off playing whirlwind tennis, but folded up after the second set, Rogers winning by scores of 0-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. Watson Washburn lost to W. Matjeka, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, and A. Brown of Great Britain beat B. C. Law, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4.

Maturity Is Not What It's Cracked Up to Be, It Seems

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, puts the younger generation in a bad spot with his discovery that education in America today tends to prolong infancy. If the undergraduate imitates the manners of maturity, he is taking frequent chances of being punished for conduct unbecoming an undergraduate. On the other hand when he wishes to conduct his play according to his own youthful pleasure, the general practice in the big schools is to remind him that he is only a youth after all and not yet man enough to run his football and baseball games.

Among the most prominent activities of maturity at the present time are sport, principally golf, and parties, both generally attended by the consumption of stimulating beverages. When a youth comes close to manhood, he makes the puzzling discovery that the respect which he used to hold for maturity was not well deserved and he is likely to feel that he has been kidded for years.

Exceptions to the Rule, Too.

There are exceptional grown persons who take life seriously, of course, but I should say that on the average the older set are just as much concerned with having a good time to the neglect or exclusion of serious ambitions and works as the younger set, if not more so. Moreover, because to them the dew is now off the rose and they have begun to realize that they are not going to live forever, their habits of play are not likely to be as innocent as those of youth.

The night clubs of Broadway and along the outlying roads in other cities are not supported by patrons of undergraduate age, and for all the literature about the alarming social tendencies of the undergraduates, I do not believe their conduct at their parties could be improved by imitation of the manners of their elders at theirs.

Parties Become an Occupation.

Anyway, in youth, the party is, or used to be, an occasion rather than a habit, whereas when he suddenly finds himself grown up he is likely to find that attendance at parties of one kind or another is an important part of his regular occupation. The conversation of his elders will have to do with the Starr Faithfull case and the Vivian Gordon case, with the question of the old ball versus the new in golf, with Peter Arno's experience in not being shot with a gun that wasn't loaded in the hands of young Vanderbilt who wasn't chasing him and, of course, with good old prohibition, drink her down.

The youth will soon come to the conclusion that the high and desirable state of maturity toward which he has been aspiring for so many years, tipping his hat to his elders and all such as that, is not as represented. But now that he is mature, himself, he can't go back. So his muscles get flabby and his principles too, and in a few years he must admit to himself that he is not half the man he was when he was a boy.

Playing at Being Old.

One sometimes sees excited parties of young people before or after big athletic events in various parts of the country, doing more drinking than is good for them and boiling around slightly wild eyed until the small hours of the morning, and because the participants are young one is likely to sigh that this is youth playing at youthful pleasures. But am I wrong in believing that this is only youth playing at being grown up or is it that when the elders do these things, as they do constantly all over this country, that it is age playing at being young again?

More likely it is the former because

YALE, DETROIT GOLFERS LEAD COLLEGE MEET

Reese, Ahern Turn In 73 Rounds.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jack Reese, who calls Johnstown, Pa., his home and who received his diploma from Yale university last week, and Randall Ahern of Detroit City college, tied for the lead at the end of the first 18 hole qualifying round in the thirty-fifth National Intercollegiate Golf tournament, played over the No. 4 course at Olympia fields yesterday.

Reese posted a 73 while the sun was still beating down on the field of 119 collegiate golfers hailing from all parts of the country, but Ahern came out of a thunder shower, through which the late starters battled for the last nine holes, with an identical total.

The qualifying round will continue with 18 holes of medal play today, the low 32 scorers becoming eligible for the match play program, which will continue for four days. The first two 18 hole match rounds will be played tomorow, the 36 hole quarter final Thursday, the 36 hole semi-final Friday, and the 36 hole championship match Saturday.

Illini Tied for Second.

Two easterners and one conference player are right on the heels of Reese and Ahern. Phillips Finlay of Harvard and Robert Moffet of Princeton were up early yesterday morning to make their scores of 74, but Jim Reston of Illinois waited until midafternoon to duplicate the performance.

George T. Dunlap Jr. of Princeton and Lawrence Moller of Notre Dame, who put on a great show in last year's final, in which the Princeton golfer won the title after having just completed his sophomore year, didn't cause any particular excitement in their play yesterday. George had a 78 and Larry an 80.

Milt Klein of Chicago and Gail Stockton of Southern California share third place with 75, while the group of 76 scorers is headed by Tommy Aycock of Yale, the 1929 champion. Tommy was surprised to find Frank Carroll, freckle faced New Haven boy who caddied for him during his victory two years ago, working at Olympia Fields and pleased to discover that Frank had been assigned to tote his clubs for him.

Yale Team Leads.

Seventeen colleges are competing for the team championship, which will be decided today on the basis of the four low scorers from each school for the 36 holes of qualifying play. Yale led at the end of yesterday's 18 holes with a total score of 309. Princeton, the defending champion, was second with 310, followed by Harvard, 312; Tulane, 312; Georgetown, 314; Michigan, 314; Notre Dame, 315; Southern California, 315; Ohio State, 317; Northwestern, 318; Chicago, 319; Illinois, 319; Dartmouth, 326; Loyola, 332; Colgate, 334; Southern Methodist, 337, and De Paul, 351.

Reese found himself in traps on the first two holes, but managed to get 5 on both. He made four on the third, when he dropped a 20 foot putt. He found his ball in the woods on the fourth, but good approaching brought him another par 4. He picked up his first birdie on the fifth when he laid his green shot five feet from the cup. He made the turn in 37, two over par. A trap appeared to have him stopped again at the tenth, but he came out of it for a par 4. He stayed in the neighborhood of par most of the rest of the way, except for the seventeenth, where he made a twenty foot putt for a birdie three.

Ahern Plays Cautiously.

Ahern, a resident of Detroit and a junior at the City college there, played a cautious game throughout his round, turning in 37 for the outward trip and coming home in 36. He had birdies on the first and twelfth greens, and was over par on

AHEAD AT SCIOTO

WILFRED (WHIFFY) COX.

COX SHOOTS 145, LEADS TRIAL FOR RYDER CUP TEAM

Columbus, O., June 22.—[Special.]—Scioto's rolling terrain, blistered under a flaming sun, proved too much for 12 American professional golfers today in the first round of qualifying play for the Ryder cup matches. Not one of the players made the first 36 holes in par.

Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn, winner of the north and south tournament at Pinehurst, made the best score of the day with 71—74—145, three over par. He was followed by Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., pro, who turned in a card of 75—71—146.

Cox burned the course during the morning round with his 71, one under par, but cracked during the afternoon taking two 37s, including a seven on the par four fifth hole.

Three Tie for Third.

Three others were tied for third place with cards of 149. Densmore Shute, former Columbus pro and now connected with the Hudson, O., Country club, went out in 38 and back in 36 for a 74 during the morning round and then faltered on the outgoing nine in the afternoon to take a 38. He was back in par for a 75.

Frank Walsh, Morton Grove, Ill., pro, also turned in a 149 with rounds of 34—38—39—38, while Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., after leading at the 27th hole mark, faltered in the last nine with a 41 to land in the tie. Walsh's 34 on the outgoing nine in the morning was the lowest turn of the day.

Turnesa went out twice in 35, one under par, but the homecoming nine in both cases proved too much and he took 38 and 41. Turnesa finished second to Bobby Jones on the Scioto course in the 1926 national open.

How Others Scored.

Craig Wood, Buffalo, N. Y.	72	78	150
Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.	73	77	150
Willie Klein, New York	73	78	151
Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn.	75	76	151
Al Watrous, Detroit	76	76	152
Olin Dutra, Los Angeles	77	81	158
Charles Hilzendorf, Detroit	77	81	158

The Americans will meet the British invaders Friday and Saturday over the same course after another 36 hole qualifying round Tuesday to determine the remaining four members of the American team.

Golden Withdraws.

Only Johnny Golden, professional of the Wee Burn Country club at Noroton, Conn., one of the 13 Americans nominated for the 72 hole qualifying round by the U. S. G. A., failed to appear. He had been paired with Walter Hagen, captain of the American team.

The four winners will be teamed with Hagen, Leo Diegel, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Al Espinosa, and Johnny Farrell for the final matches.

Today was a day of rest for the British team, which arrived in Columbus Saturday. They lounged around the club house and many joined in the galleries of the 12 competing players. Capt. Charles Whitcombe planned no heavy workout tomorrow, saying that his teammates would "hit a few balls and let it go at that."

PHILS CONQUER CARDS, 7-3, IN SERIES OPENER

Klein and Whitney Hit Home Runs.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—(AP)—A six run attack on Sylvester Johnson in the sixth and seventh innings gave the Phils a 7 to 3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals today. Jumbo Elliott, hurling his third game in five days, held the Cards well in hand. Whitney and Chuck Klein hit home runs. It was the latter's 13th of the year.

Roettger, appearing in the Cardinal lineup for the first time, led the St. Louis attack with three hits. Score:

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Charley Wood, young Pittsburgh southpaw, made his first start in nearly two months today and lost after a ten inning mound duel with Watson Clark of the Robins, 3 to 2. Wood went into the last of the eighth leading, 2 to 1, but Grantham's fumble of Babe Herman's grounder with two out paved the way for the tying run. Herman stole second and scored on Bissonette's single. Score:

BLISTERS STOP DE KORN IN GOLF MARATHON FEAT

Purchase, N. Y., June 22.—[Special.]—Blisters, the hoodoo of marathon runners, halted Leo De Korn in his marathon golf endurance test at 3:25 p. m. here today after he had played 246 holes without a stop.

His feet a mass of blisters, De Korn was forced to stop, although he was otherwise in fine condition. The previous record was 243 holes over a 5,500 yard course. The Purchase course is 6,520 yards long.

De Korn, averaging 99 strokes, hit the ball about 1,300 times and traveled 69¾ miles. Only two golf balls were used.

Carnera Fails to Appear; Promoter Asks Suspension

Boston, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—Baby Jack Renault, Cambridge junior welter, outpointed Darcy White, New Bedford Negro, in a fast 10 round boxing contest here tonight at Braves field. Primo Carnera failed to make his scheduled exhibition appearance against three towering Boston heavyweights and the Argonne A. A. management announced it would ask the boxing commission to put the Italian under suspension.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—The Cubs came over here from Brooklyn sore at heart, but tonight you may rest assured they are very happy boys. And why shouldn't they be—slapping down those wicked New York Giants by a score of 11 to 4?

And were there homers! Hack Wilson got his No. 9 in the fourth for the first run of the game; Rogers Hornsby drove in three runs with his No. 11 in the fifth, and Rolly Hemsley knocked his No. 1 homer as a Cub with one ahead of him in a brutal rally in which the Cubs made six runs in the last inning.

And that last inning, though superfluous, was something to talk about. Bill Jurges, for instance, made a double and a single in the one session. There were seven Cub hits in the inning, even though Hornsby and Wilson stood on their earlier accomplishments and struck out. The inning also saw a double steal, in which Woody English dashed home while pitcher Schumacher held the ball.

Only 1½ Games Behind Giants.

It was an especially exhilarating victory. It lifted the spirits of the Cubs, which prior to the game had been at low tide—the lowest of the year, perhaps. Those games which were lost in the ninth in Brooklyn had the athletes punch drunk to an amazing extent. The carryings on today had the added cheer of lifting the Cubs in the pennant race. Despite their three out of five reverses in Flatbush, tonight the Chicagoans find themselves only one and a half games behind the second place Giants and only four behind the slipping Cardinals.

Tomorrow there will be a double header, and Mr. Hornsby will start the only two gents who won in the Brooklyn series—Pat Malone and Bob Smith. Opposed to them will be two lefthanders, Hubbell and Mitchell. Both are very tough for the Cubs, but that 11 to 4 score makes the Wrigley employés approach the morrow with high hopes.

Hack's Homer First Run.

After Wilson had lined to Allen in the second inning Hemsley and Grimm walked. Jurges then made a single, but when Hemsley attempted to score he was out, Lindstrom to Jackson to Hogan. The play was very sour, for Hemsley didn't leave third until after the ball had been returned to the infield.

The first run of the game and the third Cub hit was that No. 9 homer

Cubs Fans! Help Mr. Hornsby Find Best Pitchers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Here's a little guessing contest for you Cub fans. You won't get a set of dishes or even a pony or even an auto if you guess the answer.

The riddle is based on the statement of Manager Rogers Hornsby, made before today's game, that he is weary of trying to juggle his ten pitchers for use on special occasions and against specific competition.

"I'm going to find myself five starting pitchers and each is going to take his turn every fifth day so long as he has his health," said Rogers. "This business of trying to pick spots for certain pitchers hampers them and doesn't work out so well, I've found. It is my notion that if a first string major league pitcher can beat one team he should be able to beat the other six if he thinks he can. When you start picking shots for him you destroy his confidence."

The Cub pitchers, in the order based on the number of games they have won, are Smith, Root, Sweetland, Malone, Bush, May, Bascht, Blake, Warneke, and Teachout. Now you check off Mr. Hornsby's five victors.

MRS. JONES' 84 LEADS WOMEN'S GOLF QUALIFIERS

June Beebe Accompanies Medalist; Gets 87.

While the 70 entrants went around the Midlothian course striving to qualify for the women's western open golf championship yesterday, Mrs. Lee W. Mida, the champion, sat by complacently in her cool green sports suit. Rules of the tourney exempt the titleholder from the trials.

Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire brought in an 84 and was medalist. Playing with Mrs. Jones was Miss June Beebe, Olympia Fields, who shot 87 for a tie for second low.

Miss Jane Weiller of Vernon Ridge, at the practice tee, remarked: "I am playing my irons better than ever before. Now it my woods will just work." Evidently they did, for she carded an 87.

Holes Difficult Shot.

Mrs. H. S. Sines, Olympia Fields, made the most brilliant recovery of the day. She sliced into the rough on the 180 yard fifteenth hole, but holed the approach from the rough over yawning sand traps which surrounded the green.

The fairways were spongy and prevented a roll on drives. The lightning fast greens had most of the players guessing.

The eighteen hole putting contest was won by Miss Josephine Morse, of Midlothian, with 36 putts.

Match Play Today.

Mrs. Mae Hoffrichter of Kewanee and Mrs. Elaine Lynch of Midlothian tied for last place in the second flight with 113 and Mrs. Mae Hoffrichter won the playoff.

Eighteen hole match play will begin today.

FAVORITE WINS FIRST MATCH IN COLLEGE TENNIS

Haverford, Pa., June 22.—[Special.]—Bryan Grant of North Carolina university, national clay court champion, and the favorite in the national intercollegiate tennis championship, which opened at the Merion Cricket club here today, narrowly escaped defeat. He had considerable difficulty in adjusting his game to the grass courts and was lucky to score a 6—2, 10—8 victory over Sheldon Morganstern of the City college of New York.

While Grant was floundering around, six other seeded contenders were advancing to second and third round objectives. Wilmer Hines, Grant's teammate and national junior champion; Robert Ryan of Yale, Donald Strachan of Princeton, and Bruce Barnes of Texas won their first round matches in straight sets. Edward Jacobs of Pittsburgh and David Jones of Columbia, who received byes, entered the third round in similar decisive fashion.

The only upset was the defeat of A. L. (Sandy) Weiner of Yale, by Lucien La Coste of Texas. La Coste won, 3-6, 6-0, 9-7, after Weiner twice was within reach of matchpoint. Clifford Sutter of Tulane university, the present titleholder, is not eligible to defend his title because he was absent from college the last semester.

QUESTIONNAIRE GETS TOP WEIGHT FOR BROOKDALE

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—James Butler's Questionnaire, winner of the Metropolitan and Brooklyn handicaps and second in the Suburban handicap, has been assigned top weight of 130 pounds for the Brookdale handicap, feature at Aqueduct on Saturday.

Kaye Don in Italy for New Record Attempt

GARDONE, Riviera, Italy, June 22.—(AP)—Kaye Don, British motor boat racer, arrived here today for another attempt to break the world's speed record in his boat, Miss England II. He probably will make his first attempt early in July.

He Who Has Gets Still More; Waggoner Horses Win Two

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mr. W. T. Waggoner, the multi-millionaire from Texas, probably didn't need the money but two of the thoroughbreds carrying his red, white and blue jackets, stole the whole show and raced away with the two best numbers on Washington Park's racing program yesterday.

If the Texas rich man bet on his two horses in a parlay he added quite a bank roll to his millions. When Calf Roper won the Hinsdale claiming purse he paid $6.82. Then when Zacaweista, the black son of High Time, carried the Waggoner silks to victory in the Oak Park purse, his price in the mutuel betting was $27.84.

Not a bad afternoon's work for any man's horses, and as getaway day nears, probably a lot of the horsemen, who have encountered bad luck this season and are wondering where the shipping money is coming from on Saturday night, were a bit jealous of the wealthy Mr. Waggoner.

They had no reason to be, for the Waggoner horses were considerably the best in both their numbers. Zacaweista, the long shot, won by three lengths to spare from Rusty in the Oak Park after taking the lead on the turn and threatening to make a runaway of it at the head of the stretch. Calf Roper ran a good game race and withstood a very courageous challenge from Amyvale late in the race to win by a head. Lahor, weakly ridden by Jockey Hanford, wound up in third place.

In the Oak Park one of the biggest plunges of the season came on Prose and Poetry just at post time. It drove the price from 10 to 1 down to 3 to 1. In the face of this plunge and some strong backing for Rusty, Ironsides, Martis, and Sister Zoe, the chances for a victory by Zacaweista appeared very slim. After letting Rusty, Crofton, Laros, and Black Comet fight for the lead to the bend, Zacaweista drove to the front and never left the result in doubt.

It has been a lean season at Washington Park for Trainer Roscoe Goose. Something always happened when the former star jockey got one of his horses ready to win. In other seasons he has been among the more successful conditioners of horses in Chicago.

He almost got even on the meeting yesterday with Scotch Made, a daughter of Bunting. With the tiny jockey, G. Elston, in the saddle, Scotch Made all but overhauled the even money favorite Baggage Maid in the stretch. She wound up beaten by a length. She paid $65.20 to place and $23.22 to show, and would have been at 111 to 1 if she could have headed Baggage Maid.

Trainer Goose had wagered only to win. "Pretty hard to do anything right when you get into a losing streak," was his comment.

Mate, the American Derby winner, left for New York yesterday. He will be allowed to take it easy at Belmont Park for a week or ten days and will then be returned to Chicago, where he will prepare for the Classic at Arlington.

His millionaire owner, A. C. Bostwick, remained on the scene with the colt and traveled east on the same train. Bostwick thinks Mate will trim Twenty Grand in the Classic. Nine out of ten other horse track people think otherwise.

Even a racing secretary who juggles figures from one day to the next takes time out to dream every now and then. Joe McLennan, the racing secretary at Arlington, had one of these dreams yesterday morning. Closed his eyes and could see Questionnaire, Gallant Knight, Sun Beau, Mike Hall, and, last but by no means least, taking his place at the barrier was Twenty Grand, the 3 year old champion.

"And who would win?" we asked McLennan.

Old Sun Beau improves with age far as looks are concerned. He hopped off the cars at Washington park yesterday acting as frisky as a 2 year old. Came here to take a crack at the western champion, Gallant Knight, in the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap on Saturday. Worked a mile and an eighth just before he left New York in 1:55 easily.

Nice training move for Sun Beau, for he isn't a good work horse. Seemed to say, "Bring on Mike Hall," as he was led away to his stall.

BEING COLLEGIATE HAS ADVANTAGES OVER ACTING OLD

Maturity Isn't What It's Cracked Up to Be.

in a season's contacts with college students in unsocial moments on their campuses they will be found to be much more earnest and, to grope for a word, clean, than people who have been out of college for, say, ten years.

It seems to me that urging the students to be grown up under the circumstances of undergraduate life is like tying a horse to a hitching post and yelling at him to run.

Mature Heads Make Decision.

There was a proposition to play a post season football game one day last fall and the officials of one of the schools concerned were against it on various grounds which sounded plausible enough, although the game finally was played and none of the disastrous consequences predicted then having since ensued. It was suggested that nobody had yet asked the members of the team if they would like to play, and at this the coach flew into a rage and said nobody was going to poll his team. They might not have appreciated the seriousness of the proposition.

So, in sport, at least, which is one of the most serious activities of undergraduate life, the responsibilities are so heavy that mature heads are required to make all the decisions, some of them intensely political, and even to run the games in the minutest detail. But socially it is only the undergraduate's sense of responsibility and his ambition which deters him from imitating his elders to his detriment.

I realize that I have wandered off the fairway of Dr. Lowell's theme, for in mentioning the tendency to prolong infancy he was dealing only with the retardation of education. But the idea automatically suggests a comparison between the social practices, the principles and the general deportment of young people and their elders.

Comparing the two, I should say that it is less a reproach to be told, "don't be collegiate" than "don't act grown up."

SPARK PLUGS IN LIFE PRESERVER ALMOST FATAL

Auburn, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Loretta Turnbull, young California outboard motor boat racer, told today just how close she came to death in the Skaneateles lake races Friday when she attempted to take a turn "wide open" while trying to hold a slender lead.

Observers, who saw her boat somersault, realized several of the boats just missed her as she bobbed to the surface. They did not know she had weighed her life preserver with extra spark plugs and would have drowned if a motor boat had not reached her almost immediately.

VOTE NECESSARY TO PUT TITLE STAMP ON BOUT

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association, yesterday announced that a proposed bout between Maxie Rosenbloom, white light heavyweight title recently vacated, and Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, former champion, would not be approved as a championship bout unless N. B. A. members voted to make it one.

Rosenbloom's title was declared vacant by the N. B. A. by a vote of the members. Gen. Clinnin said it would be necessary that a request for another ballot be made to give the fight, which is scheduled for Aug. 14 in New York, title significance.

Cubs' 3 Home Runs Conquer Giants, 11-4

himself as a hitter of importance. Shores' first pitch was to his liking and he lined it out to the wall in left field for a double. Fonseca and Watwood scored without hustling. When Jeffries rounded third, the return throw was almost back to the infield. But Jeff elected to test his speed against the relay man's arm. The ball reached the plate ahead of Jeff, but in the excitement Heving neglected to hold it. Frasier went to third on Simons' hit and scored with the fifth run of the inning on Shores' wild pitch.

Cissell Hits One.

The second hit off Frasier was a single by Mahaffey with one out in the sixth. Mahaffey rested on first while Bishop was fanning and Haas was popping to Jeffries.

Two doubles in the seventh inning served to produce the champions' second run. With two out, Foxx hit to left center for two bases and scored on Miller's two bagger to right.

Bishop booted Frasier's grounder to open the seventh and the Sox immediately concentrated on the matter of removing Mahaffey from the picture. Simons tried to sacrifice, but instead forced Frasier at second. Cissell singled to left for his third hit in twenty-five times at bat. In celebration of this, Blue whistled a triple to the right field wall, Simons and Cissell scoring. When Fonseca drove Blue home with a single, Rommel was called forth to put a halt to the gayety.

Yankees Here Today.

The last two hits off Frasier caused nothing more than a delay. Rommel exercised his veteran's rights by singling with one out in the eighth. He didn't move off first base. In the ninth, after Todt and Simmons had completed fourth futile trips to bat, Foxx doubled to left center for the second time, but Miller bounced to Blue to end everything.

The Sox meet the powerful Yankees in two games this afternoon. Ted Lyons will try out his new arm in one game of the double header and Pat Caraway will pitch the other. Joe McCarthy's choices probably will be Henry Johnson and Wells.

OUTDOOR MAT PROGRAM TO BE STAGED TONIGHT

Promoter Doc Krone's first outdoor wrestling show of the season was postponed last night because of rain and will be held tonight at Mills stadium. The first match will start at 8:15.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star and one of the game's outstanding heavyweights, will meet Frank Bronowicz, muscular Pole, in half of the double windup. The other main bout will match Jim Clinkstock of Oklahoma and Hans Steinke, both giants. The matches will be one fall to a finish.

McMillen, like Gus Sonnenberg, relies on the flying tackle in most of his matches and is expected to use the same tactics tonight. Bronowicz will depend on brute strength to wear his opponent down. Clinkstock and Steinke wrestled to a draw in a previous Chicago appearance. They weigh about 250 pounds and are noted for their rough and tumble methods of grappling.

There will be three supporting contests.

Jack Kid Berg Stops Lambert in 3d Round

Newark, N. J., June 22.—(AP)—Jack (Kid) Berg, British lightweight contender, stopped Tony Lambert of Newark, in the eighth round of a ten round bout here tonight. Lambert absorbed a steady beating and the referee finally stepped in to halt the bout when the Newark lad no longer could defend himself.

Finlay, the Redlands, Cal., golfer who made himself known when he went to the semi-finals of the National amateur tourney three years ago, only to lose to Bobby Jones, was graduated at Cambridge last week and heads the present Harvard team. He tossed in a couple of birdies to make his 74 yesterday, one of which was rather a surprise to him. He hooked his drive to the seventh green, and it bounded over within the vicinity of the second green. Using his midiron, he boosted the ball over a row of trees and it landed on the green, where he holed out for a birdie three.

Moffett Gets 2 Birdies.

Moffett, a thin bespectacled junior at Princeton, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs only 142 pounds, made two birdies in carding his 74, one at the eleventh on a 20 foot putt and another at the fifteenth on a good green shot. He missed a one foot cup shot on the seventh.

Rain Postpones Mandell, Myers Match Indefinitely

Janesville, Wis., June 22.—(AP)—For the second time, the ten round fight tonight between Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., and Spug Myers of Idaho, was postponed because of rain. The promoter of the match said he had not decided when the fight would be rescheduled.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

THREE YEAR OLDS.

SCARCELY was the American Derby over at Washington Saturday than racing followers began asking "Is there a really great 3 year old this year besides Twenty Grand?" Divergent answers from two opposing schools of turf thought immediately appeared.

The optimists cited Mate's triumph in the Preakness, when Twenty Grand finished behind him; discounted his third in the Kentucky Derby run in record breaking time, and claimed the Bostwick colt was back in form again Saturday when he came from way back and then showed great gameness in meeting Pittsburgher's sturdy challenge in a race the first mile of which was run in 1:37 3-5. They admitted Twenty Grand's greatness in the Kentucky Derby and Belmont, but asserted the running was made to order for him in each event. He downed Sun Meadow by ten lengths in the Belmont but the Hitt colt was beaten off Saturday.

Then listen to the followers of Twenty Grand. True, he was second to Mate in the Preakness, they say, but he was coming strong at the finish, after early interference, and was the best colt in the race. In the Kentucky Derby, Twenty Grand conclusively showed his superiority to Mate in time that was a new record for the race. In the Belmont at 1⅛ miles he again set a new time record and defeated Jamestown, considered with Equipoise, now out of training, the best of last year's 2 year olds. Jamestown, they say, lost the place to Sun Meadow through trying vainly to match speed with Twenty Grand.

On the returns to date, Twenty Grand adherents have much the better of the argument. In the Arlington Classic on July 18 he will have opportunity to settle any lingering doubts. That's just what his followers think he will do, no matter how many or how few take a shot at the Greentree stable champion's present title honors.

Looking Ahead.

There may be rocks and snags ahead
As I journey on my way,

I WILL NOT BE AFRAID.

Olin Knocks Out Dix in Less than 2 Minutes

Badgers Live Within Forty Miles of Loop

BY BOB BECKER.

The American badger, an animal that most of us associate with the west, seems to be reaching out for more territory and, according to a report from Barrington, Ill., is bold enough to move into Chicago and make himself at home only forty miles from the loop. The presence of this interesting burrower is another example of the variety of wild life found in Chicagoland and it demonstrates how some species can successfully maintain their numbers even in a thickly settled farming section.

With badgers near Chicago, as well as red foxes, opossums, raccoons, and occasionally coyotes, Chicagoland's wild life population is diversified enough to give any outdoor fan a thrill.

On Bateman Farm.

Floyd L. Bateman reports a badger family on his farm west of Barrington. Some time ago a resident of Kane county, Ill., told us there are badgers in that territory [either Kane or De Kalb], and that they are increasing.

The short legged, chunky badger was plentiful in many parts of Illinois in the early days. Today it still is found in various localities throughout Wisconsin and occasionally in northern Illinois. There used to be many in Cook county. In Jo Davies county they were quite common even as late as 20 years ago.

The badgers in Kane or De Kalb counties [assuming that the report of the animals out there is correct], would represent an almost unbroken line of badger families of many decades, because in early natural histories of Illinois we find one writer mentions, in the year 1858, that "they still exist in De Kalb county."

He Lives Underground.

The badger makes a good sized hole in the ground as an entrance to his den and these holes in the open country of the west are a real nuisance to horsemen. If a horse steps into one of them both rider and mount may go down. In addition to his den the badger also excavates some big holes when he digs for small animals, such as ground squirrels.

How they do make the dirt fly when they tear into the soil to get a meal of young ground squirrels, because the badger is carnivorous and must have meat.

CHICAGO STOCKS SURGE FORWARD, TRADING SPURTS

Join World Movement of Rising Prices.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Joining in the world-wide movement in security prices, stocks on the Chicago exchange surged forward yesterday with a vigor experienced on few occasions in the last twelve months. The day was the most jubilant that La Salle street has seen in many months.

The more cheerful sentiment inspired by the Hoover debt proposal penetrated all corners of the financial community. In the brokerage houses along the street the tickers clicked away at a faster tempo and board markers hurried to keep abreast of a fast moving tape.

Convincing Evidence.

To many of the tape readers the significance of the events in the last few days was somewhat hazy, but that did not prevent them from sharing in the better sentiment. To the man in the street it was the forward leap in stocks that furnished the convincing evidence that a ray of hope had pierced the overcast economic sky.

The gains recorded for the pivotal stocks by the New York tape were greeted with whoops of joy by the traders on the floor of the Chicago market. Shares of all descriptions here were bid up from one to three points and the volume of business swelled to 190,000 shares.

The utilities were prominent in the advance, but all classes of securities were caught in the forward surge and carried along for substantial gains. Outstanding in the utility group were Commonwealth Edison, Insull Utility, North American Gas "A" and Middle West. Edison crossed the 200 mark and wound up the day 3½ points higher.

U. S. Gypsum Is Favored.

The story was much the same in other sections of the list. U. S. Gypsum was particularly favored by buyers and the issue shot ahead 3 points on a moderate volume of trading. While not a trading favorite here, the issue enjoys considerable prestige and its future is considered bright. The company has made consistently creditable earnings records despite the depression in the building industry from which it receives a large part of its business.

Coincident with the announcement of the offering of a $32,000,000 bond issue yesterday by the Insull controlled Jersey Central Power and Light company the 6 per cent first mortgage bonds of the Commonwealth Edison company sold down 3¼ points on the Chicago exchange. The recession apparently developed in anticipation of the big Edison refunding issue which is expected to be brought out soon. The 6 per cent bonds of Commonwealth Edison mature in 1943 but are redeemable at 110 and interest on any interest date on forty days' notice. The drop in this issue yesterday brought it within a fraction of its redemption price.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Stocks on the Board of Trade were buoyant, following the trend in New York and commodity markets and good gains were registered all the close. HOOVER'S DEBT PLAN IS HAILED BY CHICAGOANS

See Settlement on Economic Basis.

BY O. A. MATHER.

President Hoover's proposal for a one year suspension of all war debt payments was hailed yesterday by Chicago financiers as the first real step toward settlement of international war debts on an economic basis. It was pointed out that the huge reparations, as originally imposed, were the product of war hitterness, while later both the Dawes and Young plans were based on political as well as economic considerations.

President Hoover's proposals for a one year moratorium of one year, however, is regarded as an initial step to bring about an international consideration of all debts growing out of the war. Furthermore, several Chicago bankers who were consulted by the President last week when the plan was being formulated believe that the plan eventually will be linked up with the problem of disarmament.

Regarded as Shrewd Stroke.

In their conferences with President Hoover, several Chicago and New York bankers advised that the proposal should be for a moratorium of at least two years and possibly for five years. These suggestions were based on the belief that a longer period would afford greater opportunity for international economic recovery and also produce more concrete experience on which a new plan could be based.

However, the fact that the President has proposed suspension of war debt payments for one year only is regarded as a shrewd stroke in both international politics and diplomacy. The next international disarmament conference is scheduled to be held next January and it is thought probable that President Hoover might hold out hopes for an extension of the moratorium and eventually a readjustment of the whole subject of war debts in order to pave the way for acceptance of American terms for further limitations on armaments. Furthermore, such a succession would not be without political advantage to the President and the Republican party in the next political campaign.

Seen No Adverse Effect.

No adverse effect on the finances of the United States would attend such an international moratorium for one year or five years, it also was pointed out. Of course, the United States would not receive either interest or principal on the vast sums loaned abroad. But heretofore such payments have been applied to reducing our own war obligations and in addition to surplus taxes have been used for the same purpose.

The retirement of our own war obligations had proceeded considerably further in the last decade than originally was contemplated under the plan formulated when the last Liberty loan was floated in 1919. According to Chicago bankers, the federal treasury now is about seven years ahead of that schedule. Therefore, if Liberty bond payments were suspended for several years, the treasury would still be up to schedule and a increase in federal taxes would be necessary.

MONTGOMERY WARD SALES

During the first five months of this year Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern, sold to customers approximately the same tonnage of merchandise as in the corresponding period in 1930, according to a letter sent out to stockholders by President George B. Everitt.

"The decline in commodity values has been passed along promptly to customers and as a result our prices are averaged about 15 per cent below last year and our dollar sales are off to the same general extent," Mr. Everitt says. "Despite this sales reduction, we have been able to maintain the excellent financial condition shown in our 1930 annual report and through an improvement in merchandising and expense control have materially reduced the loss reported for the first half of last year. We look forward to a continued improvement in the company's affairs as general business progresses."

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Robert West Stiner, formerly district field counselor for Bigelow Carpet, Willard & Co., has joined the Chicago engineering firm of A. Epstein company as vice president and sales manager, according to announcement made yesterday.

George A. Bishop, president of Industrial Shares, Inc., was elected a member of the board of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company by the directors. He replaces W. R. Burnham, whom he also succeeded as president of Continental.

Charles E. Skinner, assistant director of engineering of the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company, East Pittsburgh, Pa., has been elected president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Stanley T. Brooks, for many years associated with the former New York Stock exchange firm of Hayden & Co., has joined George H. Burr & Co., of New York, and will be in charge of the firm's trading department.

The Blaw-Knox Co., announced the appointment of Roger W. Andrews, as assistant to the president, as vice president and a director of Blaw-Knox International corporation. Mr. Andrews will reside in Paris and will be in charge of the company's European activities.

Life Insurance Companies Encounter Slump Problems

BY SCRUTATOR.

Declining values in the last year or two have brought many problems to insurance companies.

When the value of the thing insured drops to a point level with or below the amount of insurance carried losses mount. The moral hazard becomes a factor of increasing importance.

Risk companies cannot estimate exactly just what effect wilfull destruction of life and property has on their finances but they are able to make a pretty good guess.

One executive makes the statement that nine out of ten suspicious dwelling fires last year occurred where the owners faced immediate refinancing.

Fire losses in cities last year were the most severe in history excepting years when great conflagrations occurred.

Have Had Heavy Losses.

Nashville and Chattanooga have had especially heavy fire losses. Down in Ardmore, Okla., companies will not extend insurance to cover houses that have been vacant more than ten days.

The overinsurance situation is most acute on farms. After remaining comparatively stable for nearly a decade farm building costs began a decline in the latter part of 1929. This decline has proceeded to a point where the average amount of insurance carried exceeds the cost of rebuilding.

Seventeen stock companies operating in New York state in the last three years received $3,039,901 in premiums and paid out losses of $3,008,871. This is a loss ratio of 97.4 per cent, against a normal ratio of around 50 per cent. In addition the expense ratio was 43.5 per cent. Therefore, these companies had to draw on surplus to cover their expenses.

Mortality Ratios Rise.

The life companies have likewise had their troubles. A chart published by the National Underwriter shows that the mortality ratios of the majority of life companies increased materially in the last two years.

The moral hazard is present in life insurance, too. In New York there were 2,345 suicides last year. This was at the rate of 18.6 per 100,000 population—22 per cent above the average for the preceding five years. Three times as many men as women took their own lives.

These records do not, of course, include instances where suicidal deaths were made to resemble accidents. Many deaths from window jumping and asphyxiation by inhaling carbon monoxide gas which may have been suicides have been classed as accidental.

Life companies have tightened up in the matter of selling large policies to individuals. They have been holding informal meetings to discuss company practices and have made tentative rules regarding the total insurance a man should carry.

Agree on Average Risks.

It has been agreed that up to the age of 30 a man should be entitled to carry 12 times his earned income; between 30 and 35, 10 times; between 35 and 40, 8½ times; between 40 and 50, 6 times, and between 50 and 60, 3 times.

The companies are also discussing business insurance. They believe that the amount of business insurance a concern should carry on any man is about five times his salary.

Policy loans are another thorn in the side of life companies. Total premium notes and policy loans Jan. 1, 1931, amounted to $2,536,500,000, a net increase of 22 per cent over the $2,126,100,000 reported a year before. The ratio of total loans on policies to assets of all life companies was 19 per cent on Dec. 31, 1930, against 15 per cent at the close of 1929.

NEW YORK BOND MART RALLIES; GERMANS CLIMB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—The listed bond market rallied briskly today to the accompaniment of the heaviest trading since June 2. Total dealings in bonds on the stock exchange yesterday reached $12,357,000, compared with the June 2 total of $14,484,500. Although the bond averages showed the best gains in domestic issues, some spectacular rallies were made by the German issues.

German government 5½s, the Young plan loan, by far the heaviest traded issues in the entire list, domestic or foreign, closed with a net gain of 3 points for the day. The German 7s, the Dawes plan loan, moved up ¾ of a point, closing at par. The largest advance scored by any German issues was that of 13½ points by Harpen Mining corporation 6s of 1949, with warrants.

South American issues were much improved. Australian government, state, and municipal loans closed higher in quiet trading.

United States government bonds made a disappointing showing. All of the issues active yesterday showed declines. Losses for the day ranged from 2-32ds to 26-32ds of a point. This decline is explained in part by the fact that investors, corporations and others in their reluctance to buy general market securities in the past have turned to United States government issues for more or less temporary employment of their funds, so that with a reawakening of the security markets some liquidation of governments was naturally in order.

Notable gains for the day were made by a number of railroad and public utility issues and a sprinkling of industrial loans. In general the gains made by second grade issues were proportionately larger than in the case of high grade bonds.

RESEARCH GROUP REPORTS GAINS IN SALES BY STORES

Twelve retail department stores in cities of Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois, which are cooperating with the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Michigan, reported an average increase of 15 per cent in business during the spring months, it was made known yesterday at a meeting of the group in the Palmer house. E. H. Gault, professor of marketing at the university who is director of the research experiments, said many of the stores reported business increases amounting to as much as 40 per cent and are preparing for a steady increase during the summer and autumn.

Report N. Y. Central Adds to Lackawanna Holding

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Dow, Jones & Co. says it is learned that the New York Central railroad has acquired 54,100 additional shares of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western common stock, bringing its holdings to 131,325 shares. Stock purchased last year cost $5,337,297, or an average price of $98.66 a share. The aggregate holdings of the New York Central cost $16,131,447, or an average of $122.23. Under the four system eastern trunk line plan outlined by eastern railroad executives to the interstate commerce commission, the Lackawanna is allocated to the New York Central.

Price of N. Y. Exchange Seat Jumps $25,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Confidence of brokers in the future of the stock market was reflected today in arrangements made for the sale of a membership at $225,000, an increase of $25,000 from the previous sale. Up until the announcement today, transfers had been made at a steadily declining rate.

United States Lines Omits Preferred Stock Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—United States Lines, Inc., which operates eleven passenger and cargo vessels, including the Leviathan, today omitted the semi-annual dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock. The previous payment was 50 cents on Jan. 15.

The company's earnings, like several other shipping lines, have been affected by declines in passenger and freight traffic and recently negotiations were being made with the shipping board to return operation of the ships to the government. Net loss of $728,150 was reported for the year ended Dec. 31, 1930. Traveling rates for third class passengers to Europe were cut on March 2, the rate on the Leviathan being reduced from $175 to $146 and from $164 to $136 on the George Washington, America, Republic, President Harding, and President Roosevelt. These rates were from New York to Cherbourg. Other rates to European ports were cut proportionately.

Skelly Omits Payment.

Directors of the Skelly Oil company today voted to omit for the present the next quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on preferred stock, due Aug. 1.

The announcement of the action said: "It is believed the depression in the oil industry has substantially reached bottom and that the next major movement will be upward, but since the duration of present conditions cannot be definitely determined at this time the directors are of the opinion that until a change for the better is realized it is wise and provident and in the best interest of the stockholders to practice careful conservation of working capital and the most rigid economy in operations. The current policy of the company is directed toward those ends."

Directors of the Central Vermont Public Service corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock due at this time.

United Car Fastener declared a dividend of 10 cents on the common stock, payable July 15 to holders of record July 1. The quarterly dividend of 15 cents was omitted on Dec. 1, 1930.

Rand Mines Payment.

Rand Mines, Ltd., has declared an interim dividend of 40 per cent, equivalent to 2 shillings per ordinary share, or about 5 shillings per American share. An interim of 50 per cent was declared at this time last year.

Directors of Continental Gin company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, compared with 50 cents paid previously.

Directors of First National Bank of Pittsburgh declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share.

No action has been taken by directors of British-American Assurance company on the dividend due at this time.

BERLIN SHIPPING $14,600,000 IN GOLD TO GOTHAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—To restore depleted gold stocks in New York the Reichsbank is shipping $14,600,000 of the metal on the Hamburg-American liner New York, which is due here on Friday. The metal is coming to the federal reserve bank either direct or through the channels of one of the three principal commercial banks, Chase National, Guaranty Trust, and and National City, with which the Reichsbank has correspondent relations.

In view of the improvement in German affairs which has followed the proposal of President Hoover for a moratorium of one year upon both reparations and interallied debt payments, it is possible that further shipments of gold from Germany will be unnecessary. The $14,600,000 left Hamburg before news of the proposal had become public.

The shipment preceded the release of $1,127,800 of gold from earmark by the New York Federal Reserve bank Saturday. Since the first of the month there have been successive releases from earmark to an aggregate of $89,556,000, these releases being gold belonging to the Reichsbank and also metal owned by the Bank of France, the latter having released its gold here in favor of the Reichsbank in connection with shipments of gold by the latter from Berlin to Paris.

The small size of the release on Saturday, following releases of larger aggregate amount on Friday and earlier days of last week, reveals the progressive lightening of the strain upon the German mark.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

Business men are debating the possible effects of the potential $700,000,000 savings a year in railroad expenses due to begin on July 1. Of this amount $400,000,000 is estimated to be the saving through wage cuts and $300,000,000 to arrive via abrogation of the national working agreement.

Operating expenses of the Illinois Central railway last year exceeded operating revenue by $69,748, but through the receipt of $22,899,521 from the government under the compensation and guaranty provisions the company was able to earn more on its common stock than in 1919. The corporate income account for 1920 shows net profits of $13,484,841, equivalent to 12.29 per cent on the outstanding capital stock, compared with net profit of $11,880,619, or 10.87 per cent in 1919.

Midweek reviews of the steel industry tell how the government is sending back old equipment from abroad for sale in the American markets. The shipping board has some 800,000 tons of steel material which it intends to sell. Meanwhile, steel output is decreasing to new low levels.

The Milwaukee road handled 29,112 cars of freight for the week ended June 18, compared with 34,749 for the same week in 1919.

U. S. OFFICIALS KEEP HANDS OFF OIL PROBLEM

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Heartened by recent events, particularly the unit operation agreements in East Texas, federal officials are pursuing towards the oil industry, temporarily at least, a "hands off" policy. They are fairly hopeful that economic factors will compel the conflicting interests to conquer overproduction and the demoralized price situation.

Even the most sanguine royalty owners, for instance, cannot be enthusiastic about drawing oil out of the ground when they collect only 1 or 2 pennies a barrel from it. At that rate petroleum is far from being the black gold it once was called.

Prices of Grains and Cotton Climb.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Proposed financial relief for Germany has added more than $300,000,000 to the theoretical value of the wheat, corn, oats and cotton crops of the United States in the last few days, the grain and cotton trade construing the plan as the forerunner of better things ahead for agriculture.

All markets were swept sharply higher yesterday as bullish enthusiasm gained ground. Wheat at the high point was 4⅛@5¼c, corn 3½@5¼c, oats 2@2¼c, and cotton around $5 per bale above the low of last week. While the markets faltered for a moment after an early bulge, renewed general buying swept prices upward to a new high shortly before the close and the finish was at the top.

For the third straight day the grain trade had rumors that Washington was considering an announcement which would eliminate the menace of the farm board's immense holding of 200,000,000 bu or more of wheat from the market for some time to come. One New York house, Shields & Co., wired it was understood that a meeting would be held today to deal with the subject and the trade was jubilant over the prospect that the main depressing influence in the market at the present time would be removed.

Remains in Visible Supply.

While some traders were inclined to be skeptical as to the ultimate effect such an announcement would have in sustaining wheat prices, they were unanimous in the belief that one of the big factors in creating an extremely bearish sentiment throughout the world would be eliminated, although the wheat would still remain in the visible supply and would ultimately have to be sold. The prospective immense loss in the Canadian northwestern wheat crop, with the reduction in the Australian acreage led many to believe that the withholding of the old crop grain from the market, even for the period of 6 months would permit of the marketing of the new winter wheat to better advantage.

An opening bulge of 1⅞@2¼c in wheat based on the strength in Liverpool and in the stock market was lost almost immediately as the result of selling by longs who could not resist the temptation to secure profits, but on the break there was active buying and the market resumed its upward trend almost immediately, with the highest prices of the day made about the close. The finish was at net gains of 1⅞@2¼c, with the July, 59¼@59¾c; September, 60¼@60⅝c, and December, 64⅝@64½c.

Ignore Rain Reports.

The trade was in no mood to give consideration to bearish influences and ignored reports of good showers in parts of the Canadian northwest and of soaking rains in parts of the

A Four Year Old BUSINESS MAN

Eyes sparkling, he strides along beside his father. It is Saturday morning and he is making a deposit in his savings account, an important business transaction.

It was over twenty-five years ago when his grandfather first bought bonds from us. Shortly after the organization of our bank, his grandfather also became a customer of both banking and trust departments. His mother, when still a small girl, learned the lesson of thrift from her savings account, an account still on our books. Both his father and mother have checking accounts in this bank and his baby brother has a savings account.

We take particular pride in serving this four-year-old business man. We hope that as the years pass, he, too, will come to use the many services we offer.

Like the three generations of this family, many find the complete range of service this bank offers both convenient and worth while. Our officers in each department will be happy to discuss with you ways and means of best serving your interests.

In some sections, however, the crop is regarded as beyond help.

Winnipeg wheat kept pace with the advance in America and closed 1⅞@2⅛c higher, while Liverpool was 2¼@2⅝c higher, July in the latter closing at 62½c, while Winnipeg was 63¼c. Even Buenos Aires joined in the procession for higher prices and was 2¼@2⅝c higher late in the day, although part of the upturn in the latter was due to strength in foreign exchange. July wheat at Minneapolis was the only laggard in American markets, closing ½c lower at 55½c on selling which the trade regarded as for government agencies.

Short Covering a Factor.

That sentiment had become too unanimously bearish of late was the general opinion of the trade after the close, and in some quarters the belief prevailed that the technical position of the market had been materially weakened by the sharp advance, as the bulge was equal to almost 10 per cent of the price which prevailed late last week. There were 584 cars of new wheat at the various markets, of which Kansas City and Fort Worth accounted for 409 cars. Chicago had 1 cars of new Oklahoma grain. Export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 400,000 to 500,000 bu.

Sales of over 300,000 bu cash corn to arrive by the country prevented a runaway market in corn, but the December sold up to 59¾c, the best figure since May 16, and closing trades were ¾@1¾c higher, with the July showing the least upturn, finishing at 58⅛@59¾c, with September 57⅛@57¼c, and December 59½@59¾c. There was selling of July and buying of September by spreaders which narrowed the difference to 2c at the last, against 2½c on Saturday and 5¼c recently. Aside from the market change in sentiment were was nothing to account for the strength in the market, as crop reports were favorable.

Oats and rye were influenced mainly by the action of other grains, with oats gaining ⅞@1¼c for the day, the July closing at 27¼c; September at 27½c, and December, 30¾, the latter being at the highest figure since May 13. Rye gained ¾@¾c, with July 39⅛c; September 41@41¼c, and December 44½c.

RAILROAD NOTES

In spite of poor revenues, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois will continue to pay the regular interest on its funded debt, Charles T. O'Neal, president of the $30,800,000 road, said yesterday. Movement of agricultural products has been increasing, Mr. O'Neal states, and track forces have been enlarged. Some new rail will be laid soon. This will add to the investment of $77,422,000 already made in road and equipment.

Corn in Iowa and Illinois has been benefited by the warm weather and several rains in the last week, the condition of the crop remains at 85, according to advices to President L. A. Downs of the Illinois Central Railroad.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway in the week ended June 20 handled 27,696 cars of revenue freight, as compared with 28,032 in the preceding week and 24,601 in the corresponding period of 1930.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Move with Trend.

With the turn for the better in the general market, speculative demand for American Superpower has again quickened. This stock always moves in accordance with the trend shown by the major list. It reflects in particular any special moves in the stock in which it is interested. Principal components of the company consist of common stock and option warrants of Commonwealth and Southern, parent corporation, Electric Bond and Share and Consolidated Gas of New York. These, in turn, are interested in extensive utility properties in this country as well as in foreign nations. In recent years the policy of American Superpower has been to concentrate holdings in fewer companies, but not to control or operate any in which it has an interest.

Trading in Export Copper Spurred by Hoover Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—Foreign sales of copper started today under the impetus of the lowest export price in history and renewed confidence engendered by President Hoover's move to avert a moratorium in interallied debts and reparations. Approximately 100,000 pounds were sold abroad today on the export price being unchanged at 9.375 cents. This is the largest sale to be recorded in a morning in several months. The electrolytic price in London was quoted at the equivalent of 9¼ cents a pound higher than the market here.

REVIEW VOICES RAILROAD NEED OF HIGHER RATES

Prompt and favorable action by the interstate commerce commission upon the petition presented last week by the railroads of the United States, requesting authority to increase freight rates and charges 15 per cent, is urgently desirable in the interest not only of the railroads but of the financial and industrial welfare of the whole country, according to a review issued by Dominick & Dominick of New York.

"The necessity of the railroads' effecting every possible economy," the review points out, "has meant that purchases of materials and supplies and the employment of labor have been sharply curtailed. The decline in railroad revenues has thus tended to aggravate the business depression and, if continued, might impair the normal upkeep of their properties. Because of this situation, it is felt that many industrial concerns which are important shippers will not offer serious objections to the proposed rate increases. Moreover, organized labor will unquestionably be in favor of the higher tariffs since they should afford protection to wage schedules and employment.

"It is, fortunately, becoming more widely realised that the prosperity of the railroads is essential to the welfare of the United States. They are among the most important employers of labor and purchasers of raw materials and industrial equipment. Furthermore, owing to the large holdings of railroad securities by savings banks, trust companies, and life insurance companies, the soundness of these institutions is dependent in large measure upon the soundness of railroad credit."

TAX PAYMENTS CUT TREASURY DEFICIT TO $879,168,571

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—The federal deficit today was driven down to $879,168,571 by additional payments on the second instalment of 1930 income taxes.

Income tax payments tabulated for June 19, totaled, $41,032,043 and caused a decline of $28,935,000 from the preceding day's deficit figure.

Expenditures mounted to $4,118,605,675 for the fiscal year to date, while all government revenue aggregated $3,227,437,103.

The continued flow of income tax payments led treasury officials to revise downward earlier estimates of the year-end deficit to approximately $850,000,000, or nearly $100,000,000 below estimates of about a month ago.

To the close of business June 19, income tax collections had totaled $1,819,289,800 as compared with $2,358,262,844 in the corresponding 1930 period. Customs receipts aggregated $367,586,744 against $574,314,187 last year.

RETAIL STORES DO 50 BILLIONS TRADE IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—The first quantitative measure of the retail store business ever taken revealed today a fifty billion dollar business annually crossing the American bargaining counter.

Census bureau compilations of the forty-eight states and the District of Columbia showed a net annual store sales for 1929 of $50,033,850,792, with direct sales by manufacturers bringing the retail distribution total up to $53,139,865,224.

Thirteen states went on a retail roll of honor, showing more than the average number of stores per capita and also more than the average sales per store. This marked them as "states in which retail conditions are highly desirable" in the interpretation made by John Guernsey, who was in charge of the retail census. The states were: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington, and Wyoming.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Cotton goods were more active today. Sales of print cloths reached more than a quarter of a million pieces. Rayon high lustre yarns for velvets were scare in the markets. Silk goods were being cleaned out fast by some holders of odds and ends of spring lines. Burlaps were steady but quiet.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

ILLINOIS WATER SERVICE.

A subsidiary of Federal Water Service corporation reports gross revenues of $674,966.37 for the year ended May 31, 1931, as compared with $646,685.74 for the preceding twelve months. Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, other than federal income tax, totaled $344,045.36, as against $341,437.01. Gross income amounted to $330,921.01, which compares with $305,248.73 for the year ended May 31, 1930.

GARDNER-DENVER.

Net profit for the six months ending June 30 next is estimated at about $92,500 after all charges and taxes. This would be equal after preferred dividends of $70,896 for the period, to approximately 12 cents a share on 179,676 shares of common stock outstanding and would compare with net profit of $588,071, or $2.71 a share, on 190,144 common shares, in the like 1930 period.

AUSTIN NICHOLS.

For the year ended April 30 reported a net income of $124,587 after depreciation, interest, taxes and other charges, as against $212,302 in the preceding fiscal year.

4 N. Y. SAVINGS BANKS REDUCE INTEREST RATE

New York, June 22.—(AP)—The Bowery Savings bank, the Dry Dock Savings institution, the Emigrant Industrial Savings bank and the Union Dime Savings bank, four of the largest institutions of their kind in this city, announced in a joint statement today that interest paid on deposits beginning July 1 would be credited at the rate of 3½ per cent a year. The rate for the quarter ending June 30 will be 4 per cent. The aggregate of this interest will exceed $11,000,000.

The reduction was made because of the steadily decreasing yield on high grade investments, the statement said, and it mentioned the 3½ per cent interest paid on the recently floated bonds of the United States government as an example.

Estimated receipts at Chicago Tuesday: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 26,000; sheep, 9,000.

Hogs scored a sharp recovery yesterday and made another decided move toward $8.00 which many in the trade expect hogs to bring before the end of the week. Activity featured the market and few remained in the pens at the close. Demand was brisk on both local and shipping account, another rise in the wholesale price of fresh pork bringing smaller city butchers and packers on the market for additional numbers in mid-session and later.

Fresh pork loins are selling 2@3c above a week ago. The extreme top for hogs yesterday advanced 25c at $7.80, only 5c above the high point last Friday. The general average jumped 21c at $6.90. These prices show gains of 45@55c compared with a week ago. Hog receipts at 35,000 were smaller than any Monday in June since 1926. Only four Monday totals this year have been smaller.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.80.

Sellers turned down bids of $7.60 for today's hogs on the "to arrive" market yesterday. Light weight packing sows were bid $6.10 for today. July and August light weights were bid $7.50 and September light were bid $7.40. The latter were offered at $8.25. Mediums for September were bid $7.65 and heavy grades for September carried bids of $7.80 and were offered at $8.00.

More than 20,000 cattle were unloaded on the Chicago market yesterday and buyers succeeded in cutting prices as much as 25c in some divisions of the yards. Best grades of yearlings were scarce and in good demand at last week's closing quotations, but the bulk of offerings showed a reduction. There was a better tone noted toward the close when only 6,000 were estimated for today's session. Other points reported liberal supplies.

The seven leading markets handled 62,000, against 60,000 a week ago and 56,000 two weeks ago. Only five daily totals this year have been larger. Choice $94 and 972 lb yearlings brought $8.75, while the bulk of sales held at $7.00@8.10. Butcher stock sold mostly 25c lower. Best calves were steady and others ruled weaker.

Lamb in Good Demand.

Outlet for lamb is broad again and some of last week's losses have been recovered on the wholesale market. Inferior grades of Texas stock have been worked off the market and the trade now is depending almost entirely on the new crop of lambs. Live lambs sold readily at strong prices and sorting was lighter.

Most closely sorted lambs sold to packers at $8.35, with top to city butchers at $8.50. The Idaho range lambs were sorted lightly at $8.25. Aged sheep and yearlings showed a better tone at the recent decline. Supplies are running smaller. The total at Chicago yesterday at 10,000 was smallest for Monday since Aug. 4, 1930.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs and 9,000 sheep, against 5,689 cattle, 20,105 hogs and 14,139 sheep, the previous Tuesday and 4,838 cattle, 31,280 hogs and 9,860 sheep, a year ago.

SHOW INCOME GAIN.

The 105 telephone companies reporting to the interstate commerce commission show a gain of 2 per cent in operating net income for the first quarter of the year as compared with 1930.

COTTON UP $3.50 A BALE

Big, broad fluctuation markets were on in cotton yesterday. In New York prices were around 45@50 points higher at the opening on a sharp advance in Liverpool, which finally closed 32@33 points higher with spot sales 6,000 bales. The market broke 20 points in New York on southern selling, advanced 35 points on general buying and finally closed around the best prices of the day with futures in Chicago un 64@ 68 points. New Orleans made the same net advance as Chicago, with New York un 60@71 points. Spots in New York led the upturn with an advance of 70 points, equal to $3.50 a bale, the price being 9.75c, or a jump within a short time of over $5.00 a bale. New Orleans was up 60 points at 9.66c, Galveston 9.66c. Trade buying and short covering, with a removal of bedsprings contributed toward giving the market new life and brought in buyers who have not been interested for a long time. The Hoover plan also had a great deal to do with the change in sentiment in favor of the constructive side. Weather in the middle belt was hot with temperatures around 100 degrees.

New York reported sales of printed cloths Saturday at around 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 yds at full market prices, and it was said that converters look for increased business during the next 30 to 60 days. Exports for the season aggregate 6,451,000 bales, against 6,481,775 bales last year. Prices follow:

World Sugar Conference Opens Meeting in London

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—The initial meeting of the international sugar council since the adoption of the Chadbourne plan opened today to last a month. Francis E. Powell, Anglo-American business man, is presiding. The chief topic for consideration is the petition of sugar producing countries not included in the plan. Members of the council hope they will put into effect within their own countries something similar to the Chadbourne scheme of production quotas.

U. S. Engineers Leave to Build Russian Steel Plant

Ten engineers of Arthur G. McKee & Co., engineers and contractors of Cleveland, plan to sail from New York soon for Russia, where the firm is designing and supervising construction of a large iron and steel plant for the soviet government. The new plant is located at Magnitogorsk, in the Ural mountains.

Otis Partners Resign; Firm Continues Banking

Following the complete segregation of its brokerage and investment business, Otis & Co. has announced the resignation of Charles A. Otis and M. C. Harvey as partners in the firm. Mr. Otis and Mr. Harvey will become associated with E. A. Pierce & Co., members of the New York Stock exchange, to whom Otis & Co.'s brokerage business was recently transferred. Richard Inglis and J. O. Eaton have also resigned as members of the firm, according to the announcement. Mr. Eaton will devote all of his time to the Eaton Axle and Spring company, of which he is the founder and chairman of the board. Otis & Co. will continue its investment banking business as in the past in the principal cities of the country, including Cleveland, the main office; New York, Chicago, Denver, Pittsburgh, Toledo, Columbus, Cincinnati and Detroit.

Walter Head Resigns as Chairman of Omaha Bank

Resignation of Walter W. Head, Chicago and Omaha banker, from the board of directors of the Omaha National bank, has been accepted by the board. Mr. Head was formerly president of the bank, leaving it to accept the president's chair at the Foreman State National bank at Chicago. He occupied that position until the recent absorption of the Foreman bank by the First National bank of Chicago. He will retain his stock interest in the Omaha bank.

Mrs. G. H. I.* of 1310 Howard Street tells of an interesting experience with Tribune Want Ads as follows:

"Two Sundays ago I placed a want ad in the Tribune offering a full set of dinnerware for exchange. I received in answer to this one ad 69 letters, offering me everything from revolvers, tuxedos, etc., to acreage in northern Wisconsin. I exchanged the set for a lovely oil painting by a well-known artist and, best of all, we are both satisfied."

The paint is like new, upholstery and equipment perfect, and you can buy it at a tremendous savings from the new car price and in addi- tion 25% under the market at our price of $1,075.

DODGE 1929 SEDAN. This is the D. A. model, and one very much in demand at this time. Its appearance is such that it looks like brand new. The mileage is very low; and covers on front and rear, and much equipment included. Mechanically it operates smoothly and quietly, carries our guarantee, and offered way below its actual market value, at $495.

GRAHAM EIGHT 5 PASS. Model 827, 1929 model with 100 h. p. motor and 4 speed transmission; traded in for a new car having had but slight service and is as good as new mechanically and physically. Has fender wells, 6 wheels and 6 tires, and no good every way you can't spend a penny on it. This model has regularly sold for $1,350—our sale price today to the first per- son who sees and rides in it—only $935.
